Anti-Missile Rocket Paraded in Russia

Military Men Doubt New Weapon's Worth

LONDON (Reuters)—Claims by Russia that it has an effective anti-missile missile are strongly doubted in Western military circles, informed observers said here today.

They were commenting on Moscow reports by Marshal Sergei Biryuzov that Russia has rockets "which destroy the enemy's rockets in the air."

The observers said the claims were mainly for home consumption to dispel fears that Russian signature of the nuclear test-ban treaty has in any way impaired Soviet security.

In fact, Western observers believe the treaty may inhibit anti-ballistic missile programs and the Soviet government has resigned itself to a period without effective defence against the intercontinental ballistic missile.

By PETER JOHNSON

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia today unveiled what it claimed was an anti-missile missile, capable of "hitting any up-to-date air-space attack weapons."

Four of the rockets were included in today's parade marking the 46th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. Premier Khrushchev, who watched the parade in Red Square, has said the missiles can "hit a fly in space."

As the rockets rolled past the Red Square saluting stand at the base of Lenin's tomb, a commentator said: "These rockets have great military possibilities and can attain hits on all means of air and space attack."

Tass news agency said today's parade included, for the first time, a "unit of long - range guided interceptors."

Tass said: "At recent exercises these long-range anti-aircraft rockets proved capable of hitting any up-to-date airspace attack weapons."

TOP LEADERS WATCH

On the reviewing stand with Khrushchev were President Leonid Brezhnev, Defence Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky and other top leaders.

The four pointed missiles, about 60 feet long, appeared toward the end of the 10-minute parade which was otherwise unchanged from this year's May Day display.

They followed two sets of smaller ground-to - air rockets. One of the sets represented the type Russia said shot down the United States U-2 spy plane piloted by Francis Gary Powers in 1960.

The reported anti-missile missile is a two - stage rocket, smaller than the ground-attack rockets displayed but bigger than any of the other ground-to-air rockets hauled through the square.

A U.S. defence department spokesman told the Senate foreign relations committee in August the Pentagon is convinced that American efforts to develop defences against intercontinental ballistic missiles "are comparable in magnitude and success with those of the Soviets."

OUTLINES PROBLEMS

Dr. Harold Brown, director of defence research and engineering for the defence department, told the committee the critical factor was development of a system that could detect approaching missiles soon enough, discriminate between decoys and warheads, "handle large volumes of traffic and hit and kill the targets."

In contrast to this view, Dr. Edward Teller, nuclear physicist known as the father of the hydrogen bomb, told the committee he believes "the Russians have acquired the knowledge" needed for an anti-ballistic missile system.

The new Soviet rocket was shown after Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, the Soviet defence minister, said in his annual address from atop Lenin's tomb that the Soviet forces are equipped with the latest techniques to deliver a crushing blow to any attack.

But Malinovsky's speech, which he has made every year since he became defence minister in 1957, seemed less bellicose than usual.

There was only one direct reference to the United States. This time the United States was told that "unceasing provocations against revolutionary Cuba" were hampering efforts to lower international tensions.

Otherwise the usual warnings were couched in general terms.

Poison Gases Brewed

PRETORIA (AP)—South African defence scientists are working on "deadly gases known to be capable of massive devastation comparable with the nuclear bomb," says Professor L. J. Le Roux, vice-president of the National Council for Scientific and Industrial Research.

Speaking Wednesday at a meeting of the Association for Advancement of Science, Le Roux said gas was coming back as a low-cost military weapon of frightening destructive power.

Le Roux said South Africa's defence research council realized chemical and bacteriological warfare no longer was as impracticable as it had been during the early stages of the Second World War, and a special group of scientists are learning everything there is to know about virulent poisons such as Tabun, Soman and Sarin developed in Nazi Germany and now known to be in Russian hands.

These poisons, he added, are capable of being delivered in a vast quantity by aircraft or long-range missile, and then can have a destructive effect similar to that of a nuclear bomb of 20 megatons.

. . . rosy future

Fundamental Shift Seen In Wheat

REGINA (CP) — Trade Minister Sharp said today Canada's long-term wheat contracts with Communist countries indicate a fundamental shift in the pattern of world wheat trade, with Red China showing every sign of becoming a permanent, substantial importer and Russia likely to be a significant buyer periodically.

Mr. Sharp, addressing the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, forecast a rosy immediate future for Prairie farmers who this fall are harvesting an all-time record wheat crop of 703,000,000 bushels.

"If traditional markets take their regular supplies—and I see no reason to think otherwise for the next couple of years at least—we can look forward to a very substantial movement of wheat up to at least July 31, 1966. . . ."

Canaveral ICBM Runs Wild

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—A minuteman "Instant ICBM" veered wildly out of control and blew up a scant few hundred feet above Cape Canaveral today, raining fiery wreckage over the missile test centre.

Chunks of solid - propellant, burning furiously, touched off fires over a dozen spots on the 15,000-acre Moonport U.S.A.

The air force speedily announced there were no personnel injuries as a result of the spectacular, multi-million-dollar failure. Most of the wreckage appeared to have fallen in unoccupied areas of the cape. The failure spelled a quick end to a planned attempt to shoot the rocket about 5,000 miles over the Atlantic Ocean.

PERFECT COUNTDOWN

The 54-foot Minuteman bolted from the bottom of a concrete-lined launching silo at 12 noon EST, after a perfect countdown. Almost from the start, the flight was a failure.

The gleaming white rocket, instead of climbing into the blue sky, suddenly nosed downward. As the nose turned at the ocean and the fiery tail swung upward, a range safety officer on the cape flipped a pair of switches.

Instantly, a radio signal was backed at the errant missile, touching off an explosive "destruct" package that blew it into a hundred pieces.

Rescued In Good Condition

LENGEDE, West Germany (Reuters) — Technical skill, luck and courage snatched 11 miners from a perilous "tomb" 185 feet below the surface of the earth today.

The 11 men, trapped two weeks in a flooded iron ore mine here, were brought to safety on the surface in a tense, 57-minute operation. Though haggard, filthy and in rags, they appeared to be in good condition.

The 11 men emerged one by one from a slim, winch-raised steel capsule running up and down an escape shaft drilled to their underground cavity in a dangerous, round-the-clock operation.

Top technical skill was required to make sure the dangerously loose rock above the cavity did not collapse and crush the men to death in the last phases of the operation.

LOWER 2 VOLUNTEERS

Luck played its role in that the trapped men confused north and south when mapping the cavity and sent up "wrong" measurements through their supply shaft — measurements which, in the end, turned out to be right and meant that the drill penetrated the cavity in the most favorable spot "by a pure mistake," as an engineer put it.

Courage was required of the two miner volunteers who went down the escape shaft through the treacherous earth and rock to help the trapped men into the capsule.

They, too, returned safely to the surface.

But the joy of today's victory over death was marred by the fact that 29 other miners died in the sudden flood which turned the iron ore mine into a catacomb of terror.

Three other miners were rescued last week in a similar escape shaft drilling operation.

Wives and relatives of the trapped 11 waited to greet their men. Many of the waiting people were in tears.

TENSION EASES

The mine's siren sounded long and loud to signal the success of the operation—one of the most dramatic in mining history—and the waiting people broke into applause for the first time as the tension broke.

Success in the rescue was assured when the giant drill broke through the underground gallery during the night without causing the roof to collapse.

The first miner up was Heinz Kull, 51, father of three children.

He wore dark glasses to protect his eyes and doctors helped him away.

Fifty-seven minutes later up came the 11th man, Bernhard Wolter, 38.

RESCUE ON TV

Millions watched this last act of the mine drama on West German television.

After happy reunions with their families, the men were taken by ambulances to hospitals for further examination.

Biculture Crisis 'Threat to Nation'

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is in a state of emergency that can jeopardize its very existence, said Andre Laurendeau, co-chairman of the royal commission on biculturalism and bilingualism, as the commission opened a two-day preliminary hearing here today.

LAURENDEAU
. . . hopes for debate

Mr. Laurendeau, editor of Montreal Le Devoir, said in an opening statement that the commission will not arrive at "useful conclusions" unless it maintains close contact with "informed and lively public opinion."

He expressed the hope that "an honest and serious debate on the crisis through which we are passing will spread from one end of the country to the other."

Co - chairman Davidson Dunton, president of Carleton University, added that Canada is facing questions as serious as those faced at the time of Confederation. There was a growing demand for a new look at Confederation.

The co-chairmen commented on the commission's terms of reference as the 10 - member body prepared to hear views from more than 80 witnesses on the adequacy of the terms.

'Please, No Smoke Screen

OTTAWA (CP) — A 16-man delegation of Quebec Liberal MPs from Quebec marched in a body through a light drizzle from Parliament Hill to say that the biculturalism inquiry "must not constitute a smoke-screen to delay the radical changes required."

Jean - Pierre Cote, member for Longueuil, spokesman for the group, read a statement which said every Canadian "should have access to French or English culture, according to his choice, throughout the country."

NDP DELAYS VOTE BID

A search for more evidence of irregularities has delayed the New Democratic Party's bid to upset the provincial election result in Vancouver Burrard.

Lawyer John Laxton said today he has asked volunteer workers to conduct more research into the actual number of people left off the voters' list in the Sept. 30 election.

Mr. Laxton had planned to file a petition to nullify the election at Victoria today.

"It may now be a day or so," he said.

SKIDDED 2,000 FEET INTO CABBAGE PATCH

'Miraculous Escape' From TCA Jet

LONDON (CP)—Ninety-seven persons made a miraculous escape Wednesday from a huge TCA jet airliner that plowed into a muddy cabbage patch when it failed to get off the ground during takeoff from fog-shrouded London Airport.

The Trans-Canada Air Lines DC-8F was badly damaged, but its human and radioactive cargo was brought out safely and quickly.

A special plane carrying TCA investigators arrived here from Montreal. They went straight to the scene of the crash.

A TCA spokesman said: "Our experts prepared to fly to London as soon as news of the accident reached Canada . . . Until they make a report we are not prepared to comment."

The aviation ministry started an investigation into the cause of the accident.

Canadian businessman H. E. Kent of Guelph, Ont., led other passengers, some of them dazed and in a state of shock, through the cabbages, to a nearby road.

"Everything seemed very normal as we taxied out for takeoff," he said. "All of a sudden the engines cut and we felt the brakes going."

NOBODY PANICKED

"There were some terrific jolts and a sudden stillness. There was an emergency window beside me which I pushed open and started bailing out. Nobody panicked. The hostesses and steward were wonderful—very calm and very efficient."

Airport personnel, hampered by the fog that was thick in patches, poured gallons of foam on the 185-ton aircraft that was carrying a full load of fuel—18,000 gallons of high - grade kerosene — for its first stop, Montreal.

One engine was in flames but the fire was put out quickly.

Four persons received injuries. A doctor at the hospital where the four were taken said their condition was not serious but it was doubtful if they could travel today.

Ninety passengers were aboard the plane and an all-Canadian crew of seven.

Injured passengers were identified only as Mrs. Brownbill and Mrs. Ellen Lee, about 45, of Toronto, Mrs. A. McKinnon, bound for Winnipeg, and D. Tamboulis, bound for Vancouver.

Mrs. Lee was reported to have a concussion. The stewardess, Barbara Dammer, suffered a gashed arm.

RADIOACTIVE STUFF OK

Three parcels of radioactive material packed in lead containers were in a safe at London Airport today after they were recovered from the damaged plane.

An airline spokesman said they could have had no effect on the plane's instruments.

Everyone aboard — including three infants—was out of the plane in 90 seconds but it took rescuers more than 30 minutes to find the crash scene because of the fog.

The captain of the plane—flight TC-861—was Capt. Michael Found, a veteran of the Atlantic run.

JACKSONVILLE, N.C.—A U.S. marine lieutenant's complaint that he received neither his Bible nor a Playboy magazine subscription as promised resulted in the arrest of two young men on charges of obtaining money under false pretense.

Sheriff Tom Marshall said the lieutenant, who declined to disclose his name, complained that he had purchased a Bible with the understanding that the magazine would be a bonus. David Lee Miller, 28, and Woodrow Wilson Carter Jr., 17, were arrested Monday as a result of the marine's complaint.

The two young men, Marshall said Wednesday, had made sales to about 20 persons in the Jacksonville area in amounts ranging from $5 to $25. He said they offered the Bible at $15 with a choice of magazines—including Playboy—as a bonus.

DENVER—A woman called the city attorney's office Wednesday to report that her landlady, a voodoo practitioner, had threatened to kill the woman's daughter by putting a lock of her hair in a green hollow tree.

Asst. City Atty. Richard Plock asked her if she had called the police.

"Oh, the police are scared to come out here," the woman replied. "My landlady said she'd magic them into toads if they bother her."

They said their horse died five minutes after the injection.

CANTON, N.C.—A reporter for the Waynesville Mountaineer weekly newspaper received a telephone call from a man who reported his son "ran away from home three months ago and we haven't heard from him since."

Reporter William Lowery asked the man why his son had run away and the man replied, "I don't know. Me and Emmy were so good to him."

"How old is he?" Lowery asked.

"He's only 44," the father replied.

VANCOUVER—A reporter went to a Wednesday night meeting of the Nevertouchem club of the Non-Smokers Association, and became the prime concern of all.

He smoked—and this is what happened:

J. D. Lewis of Pullman, Wash., offered him help from the Nicotine Unlimited Club whose password is "coffin nails."

Association vice-president Annie Cook offered a lapel badge but fled in confusion when she noticed the cigarette smoke.

Association secretary-treasurer gave him a licorice stick to chew.

The reporter was told he could get: lung cancer, emphisema, heart disease, chronic bronchitis, liver ailments and a host of other unpleasant physical breakdowns.

Provincial Health Minister Eric Martin, who quit smoking himself, told the meeting cigarettes can kill as surely as if poison were taken.

The reporter, after taking these notes, reported he was so nervous he had to have another cigarettte.

. . . JET CRASH

He applied brakes, reversed the thrust of his engines and the giant jet skidded approximately 2,000 feet and lumbered off the airport's main runway into the field.

The jet plowed through poles carrying landing lights across the airport perimeter before crashing alongside the Old Bath highway.

Its undercarriage was ripped off, the fuselage torn open and luggage and freight thrown out through a gap in the nose.

Why the DC-8F failed to take off was a question for the aviation ministry investigators and their officials to determine. TCA said it didn't know the answer.

Visibility at the time was 1,500 feet.

After stopping at Montreal the jet—the newest type of DC-8—was scheduled to fly to Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

The plane carries both passengers and cargo in special bays in the forward part. TCA introduced this type of aircraft into the North Atlantic run and now has four of them in service.

One of the passengers, nine-year-old Armin Bernauer, of Thompson, Man., who was travelling with his father, was celebrating his ninth birthday Wednesday.

Sitting side by side in the plane were Walter Shepherd of Vancouver and Miss Linda Pearson, 29, who emigrated to Ottawa from England last year.

Shepherd said: "There was a fire in one of the engines. The passengers were very calm and the only cries were for people not to panic. The general atmosphere was very calm."

A plane to replace the damaged jet arrived this morning from Canada and was scheduled to leave late this afternoon.

Aside from the four "officially" listed as injured, several others suffered minor bruises and lacerations.

While most of the passengers agreed that there was no panic, there was, however, a good deal of shouting as the passengers scrambled through every available escape hatch and jumped down into the mud. They hurried away from the scene, afraid the fire in one of the engines might cause an explosion.

fundamental shift in the pattern of world wheat trade.

"Mainland China shows every sign of becoming a permanent importer of wheat and on a substantial scale. There seems to be no other logical interpretation of recent events.

As for Russia:

". . . One is justified in suggesting that, without some pretty radical changes in agricultural practice, the Soviet Union is not going to be a serious competitor in world wheat markets for some time to come and could from time to time be a significant importer.

"Furthermore, I should think that an effort is going to have to be made in the Soviet Union to build up stocks so as to avoid the recurrence of another serious shortage of bread grains. For that reason alone, demands may continue beyond the end of the current crop year next July 31."

Liquor At Doorstep New Plan

Government liquor stores will start a home delivery service in two weeks.

The service will be tried first in Greater Vancouver. It may be extended to Victoria later.

A liquor board official said today orders for delivery must be prepaid.

The customer will have to go to the nearest liquor store to pay for his order in advance; then it will be delivered the next day by truck.

It will cost 75 cents for an order of up to one case, 50 cents for each additional case.

The liquor official said the service is mainly for people having parties or banquets, but a single bottle will be delivered.

Vote List Reform On Socred Agenda

Resolutions for reform of the voters list will be presented at the provincial Social Credit convention which starts in Vancouver Friday.

Social Credit League president Archie Browne said there are four resolutions concerning the voters list.

One is for a combined federal-provincial list. However, this will probably be dropped because the voting age differs.

People of 19 can vote in B.C. elections but federal voters must be 21.

NEW WESTMINSTER

The convention, expected to draw up to 600 delegates, will be in New Westminster.

More than 60 resolutions will be considered, including some from Victoria about curbs on tobacco and liquor advertising.

Premier Bennett will speak at a windup banquet Saturday.

Other guests include national Socred leader Robert Thompson, Alberta's provincial secretary Ambrose Hallowach and Orvis Kennedy, president of the Alberta party.

It was learned that Real Caouette was invited, but declined.

53, was the second to be brought up in the rescue capsule.

One of the 11 is not a miner. Adolf Herbst, the only bachelor, is an electrician who was installing equipment in the mine when it was flooded.

The breakthrough to the 11 occurred a few minutes after 6 a.m. (midnight EST).

GIVEN 50-50 CHANCE

Mine director Rudolf Stein, who said earlier the 11 had less than a 50-50 chance of being saved, told reporters the drilling of the rescue shaft exactly into the cavity had been "a wonder."

"It was like looking for a needle in a haystack."

The faces of the 11 men showed a ghastly pallor under the grime. Some were scarred by ugly bruises.

Seventy - nine men escaped, some through an adjoining mine. Seven more were rescued the following day by rubber boats and three more were hoisted to the surface from a high-pressure air pocket Friday.

The bodies of 10 men still lie under the rubble in the cavity from which the 11 survivors were rescued. Another 19 miners are missing and have been given up for dead.

College Education Means Extra $4,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—A difference in education of three or four years can mean a difference in income of $4,000 a year, former postmaster-general William Hamilton said Monday.

He told a meeting of school administrators that one or more years of university education results in an average salary of $7,800 a year. But persons with two years of high school or less average only $3,800.

Only 4 per cent of the persons in the latter category make more than $6,000.

The well-educated group lives in houses with an average value of $25,700, Mr. Hamilton said. Homes of those with a limited education average $12,100.

"I might add that another surprising aspect of a superior education is that a mortgage on your houses goes with it," he said. "Fifty-seven per cent of the upper income group have mortgages and only 8 per cent of the lower income group."

Ninety-two per cent of the well-educated group own cars and 92 per cent own television sets. In the other classification, 40 per cent own cars, 75 per cent television sets.

Vote Today For PM, Result Friday

CRIEFF, Scotland (CP)—Voters in two districts balloted today in two byelections of great importance to Britain's new prime minister, Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

In Scotland's Kinross and West Perthshire the voters were deciding whether to give Douglas-Home the House of Commons seat he needs to continue as head of the government and the Conservative party. He expected to defeat six rivals by a comfortable margin of 5,000 to 6,000 votes.

Conservative prospects did not appear as rosy in Luton, an automobile manufacturing centre 40 miles north of London. The English district went Conservative in 1959 by 5,000 votes, but it was doubtful the government party could hold the seat.

The result in Luton will be announced late tonight. The outcome in Kinross-West Perthshire won't be known until Friday because many ballot boxes are in isolated glens. Rain in both districts made early voting sluggish.

MR. JUSTICE NORRIS

'Oust Banks' —Reuther

WASHINGTON (UPI)—United Auto Workers' president Walter P. Reuther said today that Harold C. Banks, president of the AFL-CIO Seafarers' Union in Canada, should be ousted. Reuther said Banks does not measure up to the AFL-CIO ethical standards.

Reuther criticized George Meany, AFL-CIO president, for his handling of the Canadian maritime dispute that has involved picketing of some Canadian ships in American ports by Banks' union.

Welfare Under Fire

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice T. G. Norris of the B.C. Court of Appeal Tuesday criticized lack of provision for teen-age girls in the province's welfare services.

His comments came during the case of Margaret Murray Shish, 19, appealing a nine-month sentence imposed by Magistrate C. C. Bell on four counts of false pretences involving cheques ranging from $5 to $30. The appeal court upheld the sentence.

Mr. Justice Norris said the case showed "the inadequacy of the welfare system, particularly in connection with foster homes."

"Whereas something is being done for young males who are sentenced, there is no provision for young females," he said.

Appeal court Justices H. W. Davey and A. E. Lord agreed with Mr. Justice Norris.

The three-judge court was told the Shish girl was abandoned by her parents when she was six months old. She had a lengthy record of ill-fated attempts at foster home placings.

"This is just a repetition of a story that comes before us over and over again," said Mr. Justice Norris.

"Scalp tension, a sign of the times, is one cause of your hair loss," says trichologist M. D. Harrison to balding man. Harrison directs the famous Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists, whose main office is in Vancouver. He is sending a specialist here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

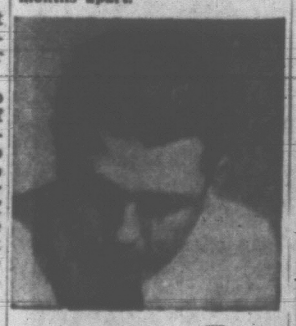
How to save and improve your hair demonstrated by expert here tomorrow

New home treatment methods for preventing baldness—and growing thicker hair—will be demonstrated in Victoria this Friday, November 8.

This news was released here today by M. D. Harrison, internationally famous director of Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In his announcement, Harrison said that he himself will conduct the Victoria clinic. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Friday at the Hotel Sussex.

Leonard A. Floyd before and after scalp treatment. Untouched photographs made four months apart.



Examine You Free

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by seeing me," director Harrison said.

"Your only obligation is to yourself—to free your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your trouble is beyond the scope of Harrison Home treatment, we will frankly tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless'."

Offers No Cure-All

Harrison emphasizes that his new home treatment is neither "mail-order" nor "cure-all."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting any treatment," he pointed out. "There is no one cure-all that will correct every one of the 18 scalp disorders that cause most baldness."

Harrison said that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks, to get best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the Harrison headquarters in Vancouver.

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Harrison trichologist at regular intervals."

Who Can Be Helped?

Will this new treatment cure baldness? "No," said Harrison sincerely. "We cannot help men who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. Usually, we can grow more hair even where you have only 'fuzz' now."

The important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late!

Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatment is the phenomenal growth of the organization behind it. Harrison and his affiliates maintain treatment clinics in Canada, the U.S., and Mexico. And their staff trichologists regularly do extension work in more than 100 other cities.

Satisfy 95%

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," declared Harrison. "We satisfy more than 95 per cent of our clients, and have records to prove it.

"But to overcome the average man's initial skepticism is sometimes difficult. He's usually quite desperate—and baldish—by the time he nerves himself to see a Harrison trichologist. He's tried everything. So he starts consoling himself with one of the old superstitions about hair: That baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss—and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today.

Free Scalp Examination

See Mr. Harrison in person. Learn how baldness can be stopped, and new hair grown on your own scalp. The new Harrison method permits you to actually stop your baldness and regrow hair in the privacy of your own home.

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk at the Hotel Sussex tomorrow between 1 p.m. and 8 p.m. for Mr. Harrison's suite number.

You don't need an appointment. You won't be embarrassed or obligated in any way. Examinations are given in private.

'Put U.S.-Canada Problems Into Proper Perspective'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson Wednesday night cited the need for greater mutual understanding between the United States and Canada to put into proper perspective problems that are bound to arise between the two nations.

"We should be careful not to ignore or minimize these problems, but we should also be careful not to distort and misrepresent them," Pearson said in an address at a dinner meeting of the Pilgrims of the United States.

Pearson arrived here earlier in the day from Ottawa and also spoke before the council on foreign relations.

Pearson apparently had in mind as one of the differences possible problems arising from the sale of wheat to the Soviet Union. He told reporters on his arrival that Canada would not need help in shipping the wheat, unless American trade unions interfere.

VARIED PROBLEMS

In his speech, Pearson admitted that "close and varied neighborly relations inevitably bring varied and serious problems.

"We should not try to avoid or ignore them. That would be unrealistic and would merely store up trouble for the future. We do better when we recognize frankly that the problems are bound to arise and then try to do something sensible about them as they do arise."

Also addressing the dinner was New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Rockefeller noted that the relationship between Canada and the United States often has been described as "special," and said it at times has "come in for criticism."

"Self-respecting sovereign states can live in friendship only if there is constant consultation on common objectives," Rockefeller pointed out. "This can only be based on confidence in common values, in pledges faithfully kept, in principles stoutly maintained."

REPORTED EXAGGERATION

Pearson said he "deplored" the exaggeration of American differences "almost as much as I worry about the general indifference" to the problems that arise.

Pearson reminded his audience that some years ago he made a prediction that the "days of relatively easy and automatic" relations between the two countries were at an end. Later events confirmed that forecast, he said.

"This does not mean that the relations between our two countries in the future will be less good than they have been in the past decades," he said.

"It does mean that they will require more vigilant attention, a greater effort of mutual understanding."

Union Delegate Criticizes Job Questions

Transport workers' delegate Harry G. Anderson told Labor Council Wednesday night that a new Unemployment Insurance Commission questionnaire is mostly composed of "trick questions."

He said many people are going to be disqualified unjustly by their answers.

Mr. Anderson said: "It's not an honest effort by the UIC to do away with fraud.

"A lot of innocent people are going to get tricked.

"Interpretation of the Unemployment Act is getting tougher all the time."

The question on whether there were any restrictions on site of work, he said, was "loaded."

GOING TO HANG

"A lot of people are going to hang themselves on that question."

Other trick questions, he said, are those dealing with hours and days per week available for work, and minimum expected wage.

Delegate Percy Rayment said that each union should discover the facts and present them to the membership.

VISIT AGENT

He moved that council ask all affiliated unions to notify their members that if they become unemployed, they should first call on the secretary or business agent or some person who knows the Unemployment Act.

"I don't suggest anybody wants to cheat," he said.

"Many individuals are not accustomed to that sort of thing (being interviewed by UIC officer.)

"A reply to hours available for work should be 'normal hours.'

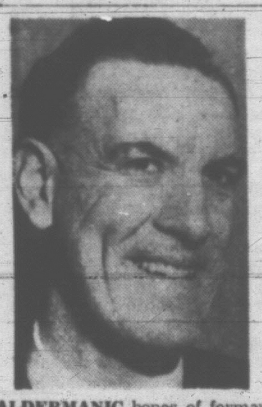
OUT OF LUCK

"If the applicant says he wouldn't work excepting certain hours, then he'd be out of luck."

Mr. Rayment said for example if part-time or second shift work came up and the man had stated full-day shift, it could be taken as a refusal to work. He could not then draw benefits.

"On expected wages, it should be 'the local going wage'.

"They should know these things before they go in," he said. His motion carried.



ALDERMANIC hopes of former Vancouver mayor Tom Alsbury suffered setback Wednesday night when the Civic Non-Partisan Association spurned his bid for support. Mr. Alsbury said later he would consider the matter fully before deciding if he would run as an independent.

WRANGLES FEARED

South Viet Nam 'Power Vacuum'

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON (AP)—The passing of the Diem government in South Viet Nam has created a power vacuum that could lead to more instability and upheaval.

The transition from family dictatorship to military revolutionary council has been immediate, smooth and relatively bloodless. Army units were back fighting the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas within hours after the Saigon government was overturned. Civil administration has been almost undisturbed; with few exceptions, the same faces were in the same government offices Monday morning.

The big change is that the country now is ruled by a committee instead of a family.

But there is no guarantee this committee will work harmoniously and in the absence of an established political leader in the group, some observers feel the generals may eventually fall to wrangling.

Despite the naming of civilians to a provisional government, the generals will continue to hold the real power for a long time, according to present indications.

WILL TAKE TIME

One general on the revolutionary council said Wednesday he thought it might be six to 12 months before a civilian government with full power could be elected.

"There have been many recent historical examples of what often happens in cases like this," a foreign diplomat said. "For example, there was Nasser in Egypt."

"I'm going to keep my eye on the young colonels around here."

The provisional government is not made up of strong political personalities. Nguyen Ngoc Tho, the premier, has been a career bureaucrat since 1930. Although he was President Ngo Dinh Diem's vice-president, he never has exercised any real authority.

Other civilians in the caretaker cabinet are similarly qualified. While competent civil servants, they are strongly lacking in leadership qualities.

All national policies for the time being will be made by the military revolutionary council executive committee of generals headed by Maj.-Gen. Duong Van Minh.

Minh, 47, while highly respected, is difficult to identify as a national leader. In his own words he is "a soldier, not a politician."

'Rocky' Announces Bid For Nomination by GOP

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) Governor Nelson Rockefeller formally announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for president today and said he would enter the New Hampshire and other presidential preference primaries between now and the Republican national convention next July.

"I have reached this decision because I believe that vital principles are at stake in the next presidential election," Rockefeller said in a statement.

Rockefeller renewed his charge that the administration of Democratic President Kennedy had failed to understand and meet "the menace of international communism," to stimulate the economy and to strengthen the unity of the free world.

Rockefeller, 55, did not refer in his brief statement either to his role as the underdog in what has been the undeclared contest for the nomination.

Nor did he refer to his divorce and remarriage, which have been largely blamed for his currently poor standing in polls on the nomination.

URGES DEBATES

Rockefeller proposed that Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona and other potential candidates also enter the New Hampshire primary to pick the Republican party nominee.

Rockefeller, who did not mention Goldwater by name, has been challenging the Arizona senator to join him in a series of debates to determine what positions the Republican party should take on major issues. Goldwater has refused on grounds of party unity.

Rockefeller, who has sought in recent months to associate Goldwater with extremism, said he was certain Republican convention delegates would "write a platform and select a candidate consistent with the basic principles of the Republican party and the realities of the world in which we live."

"I believe that in a democracy such as ours every man and woman is entitled to know exactly where all candidates stand on the vital issues of the day," he said. "The day of the smoke-filled room in American politics is over."

Rockefeller began reading his prepared statement without any preliminary comment. He concluded the reading with a "thank you" and swept out of the room before reporters could buttonhole him for questioning.

The New Hampshire primary March 10 will be the first in the United States.

FIRST MOVE SINCE COUP

S. Viet Nam Resumes Fight Against Reds

(Times News Services)

SAIGON — South Vietnamese troops today reported their first victory against Communist forces since the overthrow of president Ngo Dinh Diem.

The official Viet Nam press agency reported 38 guerrillas were killed in a battle Wednesday east of the provincial capital of Phu Yen.

Three government soldiers were wounded and a quantity of weapons was seized from the Reds, the announcement said. It added that the operation was continuing.

The military revolutionary council reported that 33 persons were killed and 233 were injured in the weekend coup. More than half the casualties were civilians.

The figures were far below unofficial estimates that at least 100 persons were killed and several hundred injured during the 18-hour battle in downtown Saigon.

TOLL INCLUDES DIEM

The death toll included Diem, his younger brother Ngo Dinh Nhu and several top loyalist officers. The officers included Capt. Ho Tan Quyen, the navy commander, and Cao Xuan Vy, deputy commander of Nhu's Republican Youth Corps.

The military council claimed Wednesday that Diem and Nhu were killed in a struggle for a guard's pistol. The government called the deaths "accidental suicides."

The military council said previously that five rebel soldiers were killed in the battle.

Outside Saigon, meanwhile, Communist guerrillas doubled their attacks on strategic hamlets and intensified a propaganda campaign urging villagers to join the Reds.

A U.S. spokesman reported the Communists began reacting late Sunday to Saturday's coup and by Wednesday had launched dozens of attacks. The incidents were classed as probings to determine villagers' reaction to the coup.

A Vital Contract

IN THE NEXT FEW DAYS, Ottawa must make a decision on the site for development of a new and important heavy water industry. After months of study and consultation, it is reliably reported that the choice has been narrowed down to two possibilities—to the Victoria-based Western Deuterium, and to the Nova Scotia Government, working with the Deuterium Corporation of America.

To understand the significance of these negotiations, it is first necessary to understand the background and scope of the project itself. In the past 15 years, Canada's nuclear power program has placed this country in a leading position to construct plants, at home and abroad. If costs are kept to a minimum, these Canadian-developed nuclear power plants will compete with hydro and other conventional sources of power, creating a multi-billion-dollar industrial opportunity for Canadian engineers, plant designers, equipment manufacturers, and producers of uranium and heavy water.

These rapidly-unfolding developments have led to an invitation by Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. to Canadian industry to furnish substantial tonnages of heavy water. In pursuit of this objective, Mr. Harold Husband of Victoria Machinery Depot has ranged across North America for two years or more, gathering information and doing surveys which ultimately led to his formation of Western Deuterium as a major bidder for the contract.

Heavy water it should be explained, is extracted from ordinary water by a process consuming large quantities of fuel for heat and power. A most logical plant location would take advantage of the cheap natural gas, coal and lignite in western Canada, which ranks with some of the cheapest fuel in the world.

Unfortunately, the government is under heavy regional pressure from Nova Scotia, as a "distressed area," which is seeking an outlet for its coal to replace shrinking markets. In order to sustain this uneconomic coal industry, Ottawa is paying many millions of dollars a year; the heavy water project would involve an additional subsidy of $480,000 a year. The minimum delivered cost of Nova Scotia coal is about $11 a ton. In British Columbia, coal can be stripped at less than $3 a ton and in adjoining Alberta natural gas can be bought as cheaply as 11 cents per thousand cubic feet.

The 200-ton per year heavy water plant requires 120,000 tons of coal, or equivalent gas. In Nova Scotia, this would provide jobs for only 130 miners. The present difference between the cost of coal in Nova Scotia and gas in Alberta is approximately $1 million a year or $2.50 per pound of heavy water. Twenty-five years from now this difference will have increased to about $2.2 million a year.

On economic grounds alone, then, the government would appear to have no alternative but to award the contract to the west. But there are other equally vital and compelling considerations.

Mr. Walter Gordon, who has emphasized the need to keep Canadian industries in Canada, must surely give weight to the fact that Western Deuterium is owned in Canada, financed in this country without Government participation, and the plant it proposes would be built by Canadian shipyard and engineering firms. The Nova Scotia Government, in addition to offering costly provincial subsidies ($500,000 a year for low-cost steam), is bidding in conjunction with a U.S. firm and has offered to assist its financing, by way of a Nova Scotia Crown company (Industrial Estates Ltd) to the extent of $11 millions in second-mortgage bonds.

Finally, the ability to develop associated industries is only possible if the plant and personnel are placed in a low-cost energy field, such as obtains in B.C. and Alberta in the Blairmore-Crow's Nest area.

On every logical, economic basis, then, Ottawa must concede that the West's case is incontrovertible. The government showed great courage in scrapping the frigate program on the grounds that it was a waste of taxpayers' money, at the same time urging shipyards to "diversify," as V.M.D. is attempting to do in the new program. If Ottawa is to be consistent, it must resist the pressures of the high-subsidy, U.S.-affiliated Nova Scotia lobby and grant this contract to the low-cost, all-Canadian project with its headquarters here in Victoria.

DIEM TRAGEDY TOLD FROM WASHINGTON — By JOSEPH ALSOP

They Would Not Bend, So They Broke

THE American role in the bloodstained but purgative coup d'etat in Viet Nam is a subject demanding serious inquiry, if only because so much bosh is sure to be talked about it unless the real facts are understood.

Alsop

Beginning, then, at the beginning, the American government was of course aware that the leaders of the Vietnamese army were talking with one another about ways and means of displacing President Ngo Dinh Diem. Indeed, there was no way to avoid being aware of this.

As long as two months ago, when this reporter was in Saigon, he was taken into the confidence of one of the most active organizers of the coup. This member of the future junta listed the other generals who had already placed themselves under the leadership of Gen. Duong Van Minh; he said the coup would come soon; and he actually asked that the information be transmitted at once to Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Flood of Warnings

The incident has no importance, except as an indicator of the way information about the intentions of the junta reached the U.S. Embassy in Saigon from many different sources. In recent weeks, the initial trickle of warnings and reports swelled to flood proportions.

Long before the coup d'etat occurred, therefore, it was quite clear there was trouble ahead. The expectation of early trouble in fact led Secretary of Defence Robert McNamara to send his personal plane to Saigon, so that Ambassador Lodge could make his planned visit to Washington without the extra days away from his post required for travel by the commercial airlines.

That simple fact in turn reveals another aspect of the story. While aware that trouble was brewing, the U.S. government was in no sense a party to the preparations for the coup. Otherwise, the plan would never have been made for this Lodge trip to Washington, which was so abruptly forestalled when the coup took place.

Fruitless Effort

Until the very eve of the coup d'etat, moreover, Ambassador Lodge continued his fruitless effort to persuade President Diem to set his house in order. His last attempt was made on Sunday, Oct. 27, when Diem invited Lodge to join him on a visit of inspection in the countryside.

The long day with Diem gave the ambassador the opportunity to discuss both the state of affairs in Viet Nam, and its effects on U.S.-Vietnamese relations, in detail and at great length. He offered a list of modest but significant steps which Diem could take to relax the tension in Saigon, and to improve the climate in Washington. Every item on the Lodge list was categorically vetoed by Diem.

Lodge then asked Diem whether he had any suggestions of his own about possible means of escape from the impasse. Diem merely gave the ambassador "a blank look and changed the subject," as Lodge subsequently reported. Yet on Monday Lodge returned to the attack with Diem's intelligent and flexible minister of defence, Nguyen Dinh Thuan.

Thuan, who described the program pressed by Lodge on Diem as "extremely moderate," promised to go to Diem and see whether his persuasions would have any effect. His first report was decidedly encouraging. But the second report from Thuan, the next day, was a gloomy, final negative—Diem's brother, the all-powerful and half-mad Ngo Dinh Nhu, had had his say in the interval.

In short, there was no way to save Diem and Nhu from themselves. Or rather, there was only one way. It was indicated to Secretary McNamara just before he left Viet Nam by the able Englishman, Prof. Patrick Honey, who is the unique expert on Viet Nam without a personal axe to grind.

"You must understand," Honey told McNamara, "that the Diem regime will surely be destroyed by the coup d'etat unless the U.S. government makes a ringing reassertion of confidence in Diem and support for his government as soon as you get back to Washington."

No Backing for Diem

McNamara gave Honey's judgment to President Kennedy as his own judgment. But no reassertion of confidence in the Diem regime was possible, simply because the U.S. government had quite rightly lost confidence in the Diem regime.

Instead of a statement of support for Diem, therefore, the sequel of the McNamara mission was the decision to make certain aid cuts, in order to bring more pressure on Diem to put his house in order.

Such are the facts. They constitute an interesting moral problem. On the one hand, the U.S. government had foreknowledge that a coup d'etat was being considered. In addition, the U.S. government could have forestalled the coup d'etat by stultifying itself. But the U.S. government refused to stultify itself. Diem refused to put his house in order. And so the coup took place.

Answer Them With Facts

IT IS TO BE HOPED THAT THE forthcoming meeting between Health Minister Martin and representatives of the B.C. Hospital Association will enable the government to adopt a more mature attitude to the hospitals situation than has so far been displayed.

Since criticism of the provincial government's provision of resources for the hospitals was voiced two weeks ago at a convention of the B.C. Hospital Association, the minister's replies have not inspired confidence. He has sought through angry threats against the medical profession and vituperation of an individual doctor to draw public attention away from the main contention of the hospitals.

A report at the convention presented a most serious charge against the government. It demonstrated through 21 different schedules—21 criteria by which hospital efficiency and adequacy may be judged—that the hospitals of this province are falling behind the other provinces in many important aspects through lack of revenues.

The government is the only important source of revenue for British Columbia hospitals. Hence the exposure of the hospitals' situation is an indictment of the government.

It is the same indictment, incidentally, that has been made in the fields of higher education, social work, and mental health—that the government starves these services by not providing sufficient money.

This indictment angered Mr. Martin. The minister was further angered by a post-convention remark, made by Dr. Ralph Adams during a television interview, that he knew of a hospital in the province where in his opinion the rate of deaths among infants in the nursery had been twice as high as it should be.

Dr. Adams has explained that this situation no longer holds, that the condition has been corrected. He says that he cannot divulge the name of the hospital for two reasons—that it would be unfair to the institution because the criticism no longer applies, and that he had been given the information confidentially and on the understanding that he would keep it so.

Mr. Martin, who at first said he knew the hospital involved, seized on this footnote as the major issue and has demanded that the name be made public. This makes a fine, indignant call to arms—but it has nothing at all to do with the real and much more serious charge by the convention: that the government is dangerously niggardly in its support of British Columbia's hospitals.

It is much easier to go yelling down a sideroad than to face and answer the evidence on the main highway. Will the forthcoming meeting merely provide a platform for further name-calling, or will it become the start of a rational and realistic approach to the very demanding problems of hospitals in British Columbia today?

Our hospitals are too important a part of our lives to be deprived of adequate funds for their proper operation. If such a condition exists—and the lengthy evidence of the standards-of-patient-care subcommittee of the association claims that it does—then this is no time for standing on governmental dignity, refusing impartial investigation, or indulging in angry denunciations. Let's have the truth.

The Fond Farewell

A DELICATE PROBLEM MAY be posed for the city administrator of Penticton. A proposed regulation would make it necessary for the married women on the city's staff to resign their jobs when they become pregnant. But the actual date would have to be set by the administrator.

Where he had full co-operation from the lady his predicament might not be so bad. But what of the case in which a mother-to-be did not tell her secret? How would the administrator broach the subject, once his suspicions were aroused? Worse, what if he issued his ultimatum only to find that he had completely misjudged the whole situation?

There is one comforting thought for the administrator anyway: nobody will be after his job.

FROM LONDON — By RICHARD PURSER

Memories of Sir Alec and Munich

THE new prime minister, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, has got off to a good start at creating a warm personal impression of himself in the public mind. Two days after Mr. Harold Wilson's initial personal attack on him he appeared on television, a forum which is going to rival Parliament between now and the election, and came over as honest, easy-mannered and straight-spoken. It was a refreshing change from Mr. Harold Macmillan's stuffily avuncular approach.

He neatly repelled allegations of aristocratic isolation from problems of real life and practical politics. (He was minister of state for Scotland for five years, and before his father's death sent him to the House of Lords he fought and won Commons elections in a tough Scottish farming and mining constituency.) His instant riposte to claims that the hard-driving Mr. Wilson would "cut him up" in the House of Commons—"I shall be surprised"—seemed to endear him to viewers.

It was speedily clear that the British people were interested in seeing the new prime minister given a chance, and that attacks on his lineage would backfire. Mr. Wison saw the light. The next night, when he had his turn on television, he played an entirely different tune. He agreed that peers should not be discriminated against, that Sir Alec was as formidable an opponent as any, that he had some of "the right ideas" on economic policy, and that he would probably stand up well in the House of Commons.

Meeting the press, Sir Alec stressed his determination to set dynamic policies for modernizing Britain, and to carry the people with him in this drive.

Seven-Point Program

Later, starting his byelection campaign in Scotland, he summarized his program in seven points.

1. Expanding the economy as fast as resources allow, reaching and possibly surpassing the four per cent annual growth target advised by the National Economic Development Council.
2. Using science and technology to keep British industries up to date.
3. Spreading general prosperity to all parts of Britain.
4. Opening higher education to all qualified persons.
5. Speeding house building and improvement, and slum clearance, with an aim of 400,000 new houses a year.
6. Improving pensions.
7. Bringing big-city hospital standards to smaller population centres.

If all this sounds like a steal from Labor, it's fair game in politics. The difference is that Sir Alec is in a position to put these policies into effect in the coming months, while Mr. Wilson is not. Sir Alec has been aided by the Robbins report on higher education, which happened to be published just after his appointment, giving his administration first crack at implementing the recommendations. They will cost about $10.5 billions.

Some Tories are already worrying that Sir Alec is preparing to spend too much too quickly in a drive that will have to be cut back after the election due to inflation, repeating an overly familiar pattern of the Conservative government.

Not Out-Bidding Labor

But Sir Alec certainly does not see himself as outbidding Labor at its own game. He is a real Tory, and has been hard on the attack against what he considers to be Labor's approach to its basic policy. As he said the other day: "The combination of socialism and automation could open the door to the destruction of personal freedom . . . We do not want to live in a card-index and push-button society that forgets the supreme value of the individual."

Mr. Wilson at Scarborough earlier inspired Labor to take up the political offensive on the theme covered by point (2) in Sir Alec's list above. It was presumably this to which Sir Alec referred in his crack against socialism. As Labor sees its own policy, the government will finance research to create ultra-modern government industries which will compete with and thus either inspire or consume corresponding sections of private industry. It is for the voters to decide whether, as Sir Alec thinks, this will dehumanize society.

That is, if the voters ever think of policies separately from the men who will carry them out. At the moment all attention is on the personal image Sir Alec is creating.

Sir Alec is his own best image-maker, but all the arts of the Tory establishment are being summoned to his aid and it is considered distinctly improper to take over certain details from his past or to question the aims of some of his supporters.

When he was parliamentary private secretary to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, he fully supported the government's appeasemnt policies of the late 1930s.

"I have never felt any doubt that the Munich decision was right," he said two weeks ago. "After all, we simply had not the power then."

He never allied himself with those who fought to make Britain powerful enough to counter Hitler's rise. Asked in a recent interview how he defined the difference between negotiations and appeasement, he said "Negotiation would be appeasement if it sacrificed something essential to free men—if it sacrificed free men or free territory."

The interviewer failed to mention Czechoslovakia, which may have been unfortunate. Sir Alec was with Mr. Chamberlain at Munich.

Sir Alec has had Edenesque ideas about the need for a British military presence in the Arab world. He was Sir Roy Welensky's favorite man in the cabinet when he was at the Commonwealth Relations Office. As foreign secretary he was in conflict with the United Nations and the United States over Katanga. He has steadfastly resisted putting pressure on South Africa or Portugal, and in recnt interviews has decried their racia' policies while refusing to consider economic sanctions. He has disturbed Afro-Asian governments by criticizing their militancy at the UN on colonial and racial questions, and his ability to feel real human kinship with the non-white world has been questioned. In remarks during the past two weeks he has remained wedded to the idea of a nuclear deterrent which Britain could use independently of the U.S., but also favored the political aims of the NATO multilateral force.

Debunker Debunked

A correspondent, commenting on abstract art in a letter in your paper Tuesday, once again quoted a false source.

She used the now well-known extract from The American Mercury of August, 1957, in which Picasso purportedly condemns abstract art.

It has been pointed out many times that the magazine piece was fiction, not fact, and that Picasso had nothing to do with it. It has been debunked many times before.

FAIR PLAY.

Call a Cop

I see by the press the Chief of Police of Victoria feels that the term "cop" for policemen is rude, used out of ignorance and even hate, by people of low character and bad morals.

This is far from true. As a matter of fact the word "cop" was conceived in police headquarters and delivered out of the womb of police parlance by high-ranking police officials in the far-off days before there was any organized crime on the scale of today's proportions.

In those days (and the practice may still obtain today) the man on the beat on returning to headquarters was required to offer a signed report on all the happenings which called for his attention during his patrol. Thus, at the end of his official notations he would sign his name: "all in-all a very quiet night (or day), yours respectfully, Thomas Law, Constable on Patrol," which was abbreviated to COP.

In the office when anything of note or high importance was being discussed, the Chief Constable would invariably ask, "Who was the cop," or Constable on Patrol and it can readily be seen that this parlance became the coin on which was turned all the business of law enforcement.

It would be more to the point, in my view, if police officers, chiefs or constables, were less concerned about being referred to as cops and more heated to lay by the heels those responsible for the untimely demise of people like Downs and others whose deaths still remain unsolved. In this city the list, to say the least, is impressive.

Let Youngsters Choose

I often wonder at the mentality of the people who compile your PTA Children's Movie Guide.

What a dim-witted lot they must be.

Most of their classifications are enough to make a cat laugh—films that teen-agers love and enjoy classified as unsuitable; films that no youngster cares a hang about deemed highly suitable.

Let the youngsters decide for themselves what they like, and don't listen to these fusty old Mother Grundies who belong to an age long buried and forgotten!

Against Gas Station

The Community Planning Association of Canada, Capital Region Branch, would like to go on record as opposing the building of a gas station on the south-east corner of Henderson and Cedar Hill Roads.

The fact that this area was zoned in 1958 prior to the University moving to Gordon Head is all the more reason this should be reconsidered.

It is rarely a community has a chance of developing a University and its approaches on an untouched parcel of land.

When our children ask what did Oak Bay do towards the development of the University of Victoria and the only reply will be, "The Council approved a gas station outside the gates and held out for 400 feet of high rise apartments on two sides of the campus before giving their OK," will this not be a great feather in our hats?

'Eye Banks' and More

We of the civilized (supposedly) world have given up the pagan practice of burying jewels and other precious articles with our dead, but we are still burying something far more valuable with many of our dead—something that money cannot buy.

I refer to the gift of sight, which healthy corneas represent to many people such as the young mother pictured in our paper the other day. While this has inspired many of us to send the pledge to the CNIB, it does not immediately help Mrs. Harvey-Smith and others like her.

We have "eye banks" and "bone banks" and I hope and believe that in the not too distant future, healthy usable parts of all bodies being prepared for burial may be removed and stored for donation to any person with such a need.

This may seem macabre to many people, but when a car is no longer of any use, "i.e. dead," the good parts are removed and sold as spare parts for other cars—and this is only a machine! How much more important that human beings should receive the same if not better treatment!

Gerald Waring ...REPORTING

OTTAWA — Favreau, Lamontagne and Sauve are names that probably mean little to the average person outside Quebec. That is unfortunate. These men are potent influences on how all of us, of whatever racial descent, work out the divisive problems of English-French relations in Canada.

Guy Favreau, 46, is the minister of citizenship and immigration. He is widely considered to be on his way toward becoming minister of justice, the post traditionally held by the prime minister's chief lieutenant for Quebec. This promotion of course contemplates the political retirement of Justice Minister Lionel Chevrier.

Favreau has been an MP since April 8 and a minister since April 22. But seeing him in action, as when he cleared away the underbrush Aug. 2 on the federal attitude towards the Quebec government's efforts to take over administration of Eskimo affairs in Arctic Quebec, you might think he'd been around the Commons for a decade or more. Favreau is intensely concerned about resolving the conflicts between French-Canadians and English-Canadians. And a lot of Liberals are intensely concerned about Favreau: this man could be the next leader of the Liberal party.

Maurice Lamontagne, 47, is a leftward-leaning college professor turned politician. The Liberals' move toward state planning is largely Lamontagne. Officially president of the Privy Council, he is actually Prime Minister Pearson's minister for biculturalism.

Lamontagne is no threat to his politically ambitious colleagues in and out of the cabinet. In the 1962 election he lost Quebec East for the Liberals for the first time since Confederation. Last spring he got a seat because Pearson bought off the incumbent Liberal with a senatorship.

Lamontagne is a permanent guest in Pearson's ivory tower. He influences the prime minister greatly on the difficult problem of working out a new basis for Confederation. He coldly analyzes the factors that feed the fires of French-Canadian dissatisfaction and suggests remedies. He is the antithesis of the separatists and belligerent nationalists of his province—but he understands them, and helps Pearson understand and counter them for the preservation and strengthening of Confederation with the "new federalism" idea.

Maurice Sauve is the enigma of the lot. Just 40, brilliant and intensely ambitious, passed over when Pearson chose his cabinet, Sauve is in the avant garde of Quebec political thinkers. He was one of the architects of Premier Lesage's 1960 victory in Quebec, but he and Lesage are no longer close.

In his speeches he lauds Pearson, but political insiders suspect his loyalty. He prods the PM. He would rewrite the constitution to reduce the authority of the federal government and increase that of the provinces, especially Quebec.

"Let's work together for a better Quebec and a greater Canada," Sauve says—but it seems to me that his ideas would weaken the concept of one land from sea to sea, and further the balkanization of the nation.

Frigate Cut First Victory For Hellyer

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Political life begins at 40 for Defence Minister Paul Hellyer.

The one-time farm boy, opera singer and seller of lingerie has won his first major battle in the war of attrition surrounding political advancement.

This war was not won in the Commons where the government last week survived a Conservative motion of non-confidence condemning Liberal defence policies.

It was won weeks ago when Mr. Hellyer, who turned 40 on Aug. 6, swung the cabinet to his support in favor of cancellation of the $452,000,000 frigate program.

This couldn't have been easy. Shipyard workers and the ports they live in represent a lot of votes.

Not to put too fine a point on it, the frigate program was a political if not military millstone around Mr. Hellyer's neck.

To begin with, there aren't a great deal of funds for new weapons and equipment for the armed forces. At least 80 per cent of the $1,600,000,000 defence bill goes for wages, operations and maintenance.

TIGHT SITUATION

If Mr. Hellyer had gone along with the frigate program as initiated by the previous Conservative government in April, 1962, he would have had little or no money to do any of the things he wanted to do in the defence portfolio.

He didn't make any bones about this. He told the Commons defence committee in June that he needed financial room to manoeuvre if he was going to be able to choose among various defence projects.

Now that he's out of range of the political sword of Damocles represented by the frigates, he can pick and choose, if not at leisure, at least without a sense of panic.

Aides say that the youthful, six-foot, three - inch minister came to the department determined that it would not be the political graveyard for him it has been for others.

'SHAKE' DEPARTMENT

In other words, if he was to make a political mark he would have to shake up the department as it has never been shaken in recent years.

There now appears no doubt he will reduce armed forces manpower, modify and then change the main roles of the RCAF, build a combined, airborne force and integrate the services to a greater degree.

In the Second World War pile of sticks, wallboard and linoleum known as defence headquarters, the awed question is being asked daily: "Where will he strike next?"

10,000 Lost Jobs Foreseen

OTTAWA (CP) — The government was asked Wednesday to reconsider its decision to cancel a $450,000,000 frigate program and the planned purchase of three British submarines.

Leon Balcer, former Progressive Conservative transport minister, said cancellation of the navy frigate program may cost 10,000 shipyard jobs. Canadian yards should be given a chance to build the submarines.

Justice Minister Chevrier, acting prime minister, replied in the Commons exchange that civil shipping worth $110,000,000 plus scientific vessel construction worth $50,000,000 will take up a lot of the slack.

He denied Mr. Balcer's assertions that these programs were drafted by the former government and that the frigate-program cancellation is a tremendous blow to employment.

Aids for Family Planning Urged

VANCOUVER (CP)—A brief seeking legalization of the sale and advertising of contraceptives was sent to the federal government and all members of parliament Wednesday by the local Society for Population Planning.

The brief, approved at a meeting Monday night, is backed by the Canadian Federation of Societies for population planning.

It seeks deletion of three words in section 150 of the criminal code.

The effect of this would be to legalize the sale and advertising of contraceptives but would leave illegal the sale or advertisement of any device or instructions intended to procure an abortion or miscarriage.

The brief says the forbidding of the sale and advertising of contraceptives offends against the religious beliefs of the majority of Canadians "because it makes a criminal offence something which the churches believe to be a moral necessity in these days."

It says that the Roman Catholic Church approves the principles of family planning as do the Anglican and United Churches.

"The act, as it stands, tends to inhibit social agencies from offering advice and assistance in family planning to those families in receipt of social assistance — though many of these families are handicapped in their efforts to become self-supporting by the burden of too many children."

Taking the Cure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spiritually speaking, the population is divided into two parts—those who regard alcohol as a curse and those who regard it as a blessing.

West

Among the latter group, apparently, is an organization called the Physicians' Wine Appreciation Society.

I have at hand a press release reporting that six members of the society recently made a tour of the vineyards of Portugal. This stimulating bit of news was accompanied by a compendium of testimonials to the medicinal powers of the grape and the grain.

I gather that practitioners of the healing arts from Hippocrates on down have been impressed by the therapeutic qualities of bottled spirits.

Some of them appear to regard a beaker of booze as the next best thing to a phial of penicillin.

"Moderate use of beverage alcohol improves the amplitude and force of the heart, the mass movement of the blood, the output of the heart and the efficiency of the circulation," one medico commented.

Another noted that "when nitrites are not available, an ounce or two of whisky or wine may give quite rapid relief for angina pectoria."

A nip or two before a meal "stimulates gastric, pancreatic and intestinal juices," said a third.

Hooch also was credited with improving digestion, reducing tensions and promoting sleep. It likewise was represented as having beneficial effects in cases of arthritis, gout, diabetes, old age and the common cold.

A test carried out by a biologist was said to have indicated that moderate drinkers live longer than teetotalers.

Press releases are not always the last word in scientific accuracy, but this one certainly gave me a new perspective of fermented mash.

Being eager to observe its curative properties under clinical conditions, I repaired to the health bar at the National Press Club for laboratorial study.

It was amazing to see so many health-seeking journalists lined up in the taproom to receive shots. Some were getting shots of bourbon; others shots of scotch.

I talked with one patient who was improving his circulation with a martini. His circulation was so good it even showed in his eyeballs.

I wouldn't be surprised if the bartenders get arrested for practising medicine without a licence.

SYNOPSIS—A Pacific frontal system which crossed the north coast this morning appears likely to cross the entire province by Friday morning. Gale force winds and rain on the coast ahead of this system change to fresh westerly winds and partial clearing in its wake. Intermittent rain and snow in the interior will give way to partial clearing but scattered snowflurries are indicated for the northern interior for Friday.

Skipper Fined For Dumping Oil

VANCOUVER (CP) — Capt. Costas Vagianos of the Greek freighter Avra was fined $500 in court Tuesday for dumping oil in Georgia Strait.

Capt. John McNee, an aircraft pilot, said he spotted the oil slick in the wake of the freighter as he prepared to land his aircraft at the airport.

It's Never Too Late

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Oscar Auerback, associate professor of pathology at New York Medical College, said Wednesday he has never seen lung cancer in a man who had not been a heavy smoker.

In a speech to a seminar on cigarette smoking sponsored by a church adult education committee, he said it was never too late to quit smoking. Defective tissues in persons who have smoked heavily for at least 10 years show regeneration after a person stops smoking.

In an interview, the cancer researcher said the fact that smoking is a major cause of lung cancer would be widely accepted if the cigarette industry did not have so much money riding on the continued and increased use of tobacco.

Sukarno Grabs Mills

JAKARTA (Reuters) — President Sukarno has ordered the seizure of all Malaysian-owned or backed rubber milling companies in East Sumatra, it was announced Wednesday. He has also instructed Indonesians not to listen to the broadcasts of Radio Malaysia and has imposed heavy penalties for anyone caught tuning in.

A Vital Contract

IN THE NEXT FEW DAYS, Ottawa must make a decision on the site for development of a new and important heavy water industry. After months of study and consultation, it is reliably reported that the choice has been narrowed down to two possibilities—to the Victoria-based Western Deuterium, and to the Nova Scotia Government, working with the Deuterium Corporation of America.

To understand the significance of these negotiations, it is first necessary to understand the background and scope of the project itself. In the past 15 years, Canada's nuclear power program has placed this country in a leading position to construct plants, at home and abroad. If costs are kept to a minimum, these Canadian-developed nuclear power plants will compete with hydro and other conventional sources of power, creating a multi-billion-dollar industrial opportunity for Canadian engineers, plant designers, equipment manufacturers, and producers of uranium and heavy water.

These rapidly-unfolding developments have led to an invitation by Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. to Canadian industry to furnish substantial tonnages of heavy water. In pursuit of this objective, Mr. Harold Husband of Victoria Machinery Depot has ranged across North America for two years or more, gathering information and doing surveys which ultimately led to his formation of Western Deuterium as a major bidder for the contract.

Heavy water, it should be explained, is extracted from ordinary water by a process consuming large quantities of fuel for heat and power. A most logical plant location would take advantage of the cheap natural gas, coal and lignite in western Canada, which ranks with some of the cheapest fuel in the world.

Unfortunately, the government is under heavy regional pressure from Nova Scotia, as a "distressed area," which is seeking an outlet for its coal to replace shrinking markets. In order to sustain this uneconomic coal industry, Ottawa is paying many millions of dollars a year; the heavy water project would involve an additional subsidy of $480,000 a year. The minimum delivered cost of Nova Scotia coal is about $11 a ton. In British Columbia, coal can be stripped at less than $3 a ton and in adjoining Alberta natural gas can be bought as cheaply as 11 cents per thousand cubic feet.

The 200-ton per year heavy water plant requires 120,000 tons of coal, or equivalent gas. In Nova Scotia, this would provide jobs for only 130 miners. The present difference between the cost of coal in Nova Scotia and gas in Alberta is approximately $1 million a year or $2.50 per pound of heavy water. Twenty-five years from now this difference will have increased to about $2.2 million a year.

On economic grounds alone, then, the government would appear to have no alternative but to award the contract to the west. But there are other equally vital and compelling considerations.

Mr. Walter Gordon, who has emphasized the need to keep Canadian industries in Canada, must surely give weight to the fact that Western Deuterium is owned in Canada, financed in this country without Government participation, and the plant it proposes would be built by Canadian shipyard and engineering firms. The Nova Scotia Government, in addition to offering costly provincial subsidies ($500,000 a year for low-cost steam), is bidding in conjunction with a U.S. firm and has offered to assist its financing, by way of a Nova Scotia Crown company (Industrial Estates Ltd) to the extent of $11 millions in second-mortgage bonds.

Finally, the ability to develop associated industries is only possible if the plant and personnel are placed in a low-cost energy field, such as obtains in B.C. and Alberta in the Blairmore-Crow's Nest area.

On every logical, economic basis, then, Ottawa must concede that the West's case is incontrovertible. The government showed great courage in scrapping the frigate program on the grounds that it was a waste of taxpayers' money, at the same time urging shipyards to "diversify," as V.M.D. is attempting to do in the new program. If Ottawa is to be consistent, it must resist the pressures of the high-subsidy, U.S.-affiliated Nova Scotia lobby and grant this contract to the low-cost, all-Canadian project with its headquarters here in Victoria.

DIEM TRAGEDY TOLD FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

They Would Not Bend, So They Broke

THE American role in the bloodstained but purgative coup d'etat in Viet Nam is a subject demanding serious inquiry, if only because so much bosh is sure to be talked about it unless the real facts are understood.

Alsop

Beginning, then, at the beginning, the American government was of course aware that the leaders of the Vietnamese army were talking with one another about ways and means of displacing President Ngo Dinh Diem. Indeed, there was no way to avoid being aware of this.

As long as two months ago, when this reporter was in Saigon, he was taken into the confidence of one of the most active organizers of the coup. This member of the future junta listed the other generals who had already placed themselves under the leadership of Gen. Duong Van Minh; he said the coup would come soon; and he actually asked that the information be transmitted at once to Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Flood of Warnings

The incident has no importance, except as an indicator of the way information about the intentions of the junta reached the U.S. Embassy in Saigon from many different sources. In recent weeks, the initial trickle of warnings and reports swelled to flood proportions.

Long before the coup d'etat occurred, therefore, it was quite clear there was trouble ahead. The expectation of early trouble in fact led Secretary of Defence Robert McNamara to send his personal plane to Saigon, so that Ambassador Lodge could make his planned visit to Washington without the extra days away from his post required for travel by the commercial airlines.

That simple fact in turn reveals another aspect of the story. While aware that trouble was brewing, the U.S. government was in no sense a party to the preparations for the coup. Otherwise, the plan would never have been made for this Lodge trip to Washington, which was so abruptly forestalled when the coup took place.

Fruitless Effort

Until the very eve of the coup d'etat, moreover, Ambassador Lodge continued his fruitless effort to persuade President Diem to set his house in order. His last attempt was made on Sunday, Oct. 27, when Diem invited Lodge to join him on a visit of inspection in the countryside.

The long day with Diem gave the ambassador the opportunity to discuss both the state of affairs in Viet Nam, and its effects on U.S.-Vietnamese relations, in detail and at great length. He offered a list of modest but significant steps which Diem could take to relax the tension in Saigon, and to improve the climate in Washington. Every item on the Lodge list was categorically vetoed by Diem.

Lodge then asked Diem whether he had any suggestions of his own about possible means of escape from the impasse. Diem merely gave the ambassador "a blank look and changed the subject," as Lodge subsequently reported. Yet on Monday Lodge returned to the attack with Diem's intelligent and flexible minister of defence, Nguyen Dinh Thuan.

Thuan, who described the program pressed by Lodge on Diem as "extremely moderate," promised to go to Diem and see whether his persuasions would have any effect. His first report was decidedly encouraging. But the second report from Thuan, the next day, was a gloomy, final negative—Diem's brother, the all-powerful and half-mad Ngo Dinh Nhu, had had his say in the interval.

In short, there was no way to save Diem and Nhu from themselves. Or rather, there was only one way. It was indicated to Secretary McNamara just before he left Viet Nam by the able Englishman, Prof. Patrick Honey, who is the unique expert on Viet Nam without a personal axe to grind.

"You must understand," Honey told McNamara, "that the Diem regime will surely be destroyed by the coup d'etat unless the U.S. government makes a ringing reassertion of confidence in Diem and support for his government as soon as you get back to Washington."

No Backing for Diem

McNamara gave Honey's judgment to President Kennedy as his own judgment. But no reassertion of confidence in the Diem regime was possible, simply because the U.S. government had quite rightly lost confidence in the Diem regime.

Instead of a statement of support for Diem, therefore, the sequel of the McNamara mission was the decision to make certain aid cuts, in order to bring more pressure on Diem to put his house in order.

Such are the facts. They constitute an interesting moral problem. On the one hand, the U.S. government had foreknowledge that a coup d'etat was being considered. In addition, the U.S. government could have forestalled the coup d'etat—by stultifying itself. But the U.S. government refused to stultify itself, Diem refused to put his house in order. And so the coup took place.

Answer Them With Facts

IT IS TO BE HOPED THAT THE forthcoming meeting between Health Minister Martin and representatives of the B.C. Hospital Association will enable the government to adopt a more mature attitude to the hospitals situation than has so far been displayed.

Since criticism of the provincial government's provision of resources for the hospitals was voiced two weeks ago at a convention of the B.C. Hospital Association, the minister's replies have not inspired confidence. He has sought through angry threats against the medical profession and vituperation of an individual doctor to draw public attention away from the main contention of the hospitals.

A report at the convention presented a most serious charge against the government. It demonstrated through 21 different schedules—21 criteria by which hospital efficiency and adequacy may be judged—that the hospitals of this province are falling behind the other provinces in many important aspects through lack of revenues.

The government is the only important source of revenue for British Columbia hospitals. Hence the exposure of the hospitals' situation is an indictment of the government.

It is the same indictment, incidentally, that has been made in the fields of higher education, social work, and mental health—that the government starves these services by not providing sufficient money.

This indictment angered Mr. Martin. The minister was further angered by a post-convention remark, made by Dr. Ralph Adams during a television interview, that he knew of a hospital in the province where in his opinion the rate of deaths among infants in the nursery had been twice as high as it should be.

Dr. Adams has explained that this situation no longer holds, that the condition has been corrected. He says that he cannot divulge the name of the hospital for two reasons—that it would be unfair to the institution because the criticism no longer applies, and that he had been given the information confidentially and on the understanding that he would keep it so.

Mr. Martin, who at first said he knew the hospital involved, seized on this footnote as the major issue and has demanded that the name be made public. This makes a fine, indignant call to arms—but it has nothing at all to do with the real and much more serious charge by the convention: that the government is dangerously niggardly in its support of British Columbia's hospitals.

It is much easier to go yelling down a sideroad than to face and answer the evidence on the main highway. Will the forthcoming meeting merely provide a platform for further name-calling, or will it become the start of a rational and realistic approach to the very demanding problems of hospitals in British Columbia today?

Our hospitals are too important a part of our lives to be deprived of adequate funds for their proper operation. If such a condition exists—and the lengthy evidence of the standards-of-patient-care subcommittee of the association claims that it does—then this is no time for standing on governmental dignity, refusing impartial investigation, or indulging in angry denunciations. Let's have the truth.

The Fond Farewell

A DELICATE PROBLEM MAY be posed for the city administrator of Penticton. A proposed regulation would make it necessary for the married women on the city's staff to resign their jobs when they become pregnant. But the actual date would have to be set by the administrator.

Where he had full co-operation from the lady his predicament might not be so bad. But what of the case in which a mother-to-be did not tell her secret? How would the administrator broach the subject, once his suspicions were aroused? Worse, what if he issued his ultimatum only to find that he had completely misjudged the whole situation?

There is one comforting thought for the administrator anyway: nobody will be after his job.

FROM LONDON

By RICHARD PURSER

Memories of Sir Alec and Munich

THE new prime minister, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, has got off to a good start at creating a warm personal impression of himself in the public mind. Two days after Mr. Harold Wilson's initial personal attack on him he appeared on television, a forum which is going to rival Parliament between now and the election, and came over as honest, easy-mannered and straight-spoken. It was a refreshing change from Mr. Harold Macmillan's stuffily avuncular approach.

He neatly repelled allegations of aristocratic isolation from problems of real life and practical politics. (He was minister of state for Scotland for five years, and before his father's death sent him to the House of Lords he fought and won Commons elections in a tough Scottish farming and mining constituency.) His instant riposte to claims that the hard-driving Mr. Wilson would "cut him up" in the House of Commons—"I shall be surprised"—seemed to endear him to viewers.

It was speedily clear that the British people were interested in seeing the new prime minister given a chance, and that attacks on his lineage would backfire. Mr. Wison saw the light. The next night, when he had his turn on television, he played an entirely different tune. He agreed that peers should not be discriminated against; that Sir Alec was as formidable an opponent as any, that he had some of "the right ideas" on economic policy, and that he would probably stand up well in the House of Commons.

Meeting the press, Sir Alec stressed his determination to set dynamic policies for modernizing Britain, and to carry the people with him in this drive.

Seven-Point Program...

Later, starting his byelection campaign in Scotland, he summarized his program in seven points.

1. Expanding the economy as fast as resources allow, reaching and possibly surpassing the four per cent annual growth target advised by the National Economic Development Council.
2. Using science and technology to keep British industries up to date.
3. Spreading general prosperity to all parts of Britain.
4. Opening higher education to all qualified persons.
5. Speeding house building and improvement, and slum clearance, with an aim of 400,000 new houses a year.
6. Improving pensions.
7. Bringing big-city hospital standards to smaller population centres.

If all this sounds like a steal from Labor, it's fair game in politics. The difference is that Sir Alec is in a position to put these policies into effect in the coming months, while Mr. Wilson is not. Sir Alec has been aided by the Robbins report on higher education, which happened to be published just after his appointment, giving his administration first crack at implementing the recommendations. They will cost about $10.5 billions.

Some Tories are already worrying that Sir Alec is preparing to spend too much too quickly in a drive that will have to be cut back after the election due to inflation, repeating an overly familiar pattern of the Conservative government.

Not Out-Bidding Labor

But Sir Alec certainly does not see himself as outbidding Labor at its own game. He is a real Tory, and has been hard on the attack against what he considers to be Labor's approach to its basic policy. As he said the other day: "The combination of socialism and automation could open the door to the destruction of personal freedom . . . We do not want to live in a card-index and push-button society that forgets the supreme value of the individual."

Mr. Wilson at Scarborough earlier inspired Labor to take up the political offensive on the theme covered by point (2) in Sir Alec's list above. It was presumably this to which Sir Alec referred in his crack against socialism. As Labor sees its own policy, the government will finance research to create ultra-modern government industries which will compete with and thus either inspire or consume corresponding sections of private industry. It is for the voters to decide whether, as Sir Alec thinks, this will dehumanize society.

That is, if the voters ever think of policies separately from the men who will carry them out. At the moment all attention is on the personal image Sir Alec is creating.

Sir Alec is his own best image-maker, but all the arts of the Tory establishment are being summoned to his aid and it is considered distinctly improper to take over certain details from his past or to question the aims of some of his supporters.

When he was parliamentary private secretary to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, he fully supported the government's appeasemnt policies of the late 1930s.

"I have never felt any doubt that the Munich decision was right," he said two weeks ago. "After all, we simply had not the power then."

He never allied himself with those who fought to make Britain powerful enough to counter Hitler's rise. Asked in a recent interview how he defined the difference between negotiations and appeasement, he said "Negotiation would be appeasement if it sacrificed something essential to free men—if it sacrificed free men or free territory."

The interviewer failed to mention Czechoslovakia, which may have been unfortunate. Sir Alec was with Mr. Chamberlain at Munich.

Sir Alec has had Edenesque ideas about the need for a British military presence in the Arab world. He was Sir Roy Welensky's favorite man in the cabinet when he was at the Commonwealth Relations Office. As foreign secretary he was in conflict with the United Nations and the United States over Katanga. He has steadfastly resisted putting pressure on South Africa or Portugal, and in recnt interviews has decried their racia' policies while refusing to consider economic sanctions. He has disturbed Afro-Asian governments by criticizing their militancy at the UN on colonial and racial questions, and his ability to feel real human kinship with the non-white world has been questioned. In remarks during the past two weeks he has remained wedded to the idea of a nuclear deterrent which Britain could use independently of the U.S., but also favored the political aims of the NATO multilateral force.

Debunker Debunked

A correspondent, commenting on abstract art in a letter in your paper Tuesday, once again quoted a false source.

She used the now well-known extract from The American Mercury of August, 1957, in which Picasso purportedly condemns abstract art.

It has been pointed out many times that the magazine piece was fiction, not fact, and that Picasso had nothing to do with it. It has been debunked many times before.

FAIR PLAY.

Call a Cop

I see by the press the Chief of Police of Victoria feels that the term "cop" for policemen is rude, used out of ignorance and even hate, by people of low character and bad morals.

This is far from true. As a matter of fact the word "cop" was conceived in police headquarters and delivered out of the womb of police parlance by high-ranking police officials in the far-off days before there was any organized crime on the scale of today's proportions.

In those days (and the practice may still obtain today) the man on the beat on returning to headquarters was required to offer a signed report on all the happenings which called for his attention during his patrol. Thus, at the end of his official notations he would sign his name: "all in all a very quiet night (or day), yours respectfully, Thomas Law, Constable on Patrol," which was abbreviated to COP.

In the office when anything of note or high importance was being discussed, the Chief Constable would invariably ask, "Who was the cop," or Constable on Patrol and it can readily be seen that this parlance became the coin on which was turned all the business of law enforcement.

It would be more to the point, in my view, if police officers, chiefs or constables, were less concerned about being referred to as cops and more heated to lay by the heels those responsible for the untimely demise of people like Downs and others whose deaths still remain unsolved. In this city the list, to say the least, is impressive.

Let Youngsters Choose

I often wonder at the mentality of the people who compile your PTA Children's Movie Guide.

What a dim-witted lot they must be.

Most of their classifications are enough to make a cat laugh—films that teen-agers love and enjoy classified as unsuitable; films that no youngster cares a hang about deemed highly suitable.

Let the youngsters decide for themselves what they like, and don't listen to these fusty old Mother Grundies who belong to an age long buried and forgotten!

Against Gas Station

The Community Planning Association of Canada, Capital Region Branch, would like to go on record as opposing the building of a gas station on the south-east corner of Henderson and Cedar Hill Roads.

The fact that this area was zoned in 1958 prior to the University moving to Gordon Head is all the more reason this should be reconsidered.

It is rarely a community has a chance of developing a University and its approaches on an untouched parcel of land.

When our children ask what did Oak Bay do towards the development of the University of Victoria and the only reply will be, "The Council approved a gas station outside the gates and held out for 400 feet of high rise apartments on two sides of the campus before giving their OK," will this not be a great feather in our hats?

'Eye Banks' and More

We of the civilized (supposedly) world have given up the pagan practice of burying jewels and other precious articles with our dead, but we are still burying something far more valuable with many of our dead—something that money cannot buy.

I refer to the gift of sight, which healthy corneas represent to many people such as the young mother pictured in our paper the other day. While this has inspired many of us to send the pledge to the CNIB, it does not immediately help Mrs. Harvey-Smith and others like her.

We have "eye banks" and "bone banks" and I hope and believe that in the not too distant future, healthy usable parts of all bodies being prepared for burial may be removed and stored for donation to any person with such a need.

This may seem macabre to many people, but when a car is no longer of any use, "i.e. dead," the good parts are removed and sold as spare parts for other cars—and this is only a machine! How much more important that human beings should receive the same if not better treatment!

Gerald Waring ...REPORTING

OTTAWA — Favreau, Lamontagne and Sauve are names that probably mean little to the average person outside Quebec. That is unfortunate. These men are potent influences on how all of us, of whatever racial descent, work out the divisive problems of English-French relations in Canada.

Guy Favreau, 46, is the minister of citizenship and immigration. He is widely considered to be on his way toward becoming minister of justice, the post traditionally held by the prime minister's chief lieutenant for Quebec. This promotion of course contemplates the political retirement of Justice Minister Lionel Chevrier.

Favreau has been an MP since April 8 and a minister since April 22. But seeing him in action, as when he cleared away the underbrush Aug. 2 on the federal attitude towards the Quebec government's efforts to take over administration of Eskimo affairs in Arctic Quebec, you might think he'd been around the Commons for a decade or more. Favreau is intensely concerned about resolving the conflicts between French-Canadians and English-Canadians. And a lot of Liberals are intensely concerned about Favreau: this man could be the next leader of the Liberal party.

★ ★ ★

Maurice Lamontagne, 47, is a leftward-leaning college professor turned politician. The Liberals' move toward state planning is largely Lamontagne. Officially president of the Privy Council, he is actually Prime Minister Pearson's minister for biculturalism.

Lamontagne is no threat to his politically ambitious colleagues in and out of the cabinet. In the 1962 election he lost Quebec East for the Liberals for the first time since Confederation. Last spring he got a seat because Pearson bought off the incumbent Liberal with a senatorship.

Lamontagne is a permanent guest in Pearson's ivory tower. He influences the prime minister greatly on the difficult problem of working out a new basis for Confederation. He coldly analyzes the factors that feed the fires of French-Canadian dissatisfaction and suggests remedies. He is the antithesis of the separatists and belligerent nationalists of his province—but he understands them, and helps Pearson understand and counter them for the preservation and strengthening of Confederation with the "new federalism" idea.

Maurice Sauve is the enigma of the lot. Just 40, brilliant and intensely ambitious, passed over when Pearson chose his cabinet, Sauve is in the avant garde of Quebec political thinkers. He was one of the architects of Premier Lesage's 1960 victory in Quebec, but he and Lesage are no longer close.

In his speeches he lauds Pearson, but political insiders suspect his loyalty. He prods the PM. He would rewrite the constitution to reduce the authority of the federal government and increase that of the provinces, especially Quebec.

"Let's work together for a better Quebec and a greater Canada," Sauve says—but it seems to me that his ideas would weaken the concept of one land from sea to sea, and further the balkanization of the nation.

THE LIGHTER SIDE — By DICK WEST

Taking the Cure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spiritually speaking, the population is divided into two parts—those who regard alcohol as a curse and those who regard it as a blessing.

West

Among the latter group, apparently, is an organization called the Physicians' Wine Appreciation Society.

I have at hand a press release reporting that six members of the society recently made a tour of the vineyards of Portugal. This stimulating bit of news was accompanied by a compendium of testimonials to the medicinal powers of the grape and the grain.

I gather that practitioners of the healing arts from Hippocrates on down have been impressed by the therapeutic qualities of bottled spirits.

Some of them appear to regard a beaker of booze as the next best thing to a phial of penicillin.

"Moderate use of beverage alcohol improves the amplitude and force of the heart, the mass movement of the blood, the output of the heart and the efficiency of the circulation," one medico commented.

Another noted that "when nitrites are not available, an ounce or two of whisky or wine may give quite rapid relief for angina pectoris."

A nip or two before a meal "stimulates gastric, pancreatic and intestinal juices," said a third.

Hooch also was credited with improving digestion, reducing tensions and promoting sleep. It likewise was represented as having beneficial effects in cases of arthritis, gout, diabetes, old age and the common cold.

A test carried out by a biologist was said to have indicated that moderate drinkers live longer than teetotalers.

Press releases are not always the last word in scientific accuracy, but this one certainly gave me a new perspective of fermented mash.

Being eager to observe its curative properties under clinical conditions, I repaired to the health bar at the National Press Club for laboratorial study.

It was amazing to see so many health-seeking journalists lined up in the taproom to receive shots. Some were getting shots of bourbon; others shots of scotch.

I talked with one patient who was improving his circulation with a martini. His circulation was so good it even showed in his eyeballs.

I wouldn't be surprised if the bartenders get arrested for practising medicine without a licence.

Skipper Fined For Dumping Oil

VANCOUVER (CP) — Capt. Costas Vaglanos of the Greek freighter Avra was fined $500 in court Tuesday for dumping oil in Georgia Strait.

Capt. John McNee, an aircraft pilot, said he spotted the oil slick in the wake of the freighter as he prepared to land his aircraft at the airport.

Frigate Cut First Victory For Hellyer

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Political life begins at 40 for Defence Minister Paul Hellyer.

The one-time farm boy, opera singer and seller of lingerie has won his first major battle in the war of attrition surrounding political advancement.

This war was not won in the Commons where the government last week survived a Conservative motion of non-confidence condemning Liberal defence policies.

It was won weeks ago when Mr. Hellyer, who turned 40 on Aug. 6, swung the cabinet to his support in favor of cancellation of the $452,000,000 frigate program.

This couldn't have been easy. Shipyard workers and the ports they live in represent a lot of votes.

Not to put too fine a point on it, the frigate program was a political if not military millstone around Mr. Hellyer's neck.

To begin with, there aren't a great deal of funds for new weapons and equipment for the armed forces. At least 80 per cent of the $1,600,000,000 defence bill goes for wages, operations and maintenance.

TIGHT SITUATION

If Mr. Hellyer had gone along with the frigate program as initiated by the previous Conservative government in April, 1962, he would have had little or no money to do any of the things he wanted to do in the defence portfolio.

He didn't make any bones about this. He told the Commons defence committee in June that he needed financial room to manoeuvre if he was going to be able to choose among various defence projects.

Now that he's out of range of the political sword of Damocles represented by the frigates, he can pick and choose, if not at leisure, at least without a sense of panic.

Aides say that the youthful, six-foot, three - inch minister came to the department determined that it would not be the political graveyard for him it has been for others.

'SHAKE' DEPARTMENT

In other words, if he was to make a political mark he would have to shake up the department as it has never been shaken in recent years.

There now appears no doubt he will reduce armed forces manpower, modify and then change the main roles of the RCAF, build a combined, airborne force and integrate the services to a greater degree.

In the Second World War pile of sticks, wallboard and linoleum known as defence headquarters, the awed question is being asked daily: "Where will he strike next?"

10,000 Lost Jobs Foreseen

OTTAWA (CP) — The government was asked Wednesday to reconsider its decision to cancel a $450,000,000 frigate program and the planned purchase of three British submarines.

Leon Balcer, former Progressive Conservative transport minister, said cancellation of the navy frigate program may cost 10,000 shipyard jobs. Canadian yards should be given a chance to build the submarines.

Justice Minister Chevrier, acting prime minister, replied in the Commons exchange that civil shipping worth $110,000,000 plus scientific vessel construction worth $50,000,000 will take up a lot of the slack.

He denied Mr. Balcer's assertions that these programs were drafted by the former government and that the frigate-program cancellation is a tremendous blow to employment.

It's Never Too Late

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Oscar Auerback, associate professor of pathology at New York Medical College, said Wednesday he has never seen lung cancer in a man who had not been a heavy smoker.

In a speech to a seminar on cigarette smoking sponsored by a church adult education committee, he said it was never too late to quit smoking. Defective tissues in persons who have smoked heavily for at least 10 years show regeneration after a person stops smoking.

In an interview, the cancer researcher said the fact that smoking is a major cause of lung cancer would be widely accepted if the cigarette industry did not have so much money riding on the continued and increased use of tobacco.

Sukarno Grabs Mills

JAKARTA (Reuters) — President Sukarno has ordered the seizure of all Malaysian-owned or backed rubber milling companies in East Sumatra, it was announced Wednesday. He has also instructed Indonesians not to listen to the broadcasts of Radio Malaysia and has imposed heavy penalties for anyone caught tuning in.

Aids for Family Planning Urged

VANCOUVER (CP)—A brief seeking legalization of the sale and advertising of contraceptives was sent to the federal government and all members of parliament Wednesday by the local Society for Population Planning.

The brief, approved at a meeting Monday night, is backed by the Canadian Federation of Societies for population planning.

It seeks deletion of three words in section 150 of the criminal code.

The effect of this would be to legalize the sale and advertising of contraceptives but would leave illegal the sale or advertisement of any device or instructions intended to procure an abortion or miscarriage.

The brief says the forbidding of the sale and advertising of contraceptives offends against the religious beliefs of the majority of Canadians "because it makes a criminal offence something which the churches believe to be a moral necessity in these days."

It says that the Roman Catholic Church approves the principles of family planning as do the Anglican and United Churches.

"The act, as it stands, tends to inhibit social agencies from offering advice and assistance in family planning to those families in receipt of social assistance — though many of these families are handicapped in their efforts to become self-supporting by the burden of too many children."

Shoplifter Gets Six Months Jail

A thief who walked out of the Hudson's Bay Company Tuesday with two $85 suits over his arm, was sentenced to six months in jail when he appeared in court Wednesday.

Jake Peters told the store detective who arrested him, "I don't know why I did it." Peters has a police record for theft going back to 1957.

CHEAPER TO KILL MAN THAN TO KILL MOOSE?

Victoria Labor Council Wednesday protested the "light" sentence imposed on the killers of three strike pickets.

Council will write to Ontario's Premier J. P. Robarts calling for a royal commission into shooting of three union men at Resource Siding.

The men responsible were fined $100 for the shooting.

E. T. Staley said: "At least we'll establish the price of killing a man."

A delegate noted that killing a moose out of season brings a $500 fine.

McKAY-CORMACK

Shipyard Delays Expansion Plan

Expansion plans for McKay-Cormack Ltd. shipyard on Kingston will be delayed due to the federal government's cancellation of the proposed $450,000,000 frigate program, managing director Capt. George Veres said Wednesday.

The yard, which for years has concentrated on small-craft building and repairs, is not directly concerned as contractor or sub-contractor for the now-extinct frigates.

"But the big yards are bound to become more hungry and give us too much competition in the type of business we were going after by expanding our facilities," Capt. Veres said.

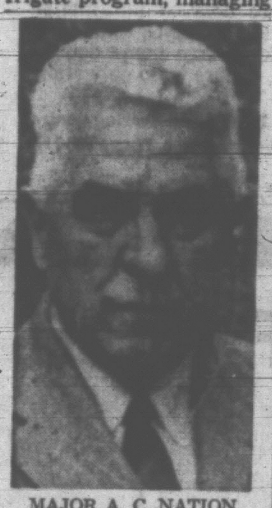
PLANNED IN AUGUST

Prospects of expansion were announced in August, when the firm was purchased by a Victoria group headed by E. C. Warner.

On the brighter side, Capt. Veres said McKay-Cormack has secured North American distribution rights to Ajax nylon propellors, manufactured by F. Bamford & Co. Ltd., Stockport, England.

Work has started on a 32-foot patrol vessel for the government of Chile, Capt. Veres said, and he hopes to have an order for a second of the same size later this year.

The firm is also negotiating with the Export Credit Insurance Corporation's finance division to loan the Chilean government $750,000 to finance an additional nine larger patrol vessels, for delivery over a three-year period.



MAJOR A. C. NATION
. . . long illness

Vimy Vet Succumbs In Seattle

A Victoria veteran of Vimy Ridge has died in Seattle aged 81.

Major Arthur C. Nation died Tuesday Oct. 29 after a long illness.

Brother Harold T. Nation, and sisters Isabel and Doris, are living in Victoria.

Major Nation was last here in 1958.

CAME HERE IN 1908

He was born in California, educated at Bedford, England, and Heidelberg, Germany, and came here in 1908.

He joined the 30th Battalion, CEF, in 1914, and later was in the 7th Bn. for the rest of the war.

Major Nation took part in the capture of Vimy Ridge where he won the Military Cross and Bar.

After the war he was hired by J. D. Duthie Shipyard in Seattle, as chief engineer.

The major is survived by wife Mary Elizabeth and son Arthur W. C. in Seattle.

His brother Harold lives at 2380 Windsor Road, Oak Bay.

Election Race Assured For Esquimalt

Esquimalt voters have been assured of an election race by a high school teacher's decision to run for a council seat Dec. 5.

He is Gerald T. Horne who says he will run in opposition to "a small pressure group" which is supporting Coun. E. S. Cassels, C. L. Fraser and Arthur Mebs as candidates for three seats which will be open.

The group, Esquimalt Voters' Association, is also supporting Coun. Bert Nelson in his reeveship fight with incumbent A. C. Wurtele.

Mr. Horne is a member of Esquimalt Recreation Commission and wants to expand recreation facilities to include more people, such as senior citizen groups.

Cholera Toll Climbs

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) —More than 87 persons died of cholera in the Bogra district during the last three days, official sources said Thursday. The total death toll from cholera in the district during the last two weeks reached 230.

SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED

Claremont Girls Honored

First class marks of two Claremont Senior Secondary School students won them Saanich Teachers' Association scholarships, given at a recent association dinner.

Prize winners were Cheryl Moyer, 89.5 per cent in university entrance examinations in June, and Fay Squance, who obtained 83.25 per cent. They got $250 and $150 respectively.

"I can give these young ladies unconditional recommendation as excellent citizens," said school principal James Lott.

Both girls are attending University of Victoria, Cheryl with a view to journalism as a career, and Fay planning to enter nursing at Royal Inlands Hospital, Kamloops.

Miss Moyer has been active in 4-H Club activities, public speaking and dramatics, while her classmate is interested in choir and church activities and was a member of the future nurses club.

One Santa, One Day Parade's Objective

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce will co-ordinate the arrival of Santa Claus in Victoria with a parade Nov. 23.

"Last year various Santas arrived earlier in November and they didn't all arrive on the same day," said Bryan Holliday, Jaycee president.

In 1962, one Santa arrived by helicopter Nov. 14 and another parachuted into Beacon Hill Park Nov. 17.

The parade will have a nursery rhyme theme with St. Nick and his reindeer on a float surrounded by Walt Disney characters and clowns handing out balloons and candy canes.

Victoria merchants will help Jaycees finance the parade.

Major department stores, Eaton's, Hudson's Bay, Woodward's and Town and Country Shopping Centre have agreed Santa will not appear in their stores until after the parade and they will not use Christmas music until December.

Eatons Consider Relocation of Mainland Store

VANCOUVER (CP) — The T. Eaton Company is considering relocation of its downtown department store as part of a proposed downtown "superblock" shopping mall.

Harry Pickstone, deputy city planning director, says the company has expressed interest in the proposal, which would involve a covered shopping mall linking three downtown department stores in a six-block area.

Eaton's, now located on Hastings Street, also owns property at Georgia and Granville Streets, near Hudson's Bay Company.

Mr. Pickstone said the planning department still is working on the shopping mall proposal and hopes to have cost estimates for city council soon.

Raiders Ransack Plant

MONT LAURIER, Que. (CP) —About 30 men raided the Bellerive Veneer and Plywood Company here Tuesday night and wrecked machinery, office furniture, windows and trucks.

The company has been having labor troubles since a strike began Aug. 19, and only recently resumed production with about 50 employees instead of the usual 200.

Several of the company's trucks parked behind the plant were turned over. Furniture and files in the manager's office were smashed, torn and scattered.

Controls for plywood—panel pressing machinery were broken and logs 10 inches across and eight feet long, part of the stock used for making veneer and plywood, were tossed into machines.

Damage will probably amount to several thousand dollars.

Monk Says Separatism Aided by Catholicism

TEN-POUND King crab from Alaska is latest member of the family at Vancouver Aquarium. Staffer Nancy Kennett, 16, displays the crustacean, largest type in North American waters. They often measure four feet in width.

The French Canadian Catholic church has aided separatism by discouraging intellectual freedom, a Franciscan monk told University of Victoria students Wednesday.

William Collins, mendicant friar of the 754-year-old order, spoke at noon assembly as part of French Canada Week program.

But the old order is changing and a new era of enlightenment is on the way for French Canada's Catholics, the 32-year-old priest said.

A NEW MARCH

There are men in the church now who are leading a "new march toward truth, rather than standing still in a stagnant mire of confusion."

He said the young clergy will "overthrow the old guard," although he could not estimate how long this would take.

The church establishment contains an older element, some of whom would muzzle clergy who speak the truth too loudly, the Franciscan from Lumsden, Sask., said

Although Saskatchewan-born — in Regina — the monk served in Quebec and became fluent in French.

GRADUATE ECONOMIST

He is a graduate economist and has studied a broad range of humanities including foreign languages, history, philosophy, English and psychology.

He told about 100 students and faculty that French Canadian students feel a need for an adult association with the church.

He said although they were adult in other respects there is the feeling that the church was giving them "baby food instead of meat—an insult to the intelligence."

CLOSER BOND NEEDED

Today's citizens of Quebec require a closer bond with the church, need to play a greater role in secondary education and must have a clearer understanding of "what is God's and what is Caesar's."

The laity of some parishes are now getting instruction on how they may become closer to the church, the speaker said.

"The clergy perhaps has had its nose too tightly pressed against the showcase to see what it contained," he added

Discouraging intellectual thought in the past has resulted in the wave of nationalism now apparent.

A word of safety — don't burn brush or trash in or around woodlands until the adjoining landowners have been notified.

TOO ILL TO PLEAD

Addict Freed Tuesday Re-Arrested That Day

A drug addict released from police custody Tuesday morning was charged with theft of narcotics the same evening.

Robert Ronald Smith of Vancouver stood swaying in the dock with his eyes closed, when he appeared on the charge Wednesday.

Magistrate William Ostler asked him, "Are you ill?"

"Yes, very ill," he whispered in reply.

The magistrate said he was in no condition to plead and remanded him for two days.

FURTHER CHARGE?

Police said Smith was arrested after a break-in occurred at McGill and Orme, 1139 Yates, Tuesday night.

It is understood a further charge, concerning possession of narcotics, is being considered against Smith.

The accused was originally arrested Oct. 21 and charged in connection with the narcotics robbery of the McGill and Orme drug store at 1103 Pandora on Oct. 10.

KEPT IN CUSTODY

That charge was later withdrawn and another one of unlawful possession of narcotics laid against him. He was kept in custody on this charge until Tuesday when he was released.

Crown Counsel George Gregory said Tuesday the Crown could not establish a case against Smith.

While Smith was being held in custody, bail in his case was set at $10,000 after the court was told he has a record and is a drug user.

Chief Warns Watch Drugs

Police Chief J. F. Gregory warned doctors and druggists Wednesday to take extra precautions in guarding their drug supplies.

He said addicts may attempt to get their hands on them since there apparently is a shortage in the underworld supply.

In recent weeks drugs were stolen from the cars of several doctors and taken in break-ins at two drug stores

Big Golf Show

Foreign Players Must Practice

DETROIT (AP) — Golfers from 60 countries will shoot at a $200,000 jackpot, richest prize ever offered in a golf tournament, in the first World Open championship at nearby Oakland Hills Country Club next August.

Details of the tournament, which has a $35,000 first prize, were disclosed Wednesday night by tournament director Richard Taylor. He said the first round will begin Aug. 27.

The event will be held in the U.S. again in 1965, will shift to Britain in 1966 and to Canada in 1967.

Taylor returned last week from a world tour in which he worked out details of nine sectional tournaments in which the world's top golfers, professional and amateur, will compete.

Czechoslovakia is expected to be the only Communist country represented.

QUALIFY AT HOME

Each foreign player will have to qualify in his own country, Taylor said. For example, Gary Player, who has competed in many pro tournaments in the United States for the last few years, will have to qualify in his home country, South Africa.

The field will include 105 U.S. golfers. About 50 to 55 of them, including the top pros, will be picked by next July based on their showing in Professional Golfers Association tournaments.

In order to permit some of the lesser known local and regional U.S. pros to have a chance to qualify for the tournament, 45 others will be picked on their showing in some of next year's PGA events.

There will be 35 foreign entries, plus 10 other winners of certain golf tournaments to bring the field to about 145.

Golfers around the world have to signify their intention of playing 45 days before tournament time and must post a $15 registration fee.

In another unusual departure, the tournament players will be housed in two motels so that all will have equal accommodations.

REGISTER BY OCT. 20

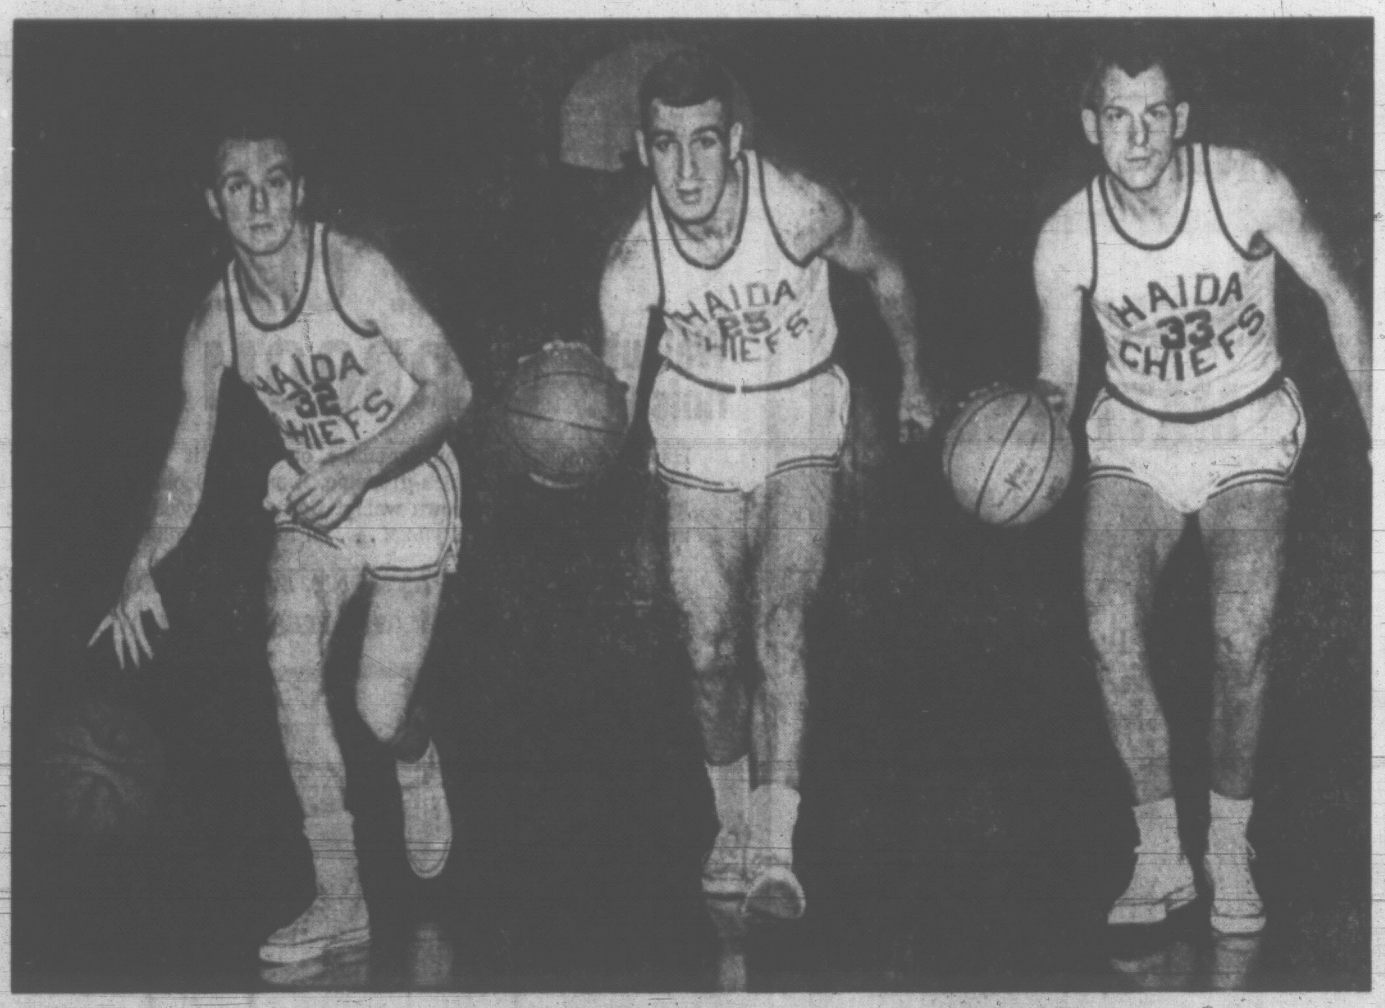
Foreign golfers will have to register at the suburban Detroit golf course by Oct. 20.

"We have found in the past that foreign golfers often do not make a good showing," Taylor said.

"We found this was due to the fact that many of them arrived on a plane just before tournament time and tried to play a course without really getting a chance to know it.

"For this tournament, we want all the foreign players to get here a week early and that will give them enough time for some socializing with their own ethnic groups and then they can have three solid days of practice before the tournament opens. We think this will mean much improved golf by the foreign group."

Tournament sponsors said it will be televised nationally in the United States and may be shown in Europe via Telstar if technical arrangements can be made.



TRIPLE TROUBLE FOR HOOP RIVALS

Each hoping to cook up trouble for Inter-City Basketball League rivals are three new members of Victoria Haida Chiefs. Heading towards season opener at Central Junior High School Friday night are Dave Shaw (32), Pete Simmonds (25) and Barry Sadled (33). Chiefs tackle Vancouver IGA, which could be ready to jump from cellar to first place this season after switching name from Puritans and adding bevy of talented players. Clubs meet again at Central Junior Saturday night. (Times photo by Halkett.)

Goal Splurge Paves the Way For Canadians

Safeway Canadians' sharpshooting forwards powered the Victoria Senior Hockey League squad under a new light.

Canadians, making the most of their best scoring chances with deadly sniping, turned out the best goals production of the infant season Wednesday night at Memorial Arena as they trounced Suburban Mercuries, 9-2.

While Canadians used offensive power to win their second game in three starts, Arena Cougars counted on a great display by goalie Ed Hastings to join Safeways in a share for the league lead.

The youthful Cougars clipped Dorman's Cavaliers 4-1 in the other half of the weekly doubleheader.

The twin-bill drew almost 500 fans.

SCORING DIVIDED

Despite the nine-goal outburst, no member of Canadians' team managed to score more than once. Toby Wilson, Bob Harris, Jim McNeill, Metro Kaplanchuk, Bob Holness, Ray Beech, Bill Chisholm, Steve Merriman and Art Binks were the marksmen.

Bill Carlow and Brian Erb counted for Mercs.

Cougars, outshot by almost a 2-1 margin, got off to a 3-0 lead in the first period and then counted on Hastings to hold the fort the rest of the way.

Glen Vickers, Les Johansen, Glen Robertson and Buzz Wilson counted for Johnny Bond's juniors, while Bob Tytgat spoiled Hastings' shutout with Dorman's goal midway in the third period. Cougars were shorthanded at the time.

FOR VIKINGS

Harper Doing His Bit

Victoria University Vikings are still looking for their first victory, but it's not Glyn Harper's fault.

Harper appears to be the best thing that has happened to the Vikings since the school dropped its "college" label and picked up university status.

The slick forward has counted four goals and one assist in Vikings' first two outings to grab a share of the individual scoring lead in the Esquimalt and District Hockey League.

PONTIAC PAIR

Jim Bronson and Bob Fowler of the unbeaten Esquimalt Pontiacs alho have five points to their credit.

Harper gets a chance to take over top spot, and Vikings have an eye on their first victory, when the Collegians face Navy in Friday's fixture at the Sports Centre.

Vikings will also introduce their candidate for league "queen" at Friday's game.

Game time is 8 p.m.

Former Goalie Dies

CRAMSTON, R.I. (AP) — Paddy Byrne, 65, a former goalie with professional hockey teams at Providence and Kansas City, died Wednesday at his home. He had been ill for six months

JEROME WORKING OUT FOR TRACK COMEBACK

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Canadian sprinter Harry Jerome, out of competition for nearly a year with a leg injury, is working out again, hoping to be back in form by spring.

But all Bill Bowerman, University of Oregon track coach, would say is: "His competition will depend on his ability to compete well."

Jerome, one-time co-holder of the world record in the 100-yard dash at 9.2 seconds, tore a muscle while running in the British Empire Games at Perth, Australia, a year ago. Later, at his home in Vancouver, he underwent surgery and dropped out of school for a term.

Soft Touches Are Gone From Basketball Scene

The soft touch is no more, Alberni Athletics are back, and teams in the Inter-City Basketball League are expecting bristling warfare all the way as they prepare for opening battles in a new season.

And the war could leave some scars on Victoria's Haida Chiefs.

Chiefs made their debut in the league last season and were the surprise of the circuit as they grabbed a playoff berth with a third-place finish. The Haidas are stronger this time but they could have trouble doing as well.

The reason for Haida apprehension is the knowledge that the league is better all the way around.

Adding the most power appears to be Vancouver IGA, the club that campaigned as Puritans last winter and was usually an easy touch, winning only four of 15 games.

IGA goes gunning for scalps Friday night at Central Junior High School when they open the season against the Chiefs at 8:30. The same clubs will be back on the same floor Saturday night for a rematch.

Coached by Bob Burtwell, IGA has collected some sharp snipers and could be the club to beat. Among the additions made by the Grocers are Victoria's Ed Pedersen, Rod Tomson, Bill Anthony, rookie Ian Dixon and Lawrence Predenchuk.

Chiefs have gained height, strength and experience and could be a power if the club develops cohesion. Among the new Haidas are Pete Simmonds, a six-five rebounding ace, agile Barry Sadler and Dave Shaw.

The Chiefs didn't click as a unit in two exhibition clashes with Alberni Athletics and relied mainly on individual efforts as they dropped a pair of decisions to the Elmer Speidel-coached Athletics.

Alberni, joining the league this season, have two big men in six-seven Neil Dirom and jump-shot slicker Doug Brinham. Those two give Speidel a solid core for his club and the Athletics have to be rated a chance of grabbing one of the four playoff spots.

Athletics make their first league start Friday on the mainland, tangling with New Westminster Bakers, the only holdover club that does not appear considerably stronger.

Fifth club in the circuit is North Vancouver Harlems, who edged the Bakers for first place last season and have added three or four experienced stars.

It may be a rugged season for the Chiefs but everything points to an interesting campaign for the fans.

SCHOOL SOCCER FINAL

There's a Reason Bays Plan to Win

Statistics say Victoria High Tyees should be favored over Oak Bay in the city high school soccer final Friday night at Royal Athletic Park, but the Bays aren't paying any attention to figures.

There's a good reason why they think they can end the Tyees' three-year reign as prep soccer kings.

The Bays didn't lose a game to Vic High this season.

They handed the Tyees their lone league defeat and battled their rivals to a 2-2 deadlock in a second contest.

Over the season, Vic High won the league crown with six victories, three draws and one defeat. Oak Bay had five wins, three losses and a draw.

Although they have an unblemished record against Vic High, the Bays have a few worries.

ROBARTS INJURED

Defensive strength provided by goalie Brian McKenzie, fullback Lloyd Murphy and centre-half Pete Robarts played a big part in Oak Bay's second-place finish. The Bays yielded only eight goals, one less than given up by the Tyees.

But both Robarts and McKenzie appear doubtful starters for the payoff game.

McKenzie is still bothered by a rib injury suffered two weeks ago and is not expected to be ready Friday. If he is still on the sidelines, Don Head will take over between the posts.

Robarts, a B.C. all-star in 1961, sustained an eight-stitch knee cut last Sunday and may not be back in action.

Tyees, who expect to be at full strength, will have two of the league's top goal scorers on the firing line.

Marty Taylor of the Tyees paced marksmen over the schedule with nine goals. Doug Bainbridge of Vic High and Howie Anderson of the Bays were tied with two others in second place, each with six tallies.

Scoring leaders:

Marty Taylor (Vic High)	9
Howie Anderson (Oak Bay)	6
Doug Bainbridge (Vic High)	6
Gordie Strongman (Mount Doug)	6
Ken Squires (Esquimalt)	6
Dave Evans (Vic High)	4
Greg Pearson (Oak Bay)	4
Oscar Waldal (Vic High)	4
Bruce Wallace (Oak Bay)	4
Russ Ball (Claremont)	3
Doug Hill (Mount Doug)	3
Joe Milligan (Claremont)	3

$79,650 Payoff Racing's Greatest

(Times News Services)

WESTBURY, N.Y.—Joseph Mariano, a once-a-week bettor from Waterbury, Conn., won $79,660.30 on the twin double at Roosevelt Raceway Wednesday night, the biggest twin double payoff on record.

Mariano completed his big payoff when Lt. Byrd came across the finish line the winner for the first time in 22 starts. Lt. Byrd was a $61.60 longshot.

The other three winners making up the twin double were Miracle Henry, a $4.90 favorite; Sea Missile, a longshot at $32.80, and another favorite, Dixie Melody, at $6.90.

The previous high for a twin double was the $68,228.80 won at Suffolk Downs, Oct. 19, 1962. The New York State record was $37,116.10, at Monticello Raceway, Aug. 18.

Canadian Talent Proves Difference

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders haven't missed an Eastern Football Conference playoff since 1956 when Frank Clair was brought back to Canada to rebuild the club shattered by dissention under Chan Caldwell.

Riders make their eighth straight appearance in Big Four playoffs Saturday when they oppose Montreal Alouettes in the east's sudden-death semifinal at Lansdowne Park. Kickoff time is 1 p.m. EST and the game will be shown over the CBC television network.

A key to Clair's success both in Ottawa and in Toronto where he coached from 1950 to 1954, is his ability to produce good Canadian players.

A GOOD EXAMPLE

An outstanding example is quarterback Russ Jackson, nominated in the east this season for both the top Canadian and player of the year awards.

The McMaster graduate, who came to Ottawa in 1959, had his best year this season. He was the Big Four's leading passer, ninth in rushing and tied for 14th place in individual scoring.

Other Canadians that the Alouettes will have to contain in the Ottawa backfield Saturday include flanker Whit Tucker and halfback Ron Stewart. Tucker's ability to catch long passes has made him a star in his first season on offence while Stewart's running, blocking and pass-receiving make him a triple-threat man.

Clair said Wednesday that Stewart and halfback Jack Nichols are the only doubtful starters for Riders Saturday. Both have leg injuries.

Canadian Equestrians Press World Champs

NEW YORK (CP) — Gail Ross of Edmonton continues to show fine form at the National Horse Show here where the Canadian equestrian team is giving the leading West Germans a tight battle after two days of international jumping events.

Miss Ross, 21, came up with a perfect performance for the second day running to put the Canadians in second place and within shouting distance of the West Germans, the defending Olympic champions.

West Germany scored its second victory in the three international jumping events thus far by taking the Joseph B. Murray Memorial Trophy Wednesday night.

The event was a team test that involved three horses and three riders from each of the five competing countries—Argentina, the United States and the Republic of Ireland in addition to Canada and West Germany.

West Germany's riders took their three mounts over the 12 jumps in a total of 94.3 seconds.

TIME WAS SLOWER

Canada also was clean on its three entries, but its time was 111.9.

West Germany now leads the team scoring race with 35 points to 25 for Canada, eight for Argentina, seven for Ireland, two for the United States.

Canada's three horses were ridden by Miss Ross and Torontonians Tom Gayford and Mel Stone.

Miss Ross, who learned to ride when she was six, had a pair of faultless performances Tuesday when she won the jumpoff to give Canada its first international win this week. Gayford was second.

BOWLER OF WEEK

It was no surprise to city bowlers when Marg Cooper (above) captured women's tenpin award in Times Bowler-of-the-Week competition. One of Victoria's top distaff trundlers for several seasons, Mrs. Cooper earned week'ly award with 546 three-game scratch total in Friday-Niter League at Mayfair Lanes as she rolled single games of 179, 198 and 169.

ABERTILLERY (Reuters) — The touring New Zealand All-Blacks beat a combined Abertillery and Abbw Vale side 13-0 in a rugby match in this Welsh town Wednesday.

LIONS LEAD ALL . . . . . STAMPS, RIDERS ALSO BREAK MARKS

Greatest Ever Season at Gate

EDMONTON (CP)—Not since 1959 when British Columbia Lions reached the Western Football Conference playoffs for the first time have so many football attendance records been shattered.

And with Lions assured of a berth in the WFC, more are expected to go down the drain.

Over-all WFC attendance in 1963 was 769,426 with Lions, Calgary Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders setting season attendance marks. While no previous league attendance figures are available, officials believe the 1963 league turnout to be the highest ever.

Only in 1959 when Lions and Winnipeg Blue Bombers set attendance marks has over - all league totals approached the current campaign levels.

B.C., which finished on top for the first time since entering the league in 1954, attracted a record 251,712 fans in eight league games in Vancouver. This easily surpassed a mark of 243,604 set in 1959 when Lions finished third. It brought the over - all attendance at B.C. home games, including a 1959 playoff game, to 2,071,702.

Included in Lions' 1963 attendance was a single league game mark of 36,659 set Sept. 27 when B.C. met Calgary Stampeders. This topped a turnout of 34,272 established Aug. 31, 1959.

Also expected to fall this year is the single-game playoff mark of 34,342 fans set Oct. 31, 1959, in the first playoff game involving B.C. at Vancouver.

However, one mark that will be safe this year is the record Grey Cup turnout of 39,319 established Nov. 26, 1955, in Vancouver when the Canadian final was held in Western Canada for the first time.

Officials announced this month standing room tickets will NOT be sold when the Canadian final is held in Vancouver Nov. 30 and this will hold maximum attendance at about 36,500.

Calgary attracted 153,952 fans in eight games to surpass a total of 137,186 set in 1962. Saskatchewan drew 111,526 fans to beat the old mark of 100,462 set eight years ago. Winnipeg drew 133,181 while Edmonton attracted 119,055.

ELSTON HOWARD NAMED JUNIOR CIRCUIT'S MVP

BOSTON (AP)—Elston Howard, the take-charge catcher who spurred the hobbled New York Yankees to a fourth consecutive American League championship, today was named the league's most valuable player.

Howard received 248 votes to 148 for runner-up Al Kaline of Detroit Tigers. Third was Yankee pitching ace Whitey Ford with 125 points.

Howard is the first Negro to win the junior circuit's MVP award. The NL winner has been a Negro 11 times in the last 15 years.

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY

There are a few players in the National Hockey League who like to run at anything. They throw caution to the wind. They're hard players. That's how they made the league and they're not going to change.

We don't call them dirty players because I don't think there's a player in the league who would deliberately hurt anyone.

They'll hit you. That's my job, too. I hit everything that's moving. I want to do anything to help my club. They're doing the same thing.

But there are a few who are like radar. They track down everything that comes their way. You're not scared of them but you're aware they're out there. You're extra alert because they don't care how they hit you.

On the ice, all's fair at love and war. We go at one another hammer and tongs. This is the only way you know how to play—all out.

Eddie Shack of Toronto is an all-out individual. I don't hold anything against him. He's big and strong. I think he could be a little better hockey player if he stuck more to hockey. But he's strong, moves around and believes in rugged hockey.

Howie Young of Chicago likes the rough going. He actually plays a better game when the going gets rough.

There is a fellow on our club, Bill Gadsby, who is just as punishing with his checks. Few realize how dangerous he is. He moves slowly, isn't as obvious as the others.

Murray Oliver of Boston was having a very good year last season. He made a mistake, got too close to Bill, and Gadsby hit him with a nice clean check that put him right out of the scoring race.

Bill hit him with his hip. In order to do that he almost has to pivot on an individual. If you're alert and see him half way turning around, there's where a little caution pays off.

Seals Grab First Place

SAN FRANCISCO (CP)—Class is beginning to tell in the Western Hockey League.

San Francisco Seals, last year's league champions, moved in front Wednesday night with a 3-1 victory over Vancouver Canucks.

The victory pushed them two points over the idle Seattle Totems who are just a point ahead of Portland Buckaroos. The Bucks go against Los Angeles tonight.

Canucks, who now have a three-two won lost record on their current road trip, get another crack at the Seals at San Francisco Friday night while Portland goes against Denver.

More than 5,800 fans saw the Seals pile up a 3-0 lead in the first two periods of the game while veteran Bob Perrault shut the door on the Canadians.

But Buddy Boone spoiled the shutout, slipping the puck past Perrault from close in early in the third.

Two defencemen, Mo Mantha and Tom Thurlby, put San Francisco two up in the opening period and right winger Len Haley got the other in the second.

Mount View Club Forces Playoff With Esquimalt

Mount View has forced a playoff with Esquimalt for the inter-high school junior girls' basketball title.

Mount View pulled into a first-place tie with Esquimalt by defeating their rivals 33-26 Wednesday at Esquimalt High in the final game of the regular schedule.

The sudden-death playoff will be staged on a neutral floor.

In Wednesday's game, Gail Streeton fired 20 points for Mount View as the two clubs finished the schedule with records of three wins and one loss.

Wakeham Returns To District Wars

Bill Wakeham, reigning B.C. Amateur champ, returns to district golf competition Sunday with an appearance in the Monthly Medal matches.

Wakeham missed the first of three medal rounds last month because of his participation in the Commonwealth matches in Australia.

Leading the chase for the medal is veteran Bill McColl, who holds a one-stroke lead over professionals Dick Munn and Norm Boden.

Sunday's round will be played at Colwood. The draw:

10:09 — L. Carroll, W. McColl, F. Scroggs, J. Hadfield.
10:08—N. Boden, R. Munn, J. Wilson, R. MacLeod.

Lions Expect Packed Park For Playoffs

VANCOUVER (CP) — Seats at Empire Stadium will be increased to 36,560 from 32,500 for both the Western Football Conference final and the Grey Cup Nov. 30, it was announced this week.

The announcement was made as British Columbia Lions fans lined up outside the club's downtown office for tickets to the finals to be played here.

Lions will meet the winner of the Calgary-Saskatchewan semi-final. First game of the final will be played on the prairies Nov. 16. Second game is at Empire Stadium Nov. 20 and the third, if necessary, Nov. 23 here.

RIDER COACH TO RECEIVE NEW CONTRACT

REGINA (CP)—Head coach Bob Shaw of Saskatchewan Roughriders has agreed to sign a new two-year contract with the Western Football Conference club, president Bob Kramer said Tuesday night.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

Shaw, in his first season with Roughriders, led the club to a third-place finish in the regular season.

CALGARY GROUP READY TO ROLL . . . . . . IF JANUARY VOTE FAVORABLE

Canada Has Inside Track for Winter Games

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Jim Worrall isn't a betting man, but if he had to wager on which country would get the 1968 Winter Olympic Games, he'd put his money on Canada. "I might even give 3-to-2 odds," he says.

His reasoning: Canada (which has picked Banff, Alta., as its site) is the only country in the running that has never played host to a winter or summer Olympics. France, he figures, is Canada's strongest competition.

Worrall, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, returned to Toronto this week after attending sessions last month of the International Olympic Committee at Baden-Baden, Germany. At that time, the IOC awarded Mexico the 1968 summer Games.

"Our chances of staging the 1968 Games are quite good," Worrall said. "There is some possibility that some of the European countries might not want to come to the western hemisphere twice in one year, but I think we might be able to overcome this.

"I think that on the technical side of things—our ski slopes and so on, and on our organization—that we are as well, if not better, equipped to handle the Games than any of the other countries that will make their official bids in Austria next January."

The decision will be announced Jan. 28, the day before the 1964 winter Games open at Innsbruck.

"If we are awarded the Games at that time, the Calgary Olympic Development Association is ready to roll immediately," Worrall said.

Worrall, who has no say in IOC affairs, said Canada learned one lesson at Baden - Baden. "Our presentation should be brief and our delegation should be small. I think that if we do this, we quite possibly will be well received."

Other countries bidding for the 1968 winter Games are Japan, Switzerland, the United States, France, Norway and Finland.

"Every one of these countries has, or will have, played host to the winter or summer Olympics. I think that if we are going to further the Olympic movement and encourage nations to play host to the Games that Canada rates serious consideration."

Teachers Reject Offer

DUNCAN—More than 100 members of the Cowichan Teachers' Association Tuesday rejected a tentative 1964 salary-scale agreement reached by a Vancouver Island teacher-trustee negotiating team in Nanaimo last weekend.

Teacher spokesman Bill Duyvewaardt said negotiations will resume on a local level and a further meeting between the teachers and trustees has been set for here Nov. 13.

Mr. Duyvewaardt said the Cowichan teachers voted to stick to their original demands for increases they described as being geared to Canada's economic growth.

Details of the demands and the proposed settlement have not been made public.

Agreement has been reached in nine other school districts.

An official of the B.C. School Trustees' Association said teachers on the Gulf Islands will receive a 2.45 per cent increase.

In Sooke, rural Saanich, Lake Cowichan, Ladysmith, Qualicum, Alberni, Courtenay and Uchuelet-Tofino the increase will be 2.5 per cent.

Twenty-two of the province's 83 school districts now have settled on salary scales.

Work-for-Welfare Scheme Withdrawn

COURTENAY—Mayor William Moore has given up his work-for-welfare scheme temporarily anyway.

He said Wednesday he had been unable to see provincial Welfare Minister Wesley Black when he visited Victoria Tuesday, but he had found out the federal aid cut off for three men who worked for their welfare had been ordered by Dr. Richard Splane, assistant deputy welfare minister in Ottawa.

The city received only the provincial government share of welfare payments for three men who worked under his plan in August.

He said the city paid out the $76 difference for August but it could not continue to do this and he ordered the change to no-work-for-welfare.

The mayor said he is writing federal Health Minister Judy LaMarsh protesting the cut.

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—A 21-year-old Victoria hunter was found Wednesday after being missing for a day in this area.

Douglas Fieldhouse, a provincial government employee, wandered from woods to an area being planted with trees and was spotted by workers.

DUNCAN — Linda Nora Tommy, 17, shut herself in a refrigerator and died of suffocation, a coroner's jury ruled Tuesday.

Coroner James S. Goodbrand said the girl was found Friday in the kitchen refrigerator of her home on the nearby Koksilah Indian Reserve. She apparently had been in the refrigerator for nine hours.

An autopsy showed the girl had taken aspirin before her death.

TOFINO—A near drowning occurred a short distance from Fishermen's Wharf when T. A. (Bill) White and his son, Peter, 20, had their boat swamped.

Because of their heavy boots and hunting clothes they could not swim. They held onto the skiff and removed the motor to save themselves, losing it and a gun.

They held onto the skiff for an hour and cried for help.

A local resident, John Lund, thought he heard cries for help. He rushed to Tofino packing and Mr. Pierre Malon took out his boat and brought the two men to safety. They were suffering from cold and exhaustion.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—People are dashing madly around town shouting, "Earl Wilson is perfect. He never makes a mistake!" This is pretty embarrassing to me. I'm just big enough to say it isn't true—I have made one or two mistakes.

Geography seems to be one of my weaknesses.

Which is unfortunate—since I'm a world traveller. I go everywhere, but apparently I never know where I've been. When I was a student at Ohio State University long ago, a professor wanted to flunk me in geography. I laughed at the poor fellow. Now I think he would have been justified.

"Dubrovnik, the beautiful resort on the Black Sea," I wrote recently in a piece about Ben Grauer and his wife.

It's the Adriatic Sea, if you must know. That wasn't so bad as me telling about Tennessee Ernie Ford having a home near San Francisco and a rach way across the state a ranch way across the state line."

I just happened to forget there's a state called Oregon between them. But my readers didn't forget it . . . Pow, right in the chops!

Sometimes it isn't my fault. I flew to Los Angeles to see Edie Adams and all those stars in the "Mad, Mad World" premiere. Sid Caesar and I got into a cab and told the driver to take us to Stanley Kramer's house on Mapleton Drive, for the big sendoff. We wound up at Schwab's drugstore at the other end of town.

Now I don't think those two addresses sound alike, but the cab driver did.

It may be that the ghost of that geography professor is after me for having said those bad things about him. Not long ago, the B.W. and I were in Europe where I was doing some stories about Kim Novak.

"We are now passing over Wales . . . that is Bristol right below us," the stewardess at the microphone said.

I was busy writing a column, and I hurriedly slapped on a

JANE RUSSELL

dateline, "Bristol, Wales."

How was I to know that we were going so fast by jet from Wales to England in the time it took to utter those words . . . that we were then in Bristol, England, not Bristol, Wales?

Once again my readers caught me up. One lovely female said that was like saying "Mexico City, Alaska."

I blame all these errors on "polyhedral listening"—listening in all directions, which they say can drive you crazy. You never quite know what your friend's said because one on the other side is talking into the other ear.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Alan Jay Lerner'll take the script of his B'way show to Europe this week, to discuss the starring role with Max Schell . . . A couple of young secretaries followed Cary Grant into the men's room at the Americana and kissed the startled actor. Then one of the girls said, "Can I shake your hand, Mr. Grant?" . . . John Wayne's cowboy saga, "McLintock," will be premiered in Paris ('cause Wayne'll be there) . . . Peter Sellers'll by a Playboy pinup; he'll be dressed, surrounded by undraped beauties.

Jane Russell, opening at the Copa with Connie Haines and Beryl Davies, announced. "We've made 24 records together, and we're still speaking to each other. That isn't bad for three dames." . . . There was a mixup of tickets at "A Funny Thing," and Helen Hayes sat on the steps . . . Joe E. Ross of "Car 54" was flown to H'wood and paid $2,000 to say "Ooh, ooh" on the Jerry Lewis show; he says, "I'd have given them another 'ooh' for only $500 more."

Sidney Poitier's refusing all TV offers; his last television appearance was eight years ago . . . James Garner's salary from a single film—"Wheeler Dealers"—is more than all the money he ever earned on "Maverick" . . . Sugar Ray Robinson's rewriting the script of the film "Champs Elysee," in which he'll star in Paris.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "Psychiatry," says Barney Martin, "—that's the business to be in. I know a guy who's making $1,000 a week plus all the change that falls into the couch."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "I'll say one thing for politicians I've seen on TV," notes Bob Orben. "They don't lie any more than the average sponsor."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "A gentleman is a gardener who can call a spade a spade, without adding any qualifying adjectives." Albert D. Lasseter.

EARL'S PEARLS: "The easiest way to get a jar open is to tell a five-year-old not to touch it." Rip Taylor.

Alan King claims at the Waldorf that he's very suspiciaus of health foods: "Before I'd buy Tiger's Milk, I'd want to know what happened to the guy who did the milking." That's earl, brother.

TEEN-AGE CANADA

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

What Every Girl Should Know

By JACK HUTTON

When 17-year-old Echo Karen Kadwell made history last week, in New York City by becoming North America's top teen-age seamstress, she had a secret weapon.

The secret: her boy-friend, David Wark, had picked out back in Guelph, Ont., the materials for the four-piece ensemble that won her the international contest.

I asked Echo Karen to pass on a few tips for readers of this column hours after she became the first Canadian to win the teen division of the Singer Young Stylemaker Contest.

"It's difficult to pass on advice," said Echo Karen, "but I firmly believe that every girl should learn early about a needle and thread. After all, our main job is in the home."

I should add that Echo Karen, now in Grade 12 at Guelph Collegiate Vocational Institute, practices what she preaches. She started planning her own home two weeks ago when she became engaged to David.

And she's also firm about the future. She turned down the offer of a free trip to Paris to accept $1,800 instead. It will finance a home economics course for her at Macdonald Hall in Guelph.

Fifty Dollars

Her winning entry was a four-piece brown ensemble with a triangular cape and mink-trimmed hood. "I spent about $50 on materials," said Echo Karen, "but have been offered $350 for it."

That sounded economical, but how many Canadian girls have the same interest in making their clothes, I asked. "Well, there are 16 girls in my sewing class at school," she said, "and I think most like saving money this way."

Echo Karen started her sewing career in the same way thousands of other girls do—watching her mother.

"I was just interested," she said. "Mother didn't push me, but I tried making doll clothes when I was six or seven years old. I think it's a good idea for any little girl to do the same thing."

More Style

I found, by the way, that girls like Echo Karen who have tried making their own clothes are usually far more style-conscious—and money-conscious—than others who always depend on stores.

Mrs. Doris Allen, who accompanied some of the girls, said she had been amazed. "I've found girls seriously reading Vogue, Bazaar and other fashion magazines at the age of 14, 15 and 16," she said.

Echo Karen nodded agreement. "When I see something that I like in one of the style magazines, I often wait until I find a similar pattern and alter it to fit what I saw," she said. "Sometimes you can't tell the difference."

How much money should a teen-age girl be budgeting each week or month for clothes, I asked. "That's hard to say as a general rule," said Echo Karen. "But I figure on about $5 a week."

Echo Karen, by the way, has a part-time job as a sales-girl in a local store and earns $12 a week. "Seven dolalrs of that goes into the bank," she added.

Did she have any other tips? "Yes," said Echo Karen, "I've made myself live up to one rule to avoid heartache. Because I know we're all likely to buy on impulse, I rarely buy clothing until one week after I've seen it. Buy then I know whether I'm sure."

Somehow I think you'll all agree 17-year-old Echo Karen is going to be a first-rate home economics teacher.

Now they've done it. Thousands of British teen-agers are trying a dance patterned on the familiar walk of Prince Philip with his hands behind his back.

The dance, started a few months ago by teen-agers in Basildon, Essex, is called "The Blues." But others call it "The Prince Philip Polka" because of the familiar pose.

Don't ask me how the dance is done, but it involves a great deal of head-shaking and other contortions. Some dance hall owners claim they have to supply most people aspirin after trying the step for the first time.

Somehow I can't imagine the royal family enjoying this new step for the first time.

New Stamp

If you're a stamp collector with an interest in science, watch for two stamps which Denmark will issue Nov. 21 portraying Prof. Niels Bohr and his advancement 50 years ago of the atomic theory.

The one stamp I've seen shows a picture of Prof. Bohr with a diagram of his theory in the background. The 35 ore is printed in red, by the way, and the 60 ore in blue both on ordinary as well as fluorescent paper.

Old Fuddies

Joanne Marshall, a 15-year-old reader from Halifax, N.S., wrote to comment on the controversy about school dances for 11 or 12-year-olds.

"I've never heard of anything so crazy as parents stopping a school dance for 11 or 12-year-olds," she said. "Don't the old fuddies realize it's better to start going to dances with supervision? Down with old fuddies."

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Karla Knight, age 11, of Cape Elizabeth, Maine, for her question:

How many time zones are there in the world?

A calendar day begins at midnight. But when it is midnight in New Zealand, it is high noon in London. In Tokyo, it is nine in the morning when the clocks of Rio de Janeiro say it is nine in the evening. The time zones were planned to settle this global confusion of the clocks.

The world's time zones are based on circles and every circle is divided into 360 equal degrees. As the earth rotates around its axis, it too circles through 360 degrees. It rotates once in 24 hours, so in one hour it rotates through 15 degrees of a circle.

Each time zone is planned to account for one of the 24 hours of a calendar day. If you guessed that the world has 24 time zones, you would be right. Time creeps westward and each zone is one hour ahead of the zone to the west and one hour behind the zone to the east.

The lines between the zones are planned to follow the lines of longitude that run from pole to pole. If a zone line ran through a big city, the people to the west would be an hour behind those in the east. For this reason, the zones bend around large population areas. On the ocean, most of the zones are straight, though some bend around island groups.

The time zones are also related to the circles of latitude that run around the globe. In one hour, time marches across 15 degrees of all the lines of latitude. The largest circle of latitude is the equator and here 15 degrees equals about one thousand miles. North and south of the big circle, the globe tapers towards the poles and the circles of latitude get smaller. The degrees of latitude get shorter.

Time Zones Separate Canada

At the equator, the time zones are about 1,000 miles apart. North and south of the equator, they get closer together. The 24 time zones divide the globe like 24 sections of an orange.

Victoria and Halifax, Nova Scotia, are separated by four time zones. It is 9 a.m. in Victoria when the clocks of Halifax say noon. These four time zones equal one-sixth of the distance around the globe, with its 24 time zones.

Every hour, the sun seems to travel 15 degrees of a great circle over the sky. Actually, the sun does not circle around our little planet. The earth rotates, facing the sun with first one side, then another. The earth rotates 15 degrees in an hour, which makes the sun seem to travel 15 degrees every hour over the sky.

★ ★ ★

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to John B. Reed, age 11, of Prosperity, West Va., for his question:

What causes magnetic storms?

The sun is a seething furnace of nuclear power and the earth is a giant magnet. The sun pours out its atomic fury in all directions and the earth is surrounded by a vast magnetic field. When sunspots and solar flares erupt on the face of the sun, streams of charged particles are shot out into space. And electrical particles are affected by a magnetic field.

Magnetic storms often occur on earth following a major eruption on the sun. It is thought that they are caused when charged particles from the sun meet the earth's magnetic field. A magnetic storm may cause blackouts in long distance communications, aurora displays and upsets in the earth's magnetic field.

Beauty Treatment Re-Planned

Ald. A. W. Toone said Wednesday he will strive to get the derailed downtown beautification program back on the tracks this winter.

Under the program, launched with considerable fanfare last winter, the city hoped to encourage whole blocks of the downtown area to voluntarily get together and repaint store fronts in complementary colors.

Several building owners did an outstanding job of using city planning officer Roderick Clack as a color consultant but these were done on an individual basis.

Generally speaking, the program has been a bust so far.

"I have been disappointed somewhat but certainly this program is going to move ahead in January, 1964, if I can possibly do so," said Ald. Toone, chairman of the beautification committee.

"We batted around a number of ideas Wednesday on how to carry this forward and they have been referred to the officials for study and report later this month on feasibility and cost estimates.

"There will be some costs involved because we will be providing some city facilities and personnel to the program."

The winter-time start is needed to catch merchants when they are making up their minds about spring repainting. The city hopes that not only complementary colors will be used but that the painting up will highlight architectural features above the ground stories to improve the appearance of entire street blocks.

Montreal Publisher Dies at 86

MONTREAL (CP) — John Wilson McConnell, newspaper owner and philanthropist who rose from a $3-a-week job to control of business enterprises worth millions of dollars, died in hospital Wednesday at the age of 86.

Known as widely for his generous gifts to educational and medical institutions as for his business acumen, Mr. McConnell had been in failing health for the last few months.

He was born on a farm in Ontario's Muskoka district, the youngest of seven children of John McConnell, and was only 14 when he left home to take a $3-a-week job with a Toronto biscut company.

GAVE UP DIRECTORSHIPS

When he assumed the presidency of the Montreal Star in 1938, he gave up directorships in nearly a score of companies including the CPR, the Bank of Montreal and International Nickel Company.

Tribute came immediately from Prime Minister Pearson in New York, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker in Ottawa and Montreal's McGill University, an institution to which he gave more than $8,000,000.

Hunters Suffocate

ROBB, Alta. (CP)—Three hunters died early Wednesday when a portable propane gas stove flame in a home-made trailer apparently went out. RCMP said the three apparently suffocated and three other men in the trailer survived.

WHEAT DEAL

K. Hoping Pressure Will Help

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is speculation in farm circles that the Soviet Union may be counting on American grain growers and exporters to put pressure on the Kennedy administration to eliminate a barrier holding up a big sale of wheat to the Soviet bloc.

Blocking the sales and causing Soviet Premier Khrushchev to threaten to break off wheat negotiations is a stipulation by President Kennedy that the grain be moved on American-owned ships to the extent they are available.

The freight rates on the American vessels are reported 20 to 30 per cent higher than those of foreign ships. The American ships have higher labor and other costs.

The Russians have made clear that they want the grain moved the cheapest way possible.

Farm leaders said it is possible that Khrushchev may be hoping that the U.S. wheat producers—motivated by fear of losing wheat sales—that could boost their income and greatly reduce a surplus that is burdening their markets—will put pressure on the administration to drop the requirement that American ships be used.

NO ACTION YET

So far, these leaders said, there has been no indication that growers will take such action.

The requirement applies only to wheat and wheat flour sold to Soviet-bloc countries. Other dollar buyers of wheat and flour may ship any way they desire. The Russians, who have indicated they will pay dollars on terms applicable to other countries, regard the ship requirement as discriminatory.

Under present U.S. regulations, Soviet-bloc countries can buy most any other farm product and ship it on foreign vessels. This applies to farm products which move abroad under government export subsidies except wheat and flour, and to farm products for which government export subsidies are not offered.

Thus the American export regulations applying to sales to the Soviet-bloc countries place wheat and wheat flour in one category and other agricultural products in another.

Some grain experts in the agriculture department — while declining to comment publicly—do not hesitate to say in private conversations that they are at a loss to understand why the ship condition was attached to sales of wheat and wheat flour only.

TCA Seeks Only Six Small Jets

MONTREAL (CP)—G. R. McGregor, president of Trans-Canada Air Lines, in a statement Wednesday said that regardless of the specific type involved, the company's initial order for small jet aircraft will not exceed six and will have a value of not more than $24,000,000.

Mr. McGregor said he felt it time to make a statement because "so many conjectural statements have been published which are so far wide of the truth."

Mr. McGregor's statement continued:

"TCA does not attempt to forecast its fleet requirements for periods of time longer than 10 years, but for the period 1963-73, inclusive, at this time TCA cannot foresee an aggregate ownership of more than 30 small jets to a maximum possible value of $120,000,000.

"This represents an average annual capital outlay not in excess of $12,000,000. TCA does not foresee that it will be looking to the government or anyone else for this money, as the company's forecasting indicates that during the next decade depreciation accruals will be adequate to cover the purchase of small jet aircraft.

Mother Places Poppy Wreath In Remembrance

Remembrance Day will be marked in Langford with the laying of a wreath by the Mother of Honor Mrs. Jessie A. Thornburn, at the Cenotaph service Monday at 10:30 a.m., in the Prince Edward Branch, Royal Canadian Legion Hall, Dunford Road.

Sentries will be from the Royal Canadian Navy, the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary) and cadets from the Royal Canadian Air Force and the Royal Canadian Legion.

Wreaths will also be laid by legion president A. Foley and president of the ladies' auxiliary Mrs. A. E. Anderson.

NEW PRESIDENT of Pacific Logging Congress is Don McColl of Vancouver. He was elected at annual parley in Portland attended by delegates from many west coast points. Next year's convention was voted to Vancouver.

Court Okays Winding Up Of B.C. Power

VANCOUVER (CP) —B.C. Supreme Court Wednesday granted permission for winding up the affairs of British Columbia Power Corporation.

Douglas McK. Brown, counsel for B.C. Power, told Mr. Justice J. Aikins that the purpose for which the company was incorporated under a federal act in 1928 had ceased to exist. He said assets exceeded liabilities by $120,000,000 but no suitable project could be found for investment of funds.

B.C. Power was holding company of B.C. Electric, a company that operated a huge power generation and distribution system, transit systems and a railroad in B.C.

Montreal Trust was named liquidator of B.C. Power.

WEATHER BLAMED

Serious Shortage Of World Sugar

MONTREAL (CP) — N. W. Davis, vice-president of Canada and Dominion Sugar Company Limited, said Wednesday current reports indicate a serious shortage of sugar on the world market.

"Adverse weather has again played havoc with world sugar crops and below-normal yields are predicted in several areas," Mr. Davis said in an interview.

"As a result, it now appears that the 1963-64 world production increase may not exceed 2,000,000 tons, far below the anticipated increase in consumption."

Mr. Davis said that according to statistical projections by sugar brokers, world stocks at the end of August, 1964, could decline at least 3,000,000 tons from the "extremely low" figure of 9,400,000 tons reported by European sugar economist F. O Licht as of last Aug. 31.

The sugar crop year extends from Aug. 31 to Sept. 1 of the following year. In 1958-59, world sugar production totalled 50,800,000 tons and consumption was 47,500,000 tons, leaving stocks of 14,100,000.

In 1962-63, production was 50,750,000 tons and consumption 56,900,000 tons, leaving stocks of only 9,450,000 tons.

Mr. Davis said Canada need not fear a sugar shortage provided she is willing to pay the world price.

"Our sugar is guaranteed to us under the Commonwealth sugar agreement. As long as we are willing to pay the price, these countries will reserve enough sugar for us to cover our needs."

The last increase in the wholesale price of refined sugar took pace Oct. 31 when the price was hiked 20 cents to $18.65 a 100-pound bag.

BELL PHONE FIGHTS BACK ON NE DEAL

OTTAWA (CP) — The Bell Telephone Company of Canada fought back Wednesday against a legal assault on its ownership of Northern Electric Company.

Bell lawyer J. L. O'Brien of Montreal urged the Board of Transport Commissioners to dismiss a bid for an order declaring Bell's acquisition of Northern Electric to be illegal and ordering Bell to divest itself of all its Northern Electric shares.

The application was made by Industrial Wire and Cable Company on the grounds that Bell, under its act of incorporation, has only the power to buy telephone companies.

Are you the one person in three who might benefit from a low-cost Seaboard Mortgage Loan?

Borrow up to $10,000- as long as 10 years

What is a Seaboard Mortgage Loan? It is a low-cost loan for people who own, or are in the process of buying a home. The money you have invested in your property is excellent collateral for a Seaboard Mortgage Loan. And this means you get one of the lowest rates of interest to be found anywhere, because real estate offers such excellent security.

When should you take out a Seaboard Mortgage Loan? Only when it's to your advantage. This can be worked out between you and your Seaboard manager. You and he may find that a Seaboard Mortgage Loan can help you, as it has other people:

- To reduce your monthly mortgage payments.
- To pay off high-cost charge accounts and loans for furniture, car, clothing, etc. Often articles which you think you are buying at a saving are actually costing you an unnecessarily high price because of the variety of service and interest charges.
- To put your children through university or to make home improvements.
- To help you purchase a new or older home if you are having difficulty in raising the necessary mortgage money.
- To assist you in selling your home if a prospective buyer has difficulty in raising cash to your mortgage.

How much can you borrow? You can take out a Seaboard Mortgage Loan up to $10,000 or 80% of the market value of your home. What's more, monthly payments can be planned to fit your budget and leave you with extra cash each month.

How does this special plan work? Here is an example of how a Seaboard Mortgage Loan can reduce your total monthly payments and save you money:

FILE NO. 32 — 4709 "MR. JONES"
HOUSE MARKET VALUE $12,500

Present Obligations		Present Monthly Payments
1st mortgage	$3,200	$ 70
Personal loan	900	42
Balance on auto	700	50
Totals	$4,800	$162 per mo.
Extra Money Required	500
Total Obligations:	$5,300

New monthly payments with a Seaboard Mortgage Loan—$96 per mo.

Total obligations consolidated into one Seaboard Mortgage Loan reduce monthly payments from $162 to $96—a 40% reduction in monthly payments, or $66 extra in your pocket each month.

What special benefits do you receive from dealing with Seaboard?

- You can renegotiate your contract anytime.
- Special life insurance pays your contract in full in event of death.
- You can repay ahead of schedule at no extra charge.
- No hidden charges of any kind.
- No "balance" or "balloon payments" of any kind.
- Minimum registration and legal fees.
- Everything open and above board.
- Seaboard's years of experience in the mortgage loan business.

Phone or write for all the details about the low-cost Seaboard mortgage loan. Or, better still, call in for a personal interview with your Seaboard manager. Evening appointments can be arranged.

Labor Leaders Turn Out Edition of Times

Photos Report On Busy Day

It's becoming an annual custom for Times staffers to invite well-known citizens to help put out an issue of the paper. Last year, the editors-for-a-day were businessmen; this year, 13 leaders of the labor movement accepted the invitation, and pitched in with right good will to find out what makes a paper tick—and actually do much of the writing, editing, and headline writing. All regular staff members, from managing editor to police reporter (not necessarily in that order) had their shadows during the hours leading up to deadline and the final order to roll the presses. Photos on this page show some of the union men in their new—but temporary—line of work.

. . . And As for Next Year

Times' people and visitors appeared to enjoy themselves so much on "visitors' day" that plans are already in the works for a repeat next year.

Once again a group of citizens will be invited—but who they'll be remains classified information until sometime next year.

TO GET THE NEWS—ASK QUESTIONS, DISCUSS ANSWERS

Good reporters get out and dig, track down men in authority, pin them down in an intelligently conducted interview. Showing himself well able to cope with the duties of Times legislative reporter Frank Rutter, centre, was Tom Smith, Vancouver Island representative of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, who got along well with Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, who appears to be saying: "Now, the government's position in this matter is . . ." Meanwhile, back at the office, one of B.C.'s best-known labor leaders, Percy Rayment, takes time out from his duties as wire editor to discuss Mr. Smith's story about Mr. Black with Peter Murray, regular wire editor. Mr. Rayment, retired executive of the Victoria Labour Council, took to his unaccustomed duties with verve belying his 82 years. Commented Murray, "he kept me panting after him all morning—what an operator."

HERE'S THE HEART of the news gathering machine—the news desks, where thousands of words are battered down into digestible form in the manner newspaper readers have come to expect of a competent journal. Sitting in on the desk Tuesday, and doing a laudable job, were (centre) Bob Milliken, Teamsters' Union, and John Gallow, Construction and General Laborers' Union. Victoria Typographical Union executive Bill Richardson, far right, is no stranger to newspapers but usually operates in the composing room. Mr. Gallow also served as television columnist for the day.

First Copy Filed In Union Archive

Victoria Labor Council secretary-treasurer Alf. W. Toone told delegates Wednesday night that the first copy of Tuesday's Times off the presses had been filed at Union Centre.

Delegate Fred Bevis commented: "It's things of this nature (Tuesday's stand-in editor day for Victoria's labor men) that in some small way counteract the great amount of unfavorable publicity so often against us."

Objective of the Times' invitation to citizens in various walks of life to spend part of a publishing day with the staff is to introduce the men who make the news to methods of diseminating the news.

Both in 1962 and this year, staff and news sources got to know one another better, and, as indicated by the remarks made at Wednesday's labor meeting, achieved more of an understanding of one another's problems.

TUESDAY LINE-UP

Managing Editor—Ald. Alf Toone, secretary-treasurer, Victoria Labour Council. Also guest editorial writer.

News Editor—Bill Richardson, Victoria Typographical Union.

City Editor—Murray Drew, president, Victoria local IWA.

Wire Editor—Percy Rayment, retired secretary, Victoria Labour Council.

Sports Editor—Vince Butler, musicians' union.

Women's Editor—Mrs. Ethel Ritchie, Office Employees' Union.

City Hall—Bill Gauld, V.I. representative, Canadian Labour Congress.

Police Reporter—Jim Moffat, Carpenters' Union.

Legislative Reporter—Tom Smith, Canadian Union of Public Employees.

TV Columnist—John Gallow, Construction and General Labourers' Union.

Movie Columnist—Bob Milliken, Teamsters' Union.

Cartoonist—J. Burt, second vice-president, Victoria IWA.

Photographer—John Nicol, Retail Food and Drug Clerks' Union.

WISE IN THE WAYS of reporters, Mrs. Joyce Rolfe, secretary to Mayor R. B. Wilson, knows the value of a smile whether she's carrying out evasive action or about to usher the press into the inner sanctum. Here City Hall reporter John Mika, centre, admires her technique as his shadow for the day, Bill Gauld, is poised to take notes. Mr. Gauld is Vancouver Island representative of the Canadian Labour Congress.

PICTURE OF PHOTOGRAPHER printing picture of himself printing picture of himself. In this case the photographer is John Nicol, whose time usually is occupied with duties with Retail Food and Drug Clerks' Union. Acting as Times photographer, John "scored" with the main art on Tuesday's local page, an honor sought after by staff photographers.

LONE BUT FAR from lonesome lady among the visitors was Mrs. Ethel Ritchie, of the Office Employees' International Union, who worked in partnership with Bessie Forbes as Women's Editor. Her verdict: "What a fascinating business. So complex, so efficient."

INITIATION INTO the mysteries of the Klischograph electronic engraving machine is given Ald. Alf Toone by operator Derek Chambers, left, and Times' regular managing editor Les Fox. Mr. Toone, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labour Council, was guest ME. As such, he helped settle questions like which story should get the page one "line", what pictures should appear, and wound up the day's work by punching the button to start the press.

Point of Law Queried In Banks Arrest Delay

OTTAWA (CP)—"Under what law did you do that?"

This question by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker remains unanswered after Justice Minister Chevrier told the Commons Wednesday he instructed the RCMP not to execute a warrant for the arrest of Hal Banks for 13 days after a Montreal court issued it.

At the root of the matter is the wording of the arrest warrant in which the court "commands" the police "forthwith to arrest the accused and bring him before" the court to answer the accusations.

Informants say the government's stand is that the warrant is not really a command and that forthwith means only that the police must arrest the accused when they can.

Banks was arrested Nov. 5—13 days after special Crown prosecutors laid charges of conspiracy to commit assault occasioning bodily harm and were issued a warrant to arrest him.

CHEVRIER EXPLAINS

Mr. Chevrier said he ordered the 13-day delay in the public interest to protect grain movements against interruption. Banks' Seafarers International Union of Canada walked off the job Oct. 21 to protest government trustees taking over the SIU and four other maritime unions. The men were back at work Oct. 26.

Under questioning for the third straight day, Mr. Chevrier said that "having regard to the circumstances as I found them at the time I thought I was acting under the best interests not only of the country but particularly of the manner in which the movement of grain had to be protected at the time."

Mr. Diefenbaker asked what authority Mr. Chevrier had to suspend a warrant—"to direct them (the police) not to execute that which the court had directed?"

"It's all very well to say 'I did it because of circumstances.' Tyranny always operates that way. Under what law did you do that?"

Mr. Chevrier argued that this was a legal point and he wasn't going to get into a legal argument with Mr. Diefenbaker.

CHARGES INTERFERENCE

At another point, when Mr. Chevrier told Paul Martineau (PC — Pontiac-Temiscamingue) that the delay order came from the justice minister himself, Mr. Diefenbaker shouted:

"That is gross interference."

Mr. Chevrier said at another point, when asked why he gave the instructions, that "the first concern of the government was keeping the men on the ships in order to keep grain moving, and that was the reason the warrant was not executed immediately."

He had not wanted to interfere with the union trustees who were just taking up their duties.

The trustees—appointed Oct. 23 on the day the charges against Banks were laid and the arrest warrant was granted—met Banks and heads of the other maritime unions here Oct. 24. The SIU voted to end their walkout—described as an "illegal strike" by Labor Minister MacEachen — that night. The men were back to work by Oct. 26.

However, reports from Toronto Wednesday quoted SIU members as saying Mr. Chevrier betrayed them and forecast another walkout. Mr. Chevrier declined to comment in the Commons.

Yes Sir, Yes Sir, 13,000 Bagsful

Volunteers will set out Saturday to collect 13,000 bags—full, they hope.

The bags were distributed last Saturday by 150 members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Y-Teen and Hi-Y clubs of Victoria for Goodwill Enterprises for the Handicapped.

Saturday, 200 young people will set out again, and with the aid of 30 trucks and six trailers will gather articles to provide work and wages for the handicapped this winter.

ODDS AND ENDS

It isn't money the Enterprises want—it's clothes, household articles, shoes, bric-a-brac in any quantity.

Children's clothing is especially wanted.

Household appliances are repaired and sold by the men's workshop; clothing is processed and repaired and also sold. This represents the only income of Goodwill Enterprises.

Victoria's many low-income families are first to benefit from the low-priced goods.

Goodwill Enterprises hopes to move into new premises within two years.

ROCKET BELT BECKONS TO WILD BLUE YONDER

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Bell Aerosystems has developed two rocket belts capable of flying individuals as high as 60 feet and as far as 815 feet, it was announced Thursday. Bell produced the first such belt in 1961 for experimental purposes. The second belt was made to enable Bell "birdmen" to make dual flights. The belts can speed an individual along at 60 miles an hour.

FUNERAL TODAY

Final Curtain Falls On Singer's Career

Funeral service was conducted this afternoon at McCall's Chapel for well-known entertainer Pat Berry. Interment was at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Mrs. G. Barter, who was better known in the entertainment world as Pat Berry, died Sunday in St. Joseph's Hospital after a lengthy illness. She was 41.

PAT BERRY
(Mrs. G. Barter)

Born in Winnipeg, Pat started her singing career there and sang on CBC programs for a number of years.

For two years she sang at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto and was with the Bert Niosi band when they made their one and only western tour.

TOURED WEST COAST

Other entertainment tours took her as far north as Alaska and as far south as California. In Los Angeles she sang with Fred Martin before returning to Toronto.

In 1946 her parents Mr. and Mrs. David Berry moved to Victoria and in recent years Pat made her home here at 991 Snowdrop Avenue.

While living here she sang with the Hometowners orchestra and at the Sirocco Club.

She was predeceased by her father last year.

Surviving are her mother, Mrs. David Berry, 485 Boleskine Road, 16-year-old twin son and daughter, Larry and Laurene, two sisters, Marion Hagel, Vancouver, and Gloria (Berry) Berdahl, an entertainer in Calgary, and one brother, Stuart Berry, Naramata.

Highland Games Delegates Meet

Delegates from Portland, Seattle, New Westminster, Vancouver, Chilliwack and Nanaimo will attend a meeting in Victoria Saturday of the Pacific International Highland Games association.

The meeting will be held at 2 p.m. in the Colonial Inn, with president W. H. Brown of Victoria, in the chair.

A banquet will be held at 7 p.m.

NORTH COWICHAN — Paul B. Stone will be reimbursed $40 from the Sheep Protection Claim for two sheep which were killed by unknown marauding dogs. Loss of the sheep amounted to $70.

'Seat Belt' Worked

VANCOUVER (CP) — A junior-size seat belt was praised Wednesday for saving the life of a 16-month-old youngster. Mrs. Cathleen Warsket told police her daughter Lou was in her troller when it was struck by a car. She said the seat strap in the stroller prevented the baby from being thrown to the pavement.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1963—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

Most times I chatter along like any squirrel, but about once each month a day arrives when I'm utterly stumped for anything to write about.

In my trade, we have names for this condition. The politest is writer's cramp. Whatever one chooses to call the affliction, it strikes without warning and evaporates no less mysteriously than it sets in.

The worst such slump I ever suffered lasted most of a dreary winter.

That one, though, was the veriest kitten; I know a poor fellow in Toronto who got himself tied in such a knot that he couldn't put words to paper for a year.

A free-lance, he was in the habit of getting the kids off to school, drinking a leisurely post-breakfast cup or two of coffee, sharpening the three dozen pencils he kept in a bowl, then settling to work at a bridge table in the sunroom which he shared with a budgie and a mess of potted begonias. There he produced well enough to keep his family in comfort.

One day his wife decided this good provider deserved better working quarters. All on her little own, she rented and furnished for him a downtown office, complete with noiseless typewriter and a sheaf of ballpoints.

★ ★ ★

My friend disposed his haunches on the new spring-back swivel chair behind his new glasstop desk. He then prepared for the daily dive into fiction.

The way he tells it, something queer happened to his fingers as they were about to make contact with the waiting keys.

They felt as if they were swelling, even though they looked no bigger. Presently his hands began to sweat.

He went out for coffee, wandered around a while in a neighboring department store, then returned to try the consequence again.

No soap. He was socked in, slumped out, and his wife paid for her folly with 12 months that all but blew the connubial nest asunder.

You think I'm inventing or enlarging? Believe me, I'm not!

There was even once—and for all I know still may be—a New York psychiatrist who parlayed himself into a Rolls and a place on Long Island by treating writers' blocks. I never heard that he was very successful, but at least he gave his patients something to occupy themselves with while waiting for the mental ice to thaw.

★ ★ ★

Lay treatments vary with the blocked writer. These include liquor, brisk walks, love, and wearing the necktie he had on when he sold his first story. To the best of my knowledge, none of these work. The fit has to wear itself out.

A good wife comes to realize that the guy isn't just playing lazy. She learns that neither sympathy nor cossetting is worth a hang, and if she's smart, abandons these tactics.

What she does if she's ruthless as well as smart is put her becalmed husband to work at the most horrible tasks she can find for him. Cleaning roof gutters is a good starter, and painting house an excellent follow-up. The theory here is that after a week on a ladder he will be so glad to escape to his typewriter that the words will flow like crazy.

If they don't . . . well, at least the house got painted.

Ordinary little slumps, the kind that hit me today, are generally cured by the approach of deadline.

Should you ever find yourself bogged in the middle of an essay page, committee report or such, here's a writers' stunt that may help. Copy the last three paragraphs you set down: the chances are, you'll then plow briskly on to a conclusion.

And Three Miles Later . . .

Flashy convertible in showroom shape above had only six miles on the "clock" when salesman Cliff Lloyd posed for advertising picture at Chatwin Motors, Alberni, Saturday night. Next night, with only three more miles registered, it was the total wreck shown at right. Without bothering to open showroom doors, a thief drove out amid a shower of shattering glass and rolled car in ditch after brief chase by RCMP. YOUNG THUGS ROB NEWSBOY

A 13-year-old was literally "shaken down" by two older boys at about 8:30 Wednesday evening.

David Hall, 1141 Palmer, was standing outside a newspaper circulation shed at Cook and Merritt when two youths drove up in a black car.

They shook him so violently his wallet fell out of his pocket.

After stealing $7 from it, they fled in the car.

Barbers To Set Hours

City finance committee today recommended that council stop telling barbershops when to close.

It urged council to rescind the present bylaw compelling all barbershops to shut on Wednesdays.

This would throw barbershop hours open in the same manner as other shops.

The recommendation followed a petition by 27 of the 53 barbershop operators that council switch the compulsory closing day from Wednesday to Monday.

Ald. J. L. W. McLean argued that the city should not try to arbitrate the split among the barbers.

"I can see no reason why, if it were left to them, the operators couldn't come to an arrangement among themselves as to when they close."

Mayor R. B. Wilson agreed and added that withdrawal of civic regulation did not mean the barbers could not close. He said that the hours-of-work regulation would provide protection for employees.

Committee also recommended that council petition the legislature for an amendment to the Fireworks Regulation Act permitting the city to shorten the present one-week Halloween period for sale and discharge of fireworks. This would enable a uniform approach in Greater Victoria, Mayor Wilson said.

Current survey and engineering studies for converting Memorial Arena into a multi-purpose Coliseum are proceeding well, committee was told.

Arena manager John Morgan and city engineer J. C. Garnett were authorized to visit Seattle this month to study a similar conversion carried out there.

Ald. A. L. Curtis, council's liaison with the arena commission, said the study was gathering steam "and the more you think about the proposal the better it appears."

Final legal and financial tag ends of the civic parking garage bylaws for expropriating the sites were cleaned up with a committee recommendation that Lydia Arsens be paid $3,500 she claimed as compensation for loss of leased premises on the View Street garage site more than two years ago.

Oak Bay council will be asked to declare where it stands on library facilities so that the other municipalities can follow up a special report.

Saanich council asked City Hall for an answer to its request for negotiations last spring aimed at giving Saanich a voting delegate on the library board.

But Mayor Wilson pointed out this question was tabled pending a decision on a library survey urging development of a metropolitan library system. This in turn was tabled at Oak Bay's request so it could make up its mind on whether it wanted to join the other municipalities or provide its own facilities.

Finance committee asked Oak Bay to eliminate the roadblock by stating its position so that the other discussions can get rolling again.

Tender call for restoring and repainting the antique elevator in the temporary City Hall was authorized.

Topics of the Day

The B.C. government will appoint a provincial committee to work on plans for Canada's 1967 Centenary.

The committee will be appointed by the provincial cabinet, a government official said today.

He said B.C. is now awaiting word from the federal government on financial arrangements.

The B.C. committee will co-ordinate local centennial projects, he added.

Ottawa and B.C. have already agreed to make grants to communities for special projects to mark the centenary.

The results of a Royal Commission investigation into workmen's compensation may be delayed until after the next session of the legislature.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said the commission was expected to finish public hearings this fall, and have its report completed in time for the session, which starts Jan. 23.

Chief Justice A. C. DesBrisay was appointed to conduct the commission at this year's session in March.

Mr. Peterson said Mr. DesBrisay wants to hold more hearings, and it is now possible that his report won't be ready until after the end of the session.

The B.C. government has been asked to convert the Witty's Beach, Lagoon and Waterfall area into a provincial park.

A letter to this effect has been sent to the B.C. recreation and conservation department by directors and members of the Metchosin Explorers' Adventurers' Club—an association of teen-age boys who go out on summer and winter expeditions.

"We want to be sure that boys of the future will have the same opportunity for wilderness adventure as we have today," said Chis Pike, founder of the Explorers' Club.

The letter also urges the B.C. government to preserve wilderness areas in the province, particularly on the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

A copy of the letter has gone to Esquimalt MLA Herbert Bruch.

"We believe winter camping is as important as summer camping," Mr. Pike said, "as it calls for hardiness and a spirit of adventure."

Last summer club members explored the Nitinat area of Vancouver Island, camping in wilderness areas, and Mr. Pike showed a film depicting their adventures.

Professor C. S. Burchill will deliver the second part of a talk on Red China Friday night at 8 in Oak Bay Junior High School. He will also show slides on the subject "A Tourist in Red China Today." Proceeds wil go to the World Federalists of Canada.

Four young men charged with beating up a 20-year-old sailor pleaded not guilty today in city police court and had their joint trial set for Nov. 18.

Alexander Caird, 21, of 3592 Shelbourne; Ronald Fagan, 21, 443 Wilkinson; James Lorne Etter, 21, 635 Beaver Lake Road, and John Daniel March, 22, 195 Sims, all squeezed into the dock to hear the charge read.

Charge was laid after police received a call at 2:15 a.m. Oct. 27 from a man who said a boy was being beaten in front of 3160 Jutland.

City police found David Hart of HMCS Naden had been assaulted by four men.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson will be guest speaker at the annual dinner of the Heavy Construction Association of B.C. to be held in the Empress Hotel next Thursday at 7 p.m.

Newly-elected officers of the association will meet in the hotel at 5 p.m. the same day.

Readers Give 358 Corneas To Eye Bank

Times readers have willed 179 pairs of eyes to the Canadian Eye Bank in recent days.

The move was in response to an appeal by Mrs. Helen Harvey-Smith, 1778 Davie, who is awaiting corneal transplant operations on both her eyes.

Eye Bank officials in Vancouver said most of the donors are young couples. And though the newly-pledged eyes may save the sight of other persons afflicted in years to come, Mrs. Harvey-Smith's personal donor is still to be chosen.

Her doctor prefers to carry out the complete transplant by himself so he is awaiting the death of a donor locally. However, should Mrs. Harvey-Smith's condition of failing sight become emergent, it is now expected eyes will be readily available, from the Vancouver area.

The eye bank co-operates with all B.C. hospitals and is assisted by Trans-Canada Air Lines in speeding the eyes where they are required. They must be used within hours of the death of the donor.

Corneal grafting is conducted successfully each year on hundreds of Canadians although it can only be used to restore sight in a small percentage of eye afflictions.

Donor forms may be obtained from CNIB offices here.

Sheet Metal Firm Changes Owner

Harwood Roofing Ltd. of Vancouver has announced the acquisition of Pacific Sheet Metal Works Ltd. of Victoria and Nanaimo for an undisclosed sum.

President Giles Mackenzie said the Island plants would remain under the management of William Pomeroy at Victoria and Jack Steveson at Nanaimo.

Mr. Mackenzie said his firm has been awarded a contract for the roofing of the $6,500,000 Calgary Inn being built by Marwell Construction Ltd.

YOUTH STOLE NINE CARS IN 10 MONTHS

A tall 17-year-old pleaded guilty in city police court today to stealing nine cars in 10 months.

Robert Duff, no fixed address, was remanded to Nov. 18 for a probation report.

City juvenile officer Lyle Somers told the court that Duff was picked up Oct. 29 in a car stolen from Broughton Street the day before.

While he was being questioned about that theft, he admitted the eight others, the juvenile officer said.

He stole cars from various parts of the city Jan. 6, 15, 20 and 26; Feb. 5; March 6; Oct. 7, 17, and 28.

ARRIVE TONIGHT

Evangelists Here All Next Week

Evangelists who will lead the Greater Victoria Crusade for Christ—aimed at winning converts for churches here—will be welcomed at Patricia Bay Airport at 8 tonight.

The evangelists, headed by Barry Moore of London, Ont., will conduct public meetings in Central Junior High School Auditorium Sunday at 7:30 p.m. and every night next week at 8 p.m.

The crusade is backed by some 30 local churches with Rev. T. W. Chapman, pastor of the Christian Missionary Alliance Church, as chairman of the committee.

Mr. Chapman will welcome the evangelists tonight with representatives of the different churches and Mayor R. B. Wilson of Victoria or his representative.

200-VOICE CHOIR

Evangelist Barry Moore is accompanied by sacred music recording artist Jimmy McDonald; organist Leslie Grant and Harvey Schroeder who will direct a 200-voice choir from various Victoria churches.

"It will be the first interdenominational crusade of its kind ever held in Victoria," Mr. Chapman said, "and we hope people of all ages will attend our meetings.

"All Protestant churches have been invited to participate."

BREAKFAST MEETING

The visiting evangelists will be entertained at a breakfast in the Dominion Hotel Friday at 8:30 a.m.

Friday at 8 p.m. there will be a youth meeting in Victoria High School auditorium aimed at augmenting youth participation in the crusade.

Saturday at 10 a.m. a city-wide children's meeting will be held in Central Junior High School auditorium.

The evangelists have been holding crusades across Canada and more than 4,000 people attended one meeting in Calgary Jubilee Auditorium this week.

"When the Victoria crusade is over, a follow-up committee will encourage converts to join various churches in the area," Mr. Chapman said.

WE GET WHAT WE DESERVE

It's official.

The weather we're getting at this time of year is the weather we can expect to get at this time of year.

So stated the weatherman today, in forecasting recurring blustery weather with temperatures dipping down toward the frost mark.

Winds today averaged around 40 miles an hour, gusting above 60, with steady but not unusually heavy rain.

Partial clearing with showers is expected this evening. Temperature between 35 and 40 overnight, high of 50 on Friday.

Man Jailed Six Months For TV Theft

A young man who stole a television set from the family he was living with today was sentenced to six months in Oakalla.

Ronald William Kolochynskiy pleaded not guilty to theft under $50, indicated he would defend himself — and then refused to give evidence or call witnesses on his own behalf.

Mrs. Wilma Robinson, 773 Hillside, told the court that Kolochynskiy had been staying with her family in August.

She had to go into hospital, her husband was away, and when she returned both Kolochynskiy and their portable television set were gone.

She later saw him downtown, and he admitted having taken the set, and said he would try to get it back.

When he didn't, city detective Angus Munro went with Mrs. Robinson to the Broad Street Trading Co. store and retrieved the set.

Kiwanis Village Elects Officers

New president of Kiwanis Village Society is W. J. Lyle, supervisor of the B.C. hospital insurance division.

Mr. Lyle was elected Monday night.

Directors are Sam Swetnam, and Dave Lawson.

Honorary treasurer is Drummond Taylor and secretary, Mrs. Norma Barton.

REMEMBRANCE SERVICES LISTED

Remembrance Day services will be conducted throughout the Greater Victoria area on Monday honoring the memory of those who died in the cause of freedom and justice.

In Victoria units participating in the memorial service will form up on Wharf Street, near Government and parade across the Causeway to the Cenotaph in front of the Legislative Buildings.

The naval contingent will be led by veterans and the 45-man band of HMCS Naden.

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore, Flag officer Pacific Coast and Air Commodore R. C. Weston, deputy maritime Commander Pacific, will be on the saluting base immediately in front of the Empress Hotel.

NAVY IN CHARGE

Parade commander will be Lt.-Cmdr. A. Shimmin, RCN.

Representatives from all three services and the RCMP will serve as sentries at each corner of the Cenotaph where the services will commence at 11 a.m.

Commodore H. A. Winnett, commodore superintendent Pacific coast, will lay a wreath at 11 a.m. service in Esquimalt Memorial Park, opposite municipal hall.

Following the laying of wreaths he will take the salute of the March Past led by parade commander, Lt.-Cmdr. A. Sharrow.

In Oak Bay the service will be held at the War Memorial in Uplands Park at 2:30 p.m. Capt. C. V. Laws will lay the wreath. In event of bad weather the service will be held in Oak Bay United Church.

Lieut. G. Lavoie will command a naval platoon in a Memorial Day parade in Saanich Gore Memorial Park, corner of Shelbourne and Cedar Hill Cross Road at 2:45 p.m. Wreath will be laid by Cmdr. E. Gosh.

LANGFORD SERVICE

Cmdr. Don Sabiston will lay a wreath at 11 a.m. at services held in Langford Canadian Legion Hall.

Remembrance Day services will start at 11 a.m. in St. Andrew's Cathedral and Cmdr. J. L. Neveu will represent flag officer of the Pacific Coast.

In addition to above listed services a special service will be held at HMCS Naden at 11 a.m.

On Sunday a special Remembrance Day service will be held in Christ Church Cathedral and Rear Admiral Landymore and Mrs. Landymore will head the naval personnel in attendance.

BIGGEST SALE $20

42 Years Selling Poppies

By MARGE GILROY

Tag day veteran Mrs. Isabella Ripley, 3820 Rowland, looks forward to poppy day this Friday with as much enthusiasm as she did on the first tag day in 1921.

"I have been working for the boys since 1916," she said.

Her first husband was killed in the First World War.

She has never forgotten that first tag day 42 years ago when she walked the streets from 8 in the morning to 8 at night. And when she finally parted with her heavy can she had collected $125.

In those days veterans made the poppies in the Red Cross Workshop on Johnson Street. Today they are made on a larger scale in Toronto and shipped to Victoria.

In 1926 Mrs. Ripley left the sidewalk beat behind and moved into a corner of the old post office. When the post office moved she moved too.

During her 37 years in her post office niche she has averaged a Remembrance Day collection between $75 and $200. Her biggest thrill was once when someone slipped a $20 bill into her can.

Mrs. Ripley will be 85 on her next birthday and she has no notion of turning over her post office seat to anyone else.

Decked out in her legion uniform she proudly wears a lapel full of honorary pins.

One is a life membership for the Pro Patria Branch No. 31, Royal Canadian Legion, of which she was the first president in 1927. Another is a 25-year pin and the third is the first past president's pin to be given in British Columbia.

A fourth pin was presented to her for her services during the Second World War when she sold war savings stamps one day a week for four years.

On Friday she will add a fifth—a bright red poppy.

And between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. she will be in the post office ready to pin the same on you.

Ask The Times

Q. Please tell me the difference between a supervisor and inspector of schools. H.B.

A. A supervisor looks after a specialized field of education, for example, music and physical education, and tries to improve teaching methods by working with school instructors.

Unlike the supervisor, the inspector can make out written evaluations of a teacher's ability to instruct. The inspector is responsible for teachers in all aspects of the school curriculum, whereas a supervisor is assigned to only one field of education.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve personal or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Santa Gets Hep on Style, Influences Local Store

By PENNY SAVER

Even Santa reads the fashion stories! Store I was in this morning has just received some women's vestees that are chic as tomorrow's styles and designed to create the layered look that's sweeping the fashion field this season. What's more, I hear that Santa insisted that the price be kept within the reach of even the most strained pocketbook.

Vestees are made of washable jersey—80 per cent orlon and 20 per cent wool—and are made to tuck inside a jumper, giving the illusion of a sweater with their turtle necks.

They come in black or royal blue and sell at $1.95. Front of vestee measures 10½ inches while back is 13 inches.

One word of warning, don't hesitate too long before dashing downtown to look them over. Store assistant tells me that already she's had several schoolboys in asking for them. Apparently, the male admirers of haute couture intend to create their own styles by wearing them under their shirts!

Further proof that Santa is an avid fashion-follower is seen in the dainty half slips that he's persuaded this store to carry. Obviously he has a "soft spot" for the short woman, for these are in a special petite length. So, if you have such a friend on your list, these are just what you've been waiting for.

Absolutely de luxe are ones that sell at $6.98. Of nylon tricot, they have a wide, wide bottom band of lace that's thoroughly backed to sidestep that shadow effect! Slips come in black, white or coffee.

If $6.98 is a little too high for your budget, there are others priced at $2.98. On these, the lace is less lavish, unlined, but there's a decorative flower applique for added interest.

Most of these come in black or white but there's a darling that hints of Spanish witchery. It's a glowing scarlet, highlighted with black lace flower and lace.

Want to take a fashion tip from Santa? Phone Penny at 382-3131 for name of this store.

European Women Have Way Of Looking 'Sexy' at 40

TORONTO (CP) — North American women can learn a great deal about sex appeal from their European sisters, says a Toronto psychiatrist.

European women are as "sexy as you like at 40—not 25—and different," Dr. John Rich told women attending a conference called to determine whether modern women are "living creatively" or just "existing."

The North American concept that a woman is beautiful and sexy only if she looks 25 is outdated and hypocritical, he said, adding that "life does not start going downhill at 25."

This is recognized in Europe where women "have something to contribute in mature beauty and sexual attractiveness."

Dr. Rich said members of his profession are puzzled by the frequent conferences women hold to examine their role in society.

"Rarely is a conference held on the emotional needs of men. I don't know why this is but women are always holding conferences to find out what is wrong with them."

He urged women to become involved with people and projects and not be fooled into looking for artificial equality on a competitive basis with men.

Parish Bazaar

The Club Sirocco will be scene of St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral bazaar, Saturday. Beginning at 1 p.m., affair will feature stalls of home cooking, baby wear, candy, used articles, gift items, lucky seven and many novelties, including a bath bar. The Altar Society will serve tea, beginning at 1 p.m. During the evening a hot turkey supper will be served and bingo played. Those wishing to donate should contact Mrs N. Rogers at 382-3527.

Duncan Bazaar Makes $1,525

DUNCAN—Annual fall bazaar of the senior women's auxiliary to King's Daughters Hospital, held Saturday in St. John's Anglican Hall, realized a sum of $1,525. Proceeds are earmarked for hospital-community work.

Head tea table guests included Miss Norah Denny, who opened the affair; Miss Dorothy Geoghegan, Claude Green, chairman of the hospital board, and Mrs. Green; Mrs. R. H. B. Grattan, senior WA president, and Mr. Grattan; Mrs. Jack Dobson, wife of the Mayor of Duncan; Mrs. Will Dobson, bazaar convener, and Mr. Dobson and Mrs. Charles Pates.

Also present were two charter members of the auxiliary, Mrs. George Savage, president in 1934-35 and this year convener of the bazaar luncheon, and Mrs. K. F. Duncan.

BE SMART—

Soft velvet or doeskin gloves go hand in hand with glamorous evenings . . . especially if they're prettied up with cuffs of fur. We like these with the beautifully simple, unornamented evening coats or capes. They create holiday magic.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Why Grow Old By Being Unhappy and Pessimistic

Today I am thinking, not of being right, but of being happy, of being well, of staying young.

Lowman

No one can go about with the chip on the shoulder and be any of the three. It is so easy to form mental and emotional habits which are harmful. It's easy to fall into ruts of this sort, to become bitter or critical, to feel imposed upon or persecuted, to adopt a gloomy outlook without realizing it or to hold a grudge.

Perhaps your life is hard. It will help if you bring as much optimism to it as possible. Maybe someone has imposed on you or let you down badly. Take your measure of this person and act accordingly in the future but don't become bitter about it.

Do you realize that our emotions affect not only our health and glands, but the way we look, even the actual contour of our face?

One of today's most famous portrait artists told me not long ago that the mouth is the "give-away" as to what kind of a person a woman is. He was not speaking of young women, although he might be able to guess their temperament and character to a certain extent in this way.

Bitterness and meanness draw the corners of the mouth and facial contour down. Depression and unhappiness cause the whole of us to sag, including our face. There is real magic in the effect happiness, excitement, joy, eagerness and love have on the face. The eyes sparkle and glow and the whole face seems to lift out of its slump. It actually feels that way.

Our habits of thought and outlook are as important, if not more so, as our habitual posture and our habits of diet and exercise.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Individual Happiness" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 65 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Shower for Miss Wakelyn

Miss Shannon Rabey was hostess at a tea in the Empress Hotel in honor of bride-elect Miss Jeanette Wakelin. Corsages were presented to the bride-to-be, to her mother, Mrs. L. E. Wakelin, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. William Taylor. Mrs. D. W. Brown and Mrs. R. A. Storrar presided at the attractively decorated tea table. Invited guests were Mrs. A. McKenzie, Mrs. P. E. OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Another Debutante Named

Latest release from the United Services Institution of Vancouver Island gives the name of another young lady who will make her social debut at the institution's Military Ball, to be held at the Empress Hotel on Friday, Nov. 22. She is Miss Robin Joanne Burns, 18-year-old daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. A. J. Burns, 2700 Lansdowne Road. A graduate of Oak Bay High School, Miss Burns is presently a grade 13 student at Rockland School. She will be sponsored by her father.

Home From Abroad

Miss Sharon MacDonald, a Victoria debutante of 1961, returned to the city on the weekend after a year and a half spent travelling in the British Isles and on the continent and including six months' work as a stenographer in London. Miss MacDonald crossed to the British Isles by way of the Panama Canal and saw much of Europe with a travelling companion, Miss Carla Mason, also of Victoria. The two girls returned to Canada by boat to Montreal where they spent several months before Miss MacDonald left for the Pacific Coast. Miss Mason will remain in the east until next summer. Mr. and Mrs. Lew F. MacDonald met their daughter in Vancouver. Also present for the reunion were her four brothers, Bill, Bob, Don and Dave; family friends, Mr. and Mrs. A. Joos of Victoria; girl friends, the Misses Heather Fraser, Maureen McAloney and Alix Esselmont and Mr. Volkmar Fiehn, formerly of Germany and now living in Canada.

Reception for 'Old Boys'

More than 150 "old boys" of University School and their wives, living in Victoria, up-Island points, Vancouver and Seattle, have accepted invitations from the school's board of governors to attend a reception in the Union Club on Saturday evening. Guests will be received by Brig. F. N. Cabeldu, board chairman; Mr. J. J. Timmis, headmaster, and Mr. E. E. Teagle, president of the Old Boys Association.

Ancient Arrow Recalls Indian Peacemaker

By PAT DUFOUR

Tucked away in a cupboard of the Lovatt Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. S. George is an old Indian arrow. And, although their son, Norman, is grown up and with a family of his own, he's delighted to know that one day it will be his.

Dufour

The ancient arrow was once the property of Crowfoot, chief of the Blackfoot tribe, who became known as "the peacemaker" when he forbade his tribe to fight against the whites in the Louis Riel rebellion of 1885.

The arrow was given to Mr. George's father, the late Dr. Henry George, when he attended the old chief at his death.

"My father was a medical officer with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Calgary. When the mounties heard that Crowfoot was dying at Blackfoot Crossing, east of Calgary, they sent him out to see what he could do."

That was in April, 1890. The doctor set out, accompanied by a mountie and an Indian agent.

"My dad often told the family about that trip. When they arrived at the reservation, the medicine man wouldn't allow the white doctor to go near his chief. So my father and the rest of the party decided to wait it out at the Indian agent's headquarters."

"In the middle of the night, a messenger came from the chief's teepee. With great excitement he reported that the chief had died and come alive again. The white doctor was to come right away."

Dr. George hastened to the teepee to find that the old chief's magical resurrection was the natural result of a fainting spell.

"But my father could see that he was dying and there was little he could do for Crowfoot but give him some aspirin. In those days, there were no tablets, this was in powder form."

Mr. George continues, "Then, my dad used to tell how the old chief asked for quiet and how, during the rest of that night, not a papoose cried or a dog barked."

It was as Dr. George was leaving that he received the arrow from Chief Crowfoot.

With Crowfoot's death, Canada saw the passing of an Indian who ranked high with his "white brothers."

With his death also ended a pension, given him by the Canadian Pacific Railway for his part in keeping the peace when survey parties attempted to cross his reserve in 1883.

"His last words," Dr. George told his family, "were made up of greetings to the great white mother (Queen Victoria) and the great white father (the governor-general)."

Small wonder that the Georges prize the ancient arrow so highly!

Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Davies, 1737 Oak Bay Avenue, will be at home to their friends on Monday, November 11 from 2 to 4:30 p.m. and from 7 to 9:30 p.m. on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. They were married at Robertson Presbyterian Church, Edmonton, on Nov. 10, 1913, and moved to Victoria in 1934. The couple has one son, Herbert W. Davies, and one daughter, Mrs. C. E. (Evelyn) Hayward, also six grandchildren, all of Victoria.

YOUNG CANADA BOOK WEEK

Young Canada's Book Week will be celebrated in Victoria from Nov. 14 to 23.

Following the theme, "Our French Canadian Heritage," both French and English books will be included in a display of children's books in the Public Library Music Room.

French consul, M. Pierre Lefebvre, who is acting as local patron, will come from Vancouver to officially open the book exhibit Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. Guest speaker R. R. Jeffels, registrar at the University of Victoria, will discuss "The Little Prince" by Antoine de Saint-Exupery.

Prior to the opening members of the Institute of Victoria librarians will entertain at a dinner in Oak Bay Beach Hotel in honor of Miss Elizabeth Morton, Ottawa, secretary of the Canadian Library Association. During the week school classes will visit the display of 400 books which will be arranged by Arthur Corry. "Friends of the Library" are assisting with organization and supervision of the display.

Queen's Aunt In Hospital

LONDON (AP)—The Duchess of Gloucester, aunt of the Queen, entered the King Edward VII Hospital Wednesday for an operation to remove varicose veins. She will be 62 Christmas Day.

Childhood memories held Alderman Mrs. Lily Wilson, right, as she leafed through her old favorite "Chatterbox" in the children's branch of the Public Library. Here she points out engravings to Robert Ferguson which she finds as enchanting today as she did 50 years ago. On left, Mrs. Gerry McKee catches up with modern tales in children's literature. The Children's branch is celebrating its golden anniversary.

Memories Include Old Favorites

By MARGE GILROY

There is no friend like an old friend particularly if it is a treasured book.

This week three members of the library board renewed old acquaintances with some of their long forgotten friends in the children's library.

Alderman Mrs. Lily Wilson, Mrs. Gerry McKee and Robert Ferguson all used the children's library when it opened in 1913. Today they keep an eye on it from the library board.

This year marks the 50th anniversary of the children's library service.

Once located on the second floor of the old building it now occupies a whole wing on the main floor. And though thousands of new books have been added many of the old favorites are still on the shelves.

Mrs. McKee, formerly Eleanor Haddow recalls that when she and her sister Sarah and brother Jimmy used the library, "it wasn't considered a good thing to belong because books carried germs."

"Why, I remember when Margaret Clay used to fumigate the books by putting them out in the sunshine at the back of the library," she said.

But Mrs. McKee didn't always use the children's library.

At one time she had a "crush" on Arnold Bennett and his books were on adult reading shelves. When she returned one of his novels centred around a prostitute, librarian Mary Stewart reprimanded the young reader: "Why, Eleanor, have you nothing better to do than to read a book like that?"

Miss Lillian Steinberger was the first children's librarian. She was followed by Miss Mary Hughes, then Miss Margaret Clay and later Hazel King. Miss Clay and Miss King were the two this library trio recalled.

Story hours was an additional library feature in the earlier days. And probably many Victorians today remember listening to tales told by Hazel King, Margaret Clay and Ted Reynolds.

The children's library also served Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Wilson later when they had embarked on their teaching careers.

"We used to borrow 20 to 30 books at a time and have our own circulating library in the classroom," said Mrs. McKee.

"Chatterbox" was Mrs. Wilson's favorite and as she leafed through the pages of an old edition she enjoyed it as much today as she did then.

But as for "Struwelpeter," still being printed today, she said: "That was a horrible book with such gruesome tales! Why remember that little girl who stood too near the fire and there was nothing left but two grease spots?"

The G. A. Henty books, Five Little Peppers, Horatio Alger tales, Just-So Stories, Swiss Family Robinson and Robinson Crusoe were all good stories then — and they are just as good today.

But the morality stories of Elsie Dinsmore have been replaced by the moral tales of Dr. Seuss.

They all admitted it was an improvement.

Auxiliary Bazaar Makes $5,130

Colorful balloons floating above stalls arranged in the various rooms of the Royal Jubilee Hospital nurses' residence on Wednesday added to gaiety and excitement of the junior auxiliary's annual bazaar.

Crowds besieged the stalls from 11 a.m. when the bazaar opened until late afternoon.

A sum of $5,103 was realized.

General convener was Mrs. W. A. Trenholme, assisted by Mrs. D. Hunter, co-convener, and Mrs. J. Pennington, adviser.

Auxiliary president Mrs. R. W. Campbell acted as hostess throughout the day.

Conveners of the various stalls included: Mrs. H. Webster and Mrs. F. G. Aldous, stuffed toys; Mrs. T. W. Walker, plants and garden supplies; Mrs. Leslie Aylard, dolls and dolls' clothes; Mrs. W. E. G. Nichols and Miss Clare King, preserves and home cooking; Mrs. E. E. Chamberlin, candy.

Miss Lucie Woodrow was in charge of calendar sales; Mrs. L. E. Kirk, aprons; Mrs. G. O. Swartz, hat bar; Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. F. N. Cowley and Mrs. J. G. Jones, jewelry; Mrs. A. L. Harvey, white elephant; Mrs. S. L. Milligan, knitting, and Mrs. D. Hunter, raffle. Luncheon was served, also afternoon tea under convenership of Mrs. D. Longridge and Mrs. J. Swemle; checking was in charge of Miss E. M. Palmer; publicity, Mrs. H. G. Ellis; supplies, Mrs. V. I. Pugh.

Treasurer was Mrs. A. Worthington and the secretary, Mrs. S. P. Rainey.

YWCA Finds Resolution Out of Date

TORONTO (CP)—Some of the 135 delegates gathered here for the Young Women's Christian Association annual meeting expressed concern Tuesday over a two-year-old YWCA resolution against nuclear arms in Canada.

The resolution, which was adopted in Halifax, recommended a ban against nuclear arms on Canadian soil.

Since then the Liberals have succeeded the Progressive Conservative government and negotiations between Canada and the United States have scheduled the transport of nuclear arms from the U.S. to Canada.

Delegates voted to "continue to look into the resolution with a view to changing it," said Mrs. P. J. Chadsey, chairman of the public affairs and world service education committee.

She said the matter will come up before the next YWCA convention in June, 1965, in Saskatoon.

Hospital Alumnae Names Officers

Victoria Branch of the Royal Alexandra Hospital (Edmonton) Alumnae Association met recently at the Oliver Street home of the president, Mrs. A. P. Bugslag for annual reports and election of officers.

Mrs. B. Douma, Sidney, was named president; Mrs. P. Baird, secreatry-tresaurer and Mrs. D. Watson, sick visiting convener.

Money was voted for Canadian mental health and for a Christmas gift for a former employee of the hospital now resident at St. Mary's Priory, Colwood.

Miss C. Mitchell, an honor guest, spoke of her experiences in northern Ontario; Mrs. A. Ault reported on home coming week festivities at the hospital in Edmonton and opening of a new active treatment centre and Mrs. Douma spoke and showed pictures of her daughter Linda as Miss PNE.

Feted at Tea

Miss D. Geneva Lent was guest of honor when the executive of the Women's Canadian Club held a tea at the Empress Hotel, Wednesday afternoon. Also attending were Mrs. F. M. Corbett and Mrs. Leslie D. Macdonnell, who had introduced and thanked Miss Lent when she spoke to the club earlier that afternoon. Mrs. W. Redford and Mrs. A. B. Young presided at the refreshment table. Others present were Mrs. T. L. Watters, Miss E. L. Forbes, Miss Kathleen Agnew, Mrs. William Burnett, Mrs. A. T. N. Cowley, Mrs. P. J. Mulcahy, Miss Mary Ashworth, Mrs. H. B. Forse, Mrs. H. H. DEAR ABBY . . .

No Longer Under His Hat!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am in hot water with a very good friend of mine. I have known for years that he has worn a toupee, which is the only toupee I've ever seen that looks like the person's own hair. I told a group of men at my club that he wore a toupee. (Some were surprised, and many were not.) Later, when I saw my friend, he let me know in no uncertain terms that he did not appreciate my telling people that he wore a toupee. I did not mean to be unkind. I simply stated a fact. I didn't think he'd mind. Was I wrong?

CHECKING

DEAR CHECKING: Yes. You should have checked with him first. If he didn't "mind" —why do you think he would wear a toupee?

DEAR ABBY: So often when I am eating my lunch at a counter, two or three people will come in and ask if I would move down a seat or two so they can all sit together. I don't always feel like moving because it involves moving my purse and perhaps some packages. Also, I am usually absorbed in reading something, and I don't like to be interrupted. I used to move without a moment's hesitation, but the more I thought about it, the more I realized that it was just plain rude of people to ask me to move, and I quit doing it. Now when I refuse the request, everyone in the place (especially the waitresses) glare at me as though I were the rude one. Why do strangers feel it is owed them to be accommodated in this way? Or am I wrong?

NOT MOVING

DEAR NOT: Moving over a seat or two in order to accommodate people who wish to sit together is, in my opinion, so slight an inconvenience that it is rude to refuse.

DEAR ABBY: Three weeks ago my husband died of cancer. I can't find the words to tell you how much I loved him. When it became obvious to him that he was dying, he asked me to promise him that I would not grieve and that I would not let others who loved him grieve over his death. I am 36. He was 39. It was his last wish that there be no public type funeral. He requested that our minister say a little prayer with only those present who had to do the actual labor in burying him. He did not want me, our children, or even his parents to "see" him buried. I promised him and he died in my arms. I discussed it with our minister and everything was carried out according to my husband's wishes. Now, my husband's family and even friends and neighbors are saying hateful things about me. Abby, I thought I was doing the right thing. Did I?

KEPT MY PROMISE

DEAR KEPT PROMISE: Yes. Have no regrets.

Confidential To Willie: Some bachelors DO change, but it's not a natural process. It usually takes a good woman to change them.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

The auxiliary has arranged a bazaar for Saturday in Metropolitan United Church hall from 2 to 4:30 p.m. There will be stalls of various goods, and a display of work done by handicapped patients. Afternoon tea will be served.

Sacred Heart Parish Bazaar

Annual Sacred Heart parish bazaar will be held on Saturday at Sacred Heart School, McKenzie Avenue, commencing at 2 p.m. It will feature the ever popular home cooking, candy and delicatessen stalls as well as the usual apron, novelties, white elephant, lucky seven and the fruit and vegetable stalls. For the children there will be games and fish ponds and for adults, bingo in the evening. Coffee and hot dogs will be served all day while tea will be served in the tearoom from 2 to 5 p.m. A car shuttle service from Quadra and Union to the school will be available by calling Mrs. Kay North at 384-8964. All proceeds from the bazaar will go toward the school fund.

TODAY'S RECIPE

CINNAMON DATES

One and a half cups pitted fresh dates, 1 egg white, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, dash salt.

Place dates in 8-inch square pan. Beat egg white until foamy. Pour over dates, turning to cover. Combine sugar, cinnamon and salt. Sprinkle evenly over dates (be sure all are covered). Bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven 20 minutes. Cool in pan about 5 minutes, then remove with spatula and separate dates to cool. Makes about 3 dozen dates.

Get to know the pleasure of a springy, curvy permanent so quick and easy it's no chore to give yourself. It'll give the body, the "hold-fast" you want . . . but set on big fat rollers, it molds into curves, not kinks.

Vows Exchanged in Naval Chapel

Pink and white carnations decorated St. Andrew's chapel in HMCS Naden when Sharon Marie Brash exchanged vows with AB Donald Hugh Coulter, RCN. Chaplain W. L. Dalton officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. G. Richardson, the groom's sister, sang during the signing of the register.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. R. Brash and Mr. and Mrs. H. Coulter, all of Saskatoon, Sask.

Ronald Brash came from Calgary, to give his sister in marriage. Her floor-length gown of lace over taffeta featured lily point sleeves and a hooped skirt with bustle effect at back. The waist-length net veil misted from a rhinestone tiara. Ivy edged the cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Caye McKnight was maid of honor. She complemented her cocktail-length gown of pale pink chiffon over taffeta with a cascade bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

AB Dwight Grieve, RCN, was best man and ushering guests were Frank McKnight and LS Nestor Zbitnew, RCN.

A reception and dance followed in the clubhouse of the Esquimalt Squadron of the Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association. The three-tier wedding cake was topped by a miniature bride and groom. Miss Marilyn Coulter and Mrs. McKnight were in charge of guest book.

As her going-away outfit the bride chose a turquoise blin and blin suit, black accessories and pink rose corsage.

Newlyweds will make their home at 3166 Donald Street.

Writer Calls for More Archives

Members of the Women's Canadian Club were asked to help in preservation of Canadian lore, Wednesday afternoon, when Miss Geneva Lent spoke on "I'd Like to Write a Book," in the Empress Hotel.

The noted author, historian and artist stressed: "Every individual, social, service and community group must do their part in helping to preserve Canada's history. If you have papers or articles in your attic and files that would help to recreate color and timbre of the present and earlier times, these should be given to the archives for safekeeping and use by future historians."

Miss Lent also emphasized the key position that archives play in Canadian culture, "they are the greatest source of information in the world." She recommended that groups and the provision of archivists, fully equipped with a knowledge of chemistry and other related skills that would be called upon to successfully preserve valuable books and papers.

Her logical explanation of her interest in both writing and painting was, "All arts are related. What you can't say in words you can often express through the medium of painting."

Advice to would-be writers included:

"Never talk down to your readers, their level of intelligence is usually much higher than the reading material that's available — I am convinced that publishers should be educated, not their readers."

"It's important to know what to get down. Capture the color and tempo of the time you're writing about—how the people lived in those days."

"Don't worry about rejection slips—keep on trying. That "one more try" is the act that puts stiffness and steel in your bones."

Miss Lent also had advice for critics. "Their findings should always be impersonal. It is unfair for a critic to be a creator in the same field."

BLOCKS ACTION

Surcharge Row 'Laid to Rest'

OTTAWA (CP) — A long-lived political wrangle between Liberals and Conservatives over last year's controversial import surcharges was quietly laid to rest in the Commons Wednesday.

The feud was over the legality of the surcharges imposed by cabinet order of the former Conservative government June 24 last year to help halt a crisis run on the Canadian dollar.

With a final Conservative assertion that the surcharges were valid, the Commons passed a Liberal government bill declaring that the cabinet - ordered surcharges should be considered part of the law of Canada.

The chief practical effect of the legislation will be to block court action by several importers seeking to contest the validity of the surcharges and reclaim some of the estimated $90,000,000 collected.

Still alive and kicking on the Commons agenda, however, is the government's bill to implement income tax changes announced in Finance Minister Gordon's June 13 budget speech.

That measure comes up for renewed debate today, with a Conservative amendment that would permit extension of proposed tax incentives to industry in depressed areas only if requested by the local municipality.

Alfred D. Hales (PC—Wellington South), presenting the amendment Wednesday, accused the government of "stepping over the provincial governments" in designating the depressed areas which would receive the tax benefits.

'Forced to Come Hat In Hand'

Mr. Gordon, rejecting the amendment, said it would force municipalities "to come to the government, hat in hand."

He called for speedy passage of the tax bill so that new jobs could be created without further delay.

The dispute over the import surcharges has been simmering since last fall. The last of the surcharges, which originally applied to about half of all imports, were revoked last March 31.

Justice Minister Chevrier said Wednesday the legality of the surcharges was still questioned. But he said it would be impossible to reverse the higher duty charges to return the money to the people who had paid it.

George Nowlan, former Conservative finance minister, replied by reading into the record a written opinion by Deputy Justice Minister E. A. Driedger last Nov. 16 that the surcharge order was "a valid exercise of the powers" given the cabinet in two statutes.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) said the surcharges had been an affront to Parliament's right to increase taxation.

He proposed an amendment to the bill which would have ruled out future repetitions of cabinet orders like last year's, but it was defeated by a vote of 90 to 12. Liberals and Conservatives lined up against six New Democrats, four Creditistes and two Social Credit MPs.

Mr. Knowles also said that the Conservative and Liberal governments obtained opposite advice from the same person—Deputy Justice Minister Driedger—about the validity of the surcharge order.

He said it is important that governments seek from the deputy minister objective and valid opinions—"not opinions that will support what the government happens to want to do."

Gordon Churchill, former Conservative veterans minister, protested that Mr. Knowles had "cast a cloud" over Mr. Driedger when the civil servant couldn't reply.

TV Actor Kills Wife, Burns Home

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A television actor set fire to his Hollywood home after an argument with his wife, followed her to a friend's home here and shot her to death Tuesday night, police said.

Officers said Hugh Pryor, 38, fled after the shooting. He is being sought throughout southern California.

His wife, Jacqueline, 32, was shot once in the side and twice in the head.

Police gave this account:

The couple argued bitterly early in the evening. Mrs. Pryor left the house and went to the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Engerran of Pasadena.

Pryor called his wife but she hung up on him when he resumed the argument. After two more calls, Pryor ignited fires in his own home and set out for Pasadena.

When he arrived at the Engerran home he insisted they remain while he spoke with his wife. The Engerrans quoted him as saying:

"Tonight I've burned all my bridges behind me. I burned my house. But you needn't worry about the cat. You're a dead woman."

Officers said he drew a 22-calibre revolver and shot his wife in the side. He stepped over the body and fired two more shots into her head at close range, police reported.

BRANCA MAKES DAMAGE AWARD

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Tossell were awarded $4,917 damages Wednesday in a suit against the city of North Vancouver. Mr. Justice Branca in awarding the damages said expropriation of a 10-foot strip from the property had "completely ruined" portions of a "beautifully landscaped" area.

Religious Firewalkers Feel No Pain and Suffer No Burn

By COURTNEY TOWER

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters)—It was almost like a family evening stroll, that walk together of a father, mother and young daughter through a trench of flaming coals.

Not quite, of course. The most devoted and unconventional family does not normally take the air at 2 a.m. in a remote Ceylon jungle village, in a night strange with the passions of thousands — passions fed by sacred fire and holy water, by ecstatic faces, writhing bodies and the insistent clanging of temple gongs.

Frenzy under the frangipane, great temple trees whose heavy-sweet fragrance seems suspended in the air, rose and ebbed and rose again during the long night of the annual "firewalking ceremony" at Kataragama.

But a calmer family feeling, a sharing of a religuous experience, could also be often sensed among the more than 400 persons who trod the pit of fire to fulfil vows made to the Hindu god Subramanium.

It was clearly there among the thousands of other pilgrims who came from all of Ceylon and south India to bathe in the holy Menik River and to offer frangipane petals, bananas, coconuts and mangoes to the son of Shiva, the destroyer.

I stood on the steps of this temple, ancient beyond anyone's recall, its vibrant golds and blues and reds leaping out and receding under flaming torchlight, its walls resounding to the drums and gongs and chants of "Subramanium, Subramanium — horo, hara—horo hara."

Toward me walked a young man, followed by his wife and a girl of perhaps 12, over a trench of flaming red coals about 15 feet long and nearly a foot deep.

Quickly but with a certain calm on their faces, they walked through the fire and on up the temple steps where they offered what they had done as a family vow.

I brushed shoulders with an ancient couple, a shrivelled old man and his wife, who tottered slowly through the coals.

None of these people, nor the hundreds of others whom I saw tread slowly or race wildly through the coals, had any burns on their feet. None had any protective covering.

And none could explain how the people did it.

A Christian minister a year ago denied the usual explanation—religious faith—and himself walked through the fire to prove that the reason was scientific. He spent three weeks in hospital with severe burns.

Trustees Seek Help From International

MONTREAL (UPI) — The government-appointed trustees administering Canada's maritime unions Tuesday called for international aid to halt picketing of Canadian ships in United States ports.

Judge Victor L. Dryer, chairman of the three-man board of trustees, cabled what he described as an "urgent" request for help to Pieter de Vries, general secretary of the International Transport Workers Federation in London.

His cable said the Seafarers' International Union and the International Longshoremen's Association were picketing Canadian ships in United States ports.

"As trustees for all maritime union workers in Canada we urgently request ITF use good offices with responsible affiliates to stop this flagrant discrimination against Canadian crews now taking place," the message added.

The ITF is an international labor body whose members include transportation unions on both sides of the Atlantic. Its affiliates include the SIU, the ILA, and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers and other unions in Canada and the U.S.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

A new cedar specialty for Beauty Long Life Economy

• • •

What is "FOREST" Siding?

A new and attractive type of siding that comes from specially selected cedar logs sawn to bring out all the distinctive character of knots, burls and grain.

How Does "FOREST" compare with other siding?

It has more thickness, greater wood volume to add structural strength to any building. Its snug fitting makes good insulation and its low cost makes it ideal for modest budget home builders or remodellers.

How to finish "FOREST"

"Forest" has a distinctive horizontal shadow line that will enhance the beauty of your home.

If you wish to preserve the natural rustic effect of "Forest," apply a coat of oil filler first, then varnish or shellac. "Forest" siding also takes paint beautifully if you wish a colored finish.

YOU can easily apply "FOREST" Cedar Siding

Many home owners have applied this modern, beautiful "Forest" siding themselves without the slightest difficulty.

CHANGING TV?

This time choose from Admiral's 1964 crafted cabinets in lowboy and console stylings. These are real wood furniture pieces with matched veneer tops and hardwood rail fronts —surrounding durable multiple speaker grills.
And the TV chassis? Well we will leave it to you to compare: You can pay more but you can't buy better reproduction than these Admiral's can give. Both 18,000 and 20,000-volt chassis. Prices to suit every need.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

In a recent column I had hoped the spring of the Italian mouse on Ed Sullivan's show would run down. Since airing that opinion I've had a second look and a second thought.

Stephen

The little mouse puppet called Topo was first presented to Sullivan's audience on a show last April. The initial appearance and several subsequent shots produced an avalanche of mail. Sullivan, always quick to realize a good thing when he sees it, signed the mouse and its creators for regular appearances this season.

I, like others before me, took a closer look at the rodent in action to try to find its secret. It was during this scrutiny I discovered Topo had a personality not usually found in most puppets. He was almost, er, human. Sullivan's office apparently receives hundreds of letters to ask how Topo is made to appear so life-like, without strings or any other visible means of manipulation.

Don't expect to get all the answers here because I don't know. However, there has been some information made available just recently which will shed some light, though not much, on the subject.

Topo is the creation of a puppeteer named Maria Perego. In Italy, he's called Topo Gigio (Gigio is the Italian nickname for Louis, and "topo" means mouse).

Miss Perego and Sullivan's staff refuse to divulge the secret of what makes Topo run, jump, bounce in and out of bed, give himself a shower, walk a tight-rope, and change facial expressions while seeming totally free of human control. But it does take three people to manipulate the puppet.

They work from behind a black velvet curtain using little sticks. A fourth person supplies the squeaky voice. That is as far as anyone will go to divulge further information on the mouse's machinations. Topo will also be around the Sullivan show until someone discovers the rest of the secret and copies it in one puppet form or another.

Danny Thomas' recent statement he plans to retire from his 11-year-old comedy series on CBS-TV after this season has brought reaction from network president James T. Aubrey, Jr.

Aubrey commented: "We can only hope to change his mind. It would be a great loss to the network and to TV in general."

Thomas wants to do specials and spend more time on other series in which he is involved and to create new properties for T&L Productions, in which he and Sheldon Leonard are partnered.

T&L shows are "The Andy Griffith Show," "The Dick Van Dyke Show," "The Joey Bishop Show," "The Bill Dana Show," and, of course, the Thomas' series.

"The Real McCoys" is also his property. He also has a piece of "My Favorite Martian," and the new Walter Brennan series, "The Tycoon."

Thomas wants to quit his series while he's on top. His show ranks seventh in the latest Neilsen survey.

THIS HOME DEFYS COMPARISON
Very few NEW homes offer as many extra features that we can justly make such a statement. Located in Cordova Bay, just 15 minutes from town, this home is impeccably appointed. The living room will produce that smug smile that only someone who is really proud to show off their home can have. A dining room that creates that intimate image of chandeliers and candlelight.
COMPARE THESE EXTRA FEATURES with the homes you've already been acquainted with:
* 1,300 sq. ft.
* Expensively panelled living room with a bold, massive, raised hearth fireplace.
* Chandelier appointed dining room.
* 3 bedrooms, each with lighted double closets (the master bedroom has its own bathroom).
* Built-in range and oven, hooded fan, and eating area in a large kitchen.
* Full cement basement.
* 2 bathrooms.
* All this delightfully situated on a large flat lot.

Beautification Costs Slashed As Grass Removed

Decision to cover traffic islands at the revamped Roundabout with gravel and small boulders instead of grass "provides great possibilities for ornamentation," Mayor R. B. Wilson said Wednesday.

The decision cuts beautification costs to $2,000 from the $4,070 estimate for installing irrigation pipes and seeding grass on the islands.

The mayor added that annual maintenance costs would be reduced by the decision.

But he emphasized that it was felt the boulders would be decorative and would make a pleasing backdrop for trees, flowers and shrubs in tubs.

However, city parks administrator W. H. Warren told works committee he disagreed with the decision because it represented a departure from Victoria's tradition — unique among cities — of using grass and planted flowers for beautification.

He also pointed out that green grass would make a pleasing impression in the winters on visitors passing through the city's main entrance whereas tubbed plants would have to be removed then.

Butter Production

OTTAWA (CP)— Canadian butter consumption increased by 79,000,000 pounds in the first 17 months that a 12-cent-a-pound federal subsidy has been paid.

But production rose by 39,300,000 pounds and still runs well ahead of demand as of Sept. 30, says a Commons written reply by Agriculture Minister Hays to Arnold Peters (NDP—Temiskaming).

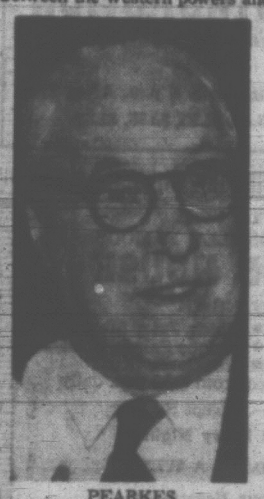
Faith in UN Misplaced?

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lt.-Gov. George Pearkes of British Columbia says Canada has become disillusioned with the power of the United Nations to maintain world peace.

The former defence minister told the English Speaking Union Wednesday that Canada's post Second World War policy was based on a reliance on the UN to keep the peace.

"This emphasis on the UN was unduly great," the Lieutenant-Governor said.

"As time passed and relations between the Western powers and the Soviet Union became strained, we realized the need for closer military co-operation and reliance on the United States and our other allies."



PEARKES
. . . military ties needed

Mr. Pearkes stressed the value of existing military ties and said that war-time policies of Britain and the U.S. to bypass Canada in military matters was the cause of some initial friction between the two North American nations.

He added that this early post-war friction was later smoothed.

Granby Mining Shows Net Loss

VANCOUVER (CP) — An operating profit of $146,975 but a net loss of $215,468 for the third quarter of 1963 was reported Friday by the Granby Mining Company Ltd.

The company said that for the nine months ending Sept. 30 its operating profit was $664,777 and the net loss $356,779 or 77.4 cents a share.

The company has already declared a dividend of 25 cents a share, U.S. funds, payable Dec. 16 to shareholders of record Nov. 15.

Jail Pay $10,000?

DETROIT (CP)—A 35-year-old Detroit motorist thinks $10,000 would be fair payment for six days spent in jail.

Edward Calm filed a claim with the city for that amount today claiming he was illegally detained in the Detroit house of correction for that length of time.

He said he was sentenced for traffic tickets that were accumulated while police were using his licence plates.

Calm says in his claim the plates were stolen in July, 1962. He reported the theft to the police auto squad and a month later was visited by two FBI agents who told him the plates had been recovered from a stolen car in one of the southern states but were being held as evidence.

Calm said he then sold his car and did not worry about the matter again until he was arrested Oct. 18 on a charge of driving with insufficient lights. He appeared in traffic court and found he was additionally charged with 11 parking violations.

He said he tried to explain but no one wanted to listen. He was found guilty and fined $66 or six days. Because he had just been laid off his job at an auto assembly plant, he chose jail.

Attorney Melvin Kates subsequently examined traffic court records on Calm's behalf and found 23 tickets were issued against the missing licence plates. A dozen of them had been cancelled by the police department and marked "used on official business"

DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRY, OTTAWA

The main responsibility of the newly formed Department of Industry is to promote the establishment, growth, efficiency and improvement of manufacturing industries in Canada. To achieve these ends it will develop and carry out such programs as may be appropriate.

DIVISION CHIEFS
UP TO $14,200

To direct a staff of specialists and generalists in the study of industry problems. Industrial administrative experience at a senior level is required for these positions.

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT OFFICERS
UP TO $11,800

To initiate studies and recommend action for the achievement of departmental objectives in a given industrial field. A broad industrial or technical administrative background at a responsible level with high analytical ability is required.

AREA DEVELOPMENT OFFICERS
UP TO $11,800

To co-ordinate the preparation and implementation of the overall development plan for designated areas and the proposed program elements within it. Progressively responsible experience in economic or industrial development is required. Headquarters for these officers will be Ottawa but extensive travelling will be required.

A working knowledge of Canada's two official languages will be required for many of these positions.

A brochure outlining the above requirements is available upon request to the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION OF CANADA, OTTAWA 4. Please mark your envelope "Attention: Department of Industry."

The time limit for receipt of applications for the DIVISION CHIEFS and AREA DEVELOPMENT OFFICERS is NOVEMBER 22, while for the INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT OFFICERS the time limit is DECEMBER 31.

MSTISLAV ROSTROPOVICH

Russian 'Cellist Here

One of the greatest of living cellists, Mstislav Rostopovich, is to appear in recital at the Royal Theatre tonight.

Opening event of the Famous Artists celebrity season, the tour of the Soviet cellist is part of a cultural exchange program between North America and the U.S.S.R.

The brilliant young—he is 36—cellist, described by leading critics os the only inheritor of the fabled Feuerman tradition of performance, Rostropovich has selected an impressive program in which he will be accompanied at the piano by Alexander Dedukhin.

A Suite by Kabalevsky and a Sonata in C major by Benjamin Britten, both dedicated to the cellist, will be performed. In addition he will play a Bach Suite and Stravinsky's Suite Italienne.

The concert begins at 8:30.

Mail Thieves Get $50,000

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Police said late Wednesday bandits escaped with at least $50,000 in used money after hijacking a mail truck from the CNR station lot.

Police said the gang may be the same one which stole $40,000 from a mail truck in nearby Cowansville last summer. The money was being returned to banks in Montreal, 100 miles west of here.

'DEADLY GAME' OPENING AT LANGHAM

Suspense is a strong element in the strange, rather eerie play which opens tonight at Langham Court Theatre, with curtain at 8:15.

"The Deadly Game," by James Yaffe, is directed by Bert Farr and has a good cast with Ken Bostock Bruce Banyard and John Drean in leading roles.

The Victoria Theatre Guild production will be repeated Friday and Saturday and again next week Wednesday through Saturday.

BIGGER TIPS

Taxicab TV Sets Success

CHICAGO (AP)—A Chicago taxicab company is installing television sets for passengers who want something more than just a ride and unsolicited comments on the weather, politics and sports.

The Flash Cab Company has installed the five-inch screen receivers in about 40 of its 285 cabs and plans to install 60 more.

"The response has been tremendous," says Arthur Deckholtz, Flash Cab president. "The passengers like it and so do the drivers. The drivers say they get bigger tips."

MUSICAL ART SOCIETY

Balanced Artistry Displayed

By AUDREY St.D. JOHNSON

For a few hundred selective and genuine music lovers from the core of the concert-going public in this city, the Musical Art Society has conclusively proved its unique value with the season's first two concerts.

Dedicated to the encouragement and support of city artists and music-making primarily and to Canadian musicianship generally, they gave us, with Esther Glazer in October, a distinguished violin recital.

Wednesday night, at Oak Bay Junior High School, a greatly enjoyable concert in the chamber music genre was presented.

UNUSUAL GROUPING

The combination of instruments was an unusual one; harpsichord alternating with piano, the performer, Neville Haddock; oboe, Woodford Garrigus and clarinet, Barrie Moncur, with Erika Kurth, soprano.

Of prime importance in chamber ensemble performance is that all performers should be of equal skill and balanced artistry.

The technical skills and musicianly qualities of these four Victoria artists were not only substantial but indeed well matched.

DELIGHTFUL BLEND

Full, sweet quality and purity of intonation of Mrs. Kurth's voice blended delightfully with the woodwinds. She has a touch too much of vibrato at times but there is fine flexibility and she is able to achieve that rare thing—a genuine delicacy in mezzo voce.

Dr. Garrigus, in the Teleman Partita and Mr. Moncur, particularly as duettist in a group of songs by Spohr, revealed an admirable mastery of their instruments.

PROFICIENT PIANIST

A proficient keyboard artist, whether as soloist on the two-manual harpsichord, or firm yet sensitive accompanist on the Steinway, Mr. Haddock provided an excellent foundation for the foursome.

Amongst so much that is rich and charming in music it becomes difficult to select any one item for comment, but aside from some lovely lieder and Handel, I will long remember the Greek folk songs arranged by Ravel and the Schubert "Der Hirt auf Dem Felsen" for soprano, clarinet and piano.

And brief though it was, the single song for oboe, clarinet, piano and voice by Dr. James M. Gayfer, "who are you little i?" (words by e. e. cummings), was most effective and appealing and moved one to hope for more of its kind from this Victoria musician.

U Vic's Big Ball Sellout

First alumni ball of the University of Victoria is a sell-out and hundreds of would-be dancers trying to buy tickets are being turned down.

University alumni association plans the first of what is hoped to be an annual event to celebrate the founding of the university this year.

It will be held Nov. 15 at Empress Hotel ballroom.

Ball committee chairman David Edgar said today about 650 applications for tickets are in hand, but only 340 persons can be accepted.

"We have to tell the rest we are sorry, but we can't accommodate them," he said.

A maximum of 170 couples is set for the event in order for the ballroom to be comfortable.

"There are not enough good facilities in this city that are of a size and style to which we would like those attending to become accustomed," Mr. Edgar said.

PARADED IN MOSCOW'S RED SQUARE today in ceremony marking 46th anniversary of Bolshevik revolution, this two-stage rocket might be an anti-missile missle, the Soviet news agency Tass hinted. Weapon may mark another major breakthrough in nuclear arms. (AP Wirephoto.)

Anti-Missile Rocket Paraded in Russia

By PETER JOHNSON

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia today unveiled what it claimed was an anti-missile missile, capable of "hitting any up-to-date air-space attack weapons."

Four of the rockets were included in today's parade marking the 46th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. Premier Khrushchev, who watched the parade in Red Square, has said the missiles can "hit a fly in space."

As the rockets rolled past the Red Square saluting stand at the base of Lenin's tomb, a commentator said: "These rockets have great military possibilities and can attain hits on all means of air and space attack."

Tass news agency said today's parade included, for the first time, a "unit of long - range guided interceptors."

Tass said: "At recent exercises these long-range anti-aircraft rockets proved capable of hitting any up-to-date airspace attack weapons."

TOP LEADERS WATCH

On the reviewing stand with Khrushchev were President Leonid Brezhnev, Defence Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky and other top leaders.

The four pointed missiles, about 60 feet long, appeared toward the end of the 10-minute parade which was otherwise unchanged from this year's May Day display.

They followed two sets of smaller ground-to - air rockets. One of the sets represented the type Russia said shot down the United States U-2 spy plane piloted by Francis Gary Powers in 1960.

The reported anti-missile missile is a two - stage rocket, smaller than the ground-attack rockets displayed but bigger than any of the other ground-to-air rockets hauled through the square.

A U.S. defence department spokesman told the Senate foreign relations committee in August the Pentagon is convinced that American efforts to develop defences against intercontinental ballistic missiles "are comparable in magnitude and success with those of the Soviets."

OUTLINES PROBLEMS

Dr. Harold Brown, director of defence research and engineering for the defence department, told the committee the critical factor was development of a system that could detect approaching missiles soon enough, discriminate between decoys and warheads, "handle large volumes of traffic and hit and kill the targets."

In contrast to this view, Dr. Edward Teller, nuclear physicist known as the father of the hydrogen bomb, told the committee he believes "the Russians have acquired the knowledge" needed for an anti-ballistic missile system.

The new Soviet rocket was shown after Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, the Soviet defence minister, said in his annual address from atop Lenin's tomb that the Soviet forces are equipped with the latest techniques to deliver a crushing blow to any attack.

But Malinovsky's speech, which he has made every year since he became defence minister in 1957, seemed less bellicose than usual.

There was only one direct reference to the United States. This time the United States was told that "unceasing provocations against revolutionary Cuba" were hampering efforts to lower international tensions.

Otherwise the usual warnings were couched in general terms.

Poison Gases Brewed

PRETORIA (AP)—South African defence scientists are working on "deadly gases known to be capable of massive devastation comparable with the nuclear bomb," says Professor L. J. Le Roux, vice-president of the National Council for Scientific and Industrial Research.

Speaking Wednesday at a meeting of the Association for Advancement of Science, Le Roux said gas was coming back as a low-cost military weapon of frightening destructive power.

Le Roux said South Africa's defence research council realized chemical and bacteriological warfare no longer was as impracticable as it had been during the early stages of the Second World War, and a special group of scientists are learning everything there is to know about virulent poisons such as Tabun, Soman and Sarin developed in Nazi Germany and now known to be in Russian hands.

These poisons, he added, are capable of being delivered in a vast quantity by aircraft or long-range missile, and then can have a destructive effect similar to that of a nuclear bomb of 20 megatons.

11 Miners Lifted From 14-Day Tomb

Rescued In Good Condition

LENGEDE, West Germany (Reuters) — Technical skill, luck and courage snatched 11 miners from a perilous "tomb" 185 feet below the surface of the earth today.

The 11 men, trapped two weeks in a flooded iron ore mine here, were brought to safety on the surface in a tense, 57-minute operation. Though haggard, filthy and in rags, they appeared to be in good condition.

The 11 men emerged one by one from a slim, winch-raised steel capsule running up and down an escape shaft drilled to their underground cavity in a dangerous, round-the-clock operation.

Top technical skill was required to make sure the dangerously loose rock above the cavity did not collapse and crush the men to death in the last phases of the operation.

LOWER 2 VOLUNTEERS

Luck played its role in that the trapped men confused north and south when mapping the cavity and sent up "wrong" measurements through their supply shaft — measurements which, in the end, turned out to be right and meant that the drill penetrated the cavity in the most favorable spot "by a pure mistake," as an engineer put it.

Courage was required of the two miner volunteers who went down the escape shaft through the treacherous earth and rock to help the trapped men into the capsule.

They, too, returned safely to the surface.

But the joy of today's victory over death was marred by the fact that 29 other miners died in the sudden flood which turned the iron ore mine into a catacomb of terror.

Three other miners were rescued last week in a similar escape shaft drilling operation.

Wives and relatives of the trapped 11 waited to greet their men. Many of the waiting people were in tears.

TENSION EASES

The mine's siren sounded long and loud to signal the success of the operation—one of the most dramatic in mining history—and the waiting people broke into applause for the first time as the tension broke.

Success in the rescue was assured when the giant drill broke through the underground gallery during the night without causing the roof to collapse.

The first miner up was Heinz Kull, 31, father of three children.

He wore dark glasses to protect his eyes and doctors helped him away.

Fifty-seven minutes later up came the 11th man, Bernhard Wolter, 38.

RESCUE ON TV

Millions watched this last act of the mine drama on West German television.

After happy reunions with their families, the men were taken by ambulances to hospitals for further examination.

The men were brought up in order determined beforehand, apparently based on their age and physical condition.

The oldest miner, Fritz Baer,

MITCHELL SHARP
. . . rosy future

Fundamental Shift Seen In Wheat

REGINA (CP) — Trade Minister Sharp said today Canada's long-term wheat contracts with Communist countries indicate a fundamental shift in the pattern of world wheat trade, with Red China showing every sign of becoming a permanent, substantial importer and Russia likely to be a significant buyer periodically.

Mr. Sharp, addressing the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, forecast a rosy immediate future for Prairie farmers who this fall are harvesting an all-time record wheat crop of 703,000,000 bushels.

"If traditional markets take their regular supplies—and I see no reason to think otherwise for the next couple of years at least—we can look forward to a very substantial movement of wheat up to at least July 31, 1966. . . ."

SIGNIFICANT

Dealing with the rapid succession of big wheat sale agreements this year with Communist countries, Mr. Sharp said: "The significance of these long-term contracts with China, the Soviet Union, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Poland is that they seem to indicate a

U.S. Okays Caribou Plan

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. Congress, revising its decision, has agreed to allow the U.S. Army to continue to participate in the Canadian Caribou II transport plane development program, it was learned today.

The army has agreed to allocate $5,000,000 for this purpose

Canaveral ICBM Runs Wild

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—A minuteman "Instant ICBM" veered wildly out of control and blew up a scant few hundred feet above Cape Canaveral today, raining fiery wreckage over the missile test centre.

Chunks of solid - propellant, burning furiously, touched off fires over a dozen spots on the 15,000-acre Moonport U.S.A.

The air force speedily announced there were no personal injuries as a result of the spectacular, multi-million-dollar failure. Most of the wreckage appeared to have fallen in unoccupied areas of the cape. The failure spelled a quick end to a planned attempt to shoot the rocket about 5,000 miles over the Atlantic Ocean.

PERFECT COUNT DOWN

The 54-foot Minuteman bolted from the bottom of a concrete-lined launching silo at 12 noon EST, after a perfect countdown. Almost from the start, the flight was a failure.

The gleaming white rocket, instead of climbing into the blue sky, suddenly nosed downward. As the nose turned at the ocean and the fiery tail swung upward, a range safety officer on the cape flipped a pair of switches.

Instantly, a radio signal was backed at the errant missile, touching off an explosive "destruct" package that blew it into a hundred pieces.

EXISTENCE IN JEOPARDY

Biculture Crisis 'Threat to Nation'

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is in a state of emergency that can jeopardize its very existence, said Andre Laurendeau, co-chairman of the royal commission on biculturalism and bilingualism, as the commission opened a two-day preliminary hearing here today.

LAURENDEAU
. . . hopes for debate

Mr. Laurendeau, editor of Montreal Le Devoir, said in an opening statement that the commission will not arrive at "useful conclusions" unless it maintains close contact with "informed and lively public opinion."

He expressed the hope that "an honest and serious debate on the crisis through which we are passing will spread from one end of the country to the other."

Co - chairman Davidson Dunton, president of Carleton University, added that Canada is facing questions as serious as those faced at the time of Confederation. There was a growing demand for a new look at Confederation.

The co-chairmen commented on the commission's terms of reference as the 10 - member body prepared to hear views from more than 80 witnesses on the adequacy of the terms.

'Please, No Smoke Screen

OTTAWA (CP) — A 16-man delegation of Quebec Liberal MPs from Quebec marched in a body through a light drizzle from Parliament Hill to say that the biculturalism inquiry "must not constitute a smoke-screen to delay the radical changes required."

Jean - Pierre Cote, member for Longueuil, spokesman for the group, read a statement which said every Canadian "should have access to French or English culture, according to his choice, throughout the country."

NDP DELAYS VOTE BID

A search for more evidence of irregularities has delayed the New Democratic Party's bid to upset the provincial election result in Vancouver Burrard.

Lawyer John Laxton said today he has asked volunteer workers to conduct more research into the actual number of people left off the voters' list in the Sept. 30 election.

Mr. Laxton had planned to file a petition to nullify the election at Victoria today.

"It may now be a day or so," he said.

SKIDDED 2,000 FEET INTO CABBAGE PATCH

'Miraculous Escape' From TCA Jet

LONDON (CP)—Ninety-seven persons made a miraculous escape Wednesday from a huge TCA jet airliner that plowed into a muddy cabbage patch when it failed to get off the ground during takeoff from fog-shrouded London Airport.

The Trans-Canada Air Lines DC-8F was badly damaged, but its human and radioactive cargo was brought out safely and quickly.

A special plane carrying TCA investigators arrived here from Montreal. They went straight to the scene of the crash.

A TCA spokesman said: "Our experts prepared to fly to London as soon as news of the accident reached Canada . . . Until they make a report we are not prepared to comment."

The aviation ministry started an investigation into the cause of the accident.

Canadian businessman H. E. Kent of Guelph, Ont., led other passengers, some of them dazed and in a state of shock, through the cabbages, to a nearby road.

"Everything seemed very normal as we taxied out for take-off," he said. "All of a sudden the engines cut and we felt the brakes going."

NOBODY PANICKED

"There were some terrific jolts and a sudden stillness. There was an emergency window beside me which I pushed open and started bailing out. Nobody panicked. The hostesses and steward were wonderful—very calm and very efficient."

Airport personnel, hampered by the fog that was thick in patches, poured gallons of foam on the 185-ton aircraft that was carrying a full load of fuel—18,000 gallons of high - grade kerosene — for its first stop, Montreal.

One engine was in flames but the fire was put out quickly.

Four persons received injuries. A doctor at the hospital where the four were taken said their condition was not serious but it was doubtful if they could travel today.

Ninety passengers were aboard the plane and an all-Canadian crew of seven.

Injured passengers were identified only as Mrs. Brownbill and Mrs. Ellen Lee, about 45, of Toronto, Mrs. A. McKinnon, bound for Winnipeg, and D. Tamboulis, bound for Vancouver.

Mrs. Lee was reported to have a concussion. The stewardess, Barbara Dammer, suffered a gashed arm.

RADIOACTIVE STUFF OK

Three parcels of radioactive material packed in lead containers were in a safe at London Airport today after they were recovered from the damaged plane.

An airline spokesman said they could have had no effect on the plane's instruments.

Everyone aboard — including three infants—was out of the plane in 90 seconds but it took rescuers more than 30 minutes to find the crash scene because of the fog.

The captain of the plane—flight TC-861—was Capt. Michael Found, a veteran of the Atlantic run.

'Put U.S.-Canada Problems Into Proper Perspective'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson Wednesday night cited the need for greater mutual understanding between the United States and Canada to put into proper perspective problems that are bound to arise between the two nations.

"We should be careful not to ignore or minimize these problems, but we should also be careful not to distort and misrepresent them," Pearson said in an address at a dinner meeting of the Pilgrims of the United States.

Pearson arrived here earlier in the day from Ottawa and also spoke before the council on foreign relations.

Pearson apparently had in mind as one of the differences possible problems arising from the sale of wheat to the Soviet Union. He told reporters on his arrival that Canada would not need help in shipping the wheat, unless American trade unions interfere.

VARIED PROBLEMS

In his speech, Pearson admitted that "close and varied neighborly relations inevitably bring varied and serious problems.

"We should not try to avoid or ignore them. That would be unrealistic and would merely store up trouble for the future. We do better when we recognize frankly that the problems are bound to arise and then try to do something sensible about them as they do arise."

Also addressing the dinner was New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Rockefeller noted that the relationship between Canada and the United States often has been described as "special," and said it at times has "come in for criticism."

"Self-respecting sovereign states can live in friendship only if there is constant consultation on common objectives," Rockefeller pointed out. "This can only be based on confidence in common values, in pledges faithfully kept, in principles stoutly maintained."

REPORTED EXAGGERATION

Pearson said he "deplored" the exaggeration of American differences "almost as much as I worry about the general indifference" to the problems that arise.

Pearson reminded his audience that some years ago he made a prediction that the "days of relatively easy and automatic" relations between the two countries were at an end. Later events confirmed that forecast, he said.

"This does not mean that the relations between our two countries in the future will be less good than they have been in the past decades," he said.

"It does mean that they will require more vigilant attention, a greater effort of mutual understanding."

Union Delegate Criticizes Job Questions

Transport workers' delegate Harry G. Anderson told Labor Council Wednesday night that a new Unemployment Insurance Commission questionnaire is mostly composed of "trick questions."

He said many people are going to be disqualified unjustly by their answers.

Mr. Anderson said: "It's not an honest effort by the UIC to do away with fraud.

"A lot of innocent people are going to get tricked.

"Interpretation of the Unemployment Act is getting tougher all the time."

The question on whether there were any restrictions on site of work, he said, was "loaded."

GOING TO HANG

"A lot of people are going to hang themselves on that question."

Other trick questions, he said, are those dealing with hours and days per week available for work, and minimum expected wage.

Delegate Percy Rayment said that each union should discover the facts and present them to the membership.

VISIT AGENT

He moved that council ask all affiliated unions to notify their members that if they become unemployed, they should first call on the secretary or business agent or some person who knows the Unemployment Act.

"I don't suggest anybody wants to cheat," he said.

"Many individuals are not accustomed to that sort of thing (being interviewed by UIC officer.)

"A reply to hours available for work should be 'normal hours.'

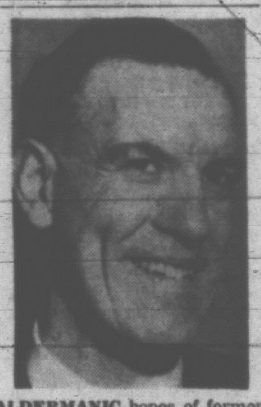
OUT OF LUCK

"If the applicant says he wouldn't work excepting certain hours, then he'd be out of luck."

Mr. Rayment said for example if part-time or second shift work came up and the man had stated full day shift, it could be taken as a refusal to work. He could not then draw benefits.

"On expected wages, it should be 'the local going wage'.

"They should know these things before they go in," he said. His motion carried.



ALDERMANIC hopes of former Vancouver mayor Tom Alsbury suffered setback Wednesday night when the Civic Non-Partisan Association spurned his bid for support. Mr. Alsbury said later he would consider the matter fully before deciding if he would run as an independent.

Smoke Caused Death

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) —A coroner's jury Wednesday found that May Hurst, 37, of the Sugarcane Indian reserve near Williams Lake, died of smoke asphyxiation Saturday in a rooming house mattress fire. The jury was told the woman was under the influence of alcohol.

WRANGLES FEARED

South Viet Nam 'Power Vacuum'

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON (AP)—The passing of the Diem government in South Viet Nam has created a power vacuum that could lead to more instability and upheaval.

The transition from family dictatorship to military revolutionary council has been immediate, smooth and relatively bloodless. Army units were back fighting the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas within hours after the Saigon government was overturned. Civil administration has been almost undisturbed; with few exceptions, the same faces were in the same government offices Monday morning.

The big change is that the country now is ruled by a committee instead of a family.

But there is no guarantee this committee will work harmoniously and in the absence of an established political leader in the group, some observers feel the generals may eventually fall to wrangling.

Despite the naming of civilians to a provisional government, the generals will continue to hold the real power for a long time, according to present indications.

WILL TAKE TIME

One general on the revolutionary council said Wednesday he thought it might be six to 12 months before a civilian government with full power could be elected.

"There have been many recent historical examples of what often happens in cases like this," a foreign diplomat said. "For example, there was Nasser in Egypt."

"I'm going to keep my eye on the young colonels around here."

The provisional government is not made up of strong political personalities. Nguyen Ngoc Tho, the premier, has been a career bureaucrat since 1930. Although he was President Ngo Dinh Diem's vice-president, he never has exercised any real authority.

Other civilians in the caretaker cabinet are similarly qualified. While competent civil servants, they are strongly lacking in leadership qualities.

All national policies for the time being will be made by the military revolutionary council executive committee of generals headed by Maj.-Gen. Duong Van Minh.

Minh, 47, while highly respected, is difficult to identify as a national leader. In his own words he is "a soldier, not a politician."

NELSON ROCKEFELLER . . . set for primaries

'Rocky' Announces Bid For Nomination by GOP

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Governor Nelson Rockefeller formally announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for president today and said he would enter the New Hampshire and other presidential preference primaries between now and the Republican national convention next July.

"I have reached this decision because I believe that vital principles are at stake in the next presidential election," Rockefeller said in a statement.

Rockefeller renewed his charge that the administration of Democratic President Kennedy had failed to understand and meet "the menace of international communism," to stimulate the economy and to strengthen the unity of the free world.

Rockefeller, 55, did not refer in his brief statement either to his role as the underdog in what has been the undeclared contest for the nomination.

Nor did he refer to his divorce and remarriage, which have been largely blamed for his currently poor standing in polls on the nomination.

URGES DEBATES

Rockefeller proposed that Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona and other potential candidates also enter the New Hampshire primary to pick the Republican party nominee.

Rockefeller, who did not mention Goldwater by name, has been challenging the Arizona senator to join him in a series of debates to determine what positions the Republican party should take on major issues. Goldwater has refused on grounds of party unity.

Rockefeller, who has sought in recent months to associate Goldwater with extremism, said he was certain Republican convention delegates would "write a platform and select a candidate consistent with the basic principles of the Republican party and the realities of the world in which we live."

"I believe that in a democracy such as ours every man and woman is entitled to know exactly where all candidates stand on the vital issues of the day," he said. "The day of the smoke-filled room in American politics is over."

Rockefeller began reading his prepared statement without any preliminary comment. He concluded the reading with a "thank you" and swept out of the room before reporters could buttonhole him for questioning.

The New Hampshire primary March 10 will be the first in the United States.

FIRST MOVE SINCE COUP

S. Viet Nam Resumes Fight Against Reds

(Times News Services)

SAIGON — South Vietnamese troops today reported their first victory against Communist forces since the overthrow of president Ngo Dinh Diem.

The official Viet Nam press agency reported 38 guerrillas were killed in a battle Wednesday east of the provincial capital of Phu Yen.

Three government soldiers were wounded and a quantity of weapons was seized from the Reds, the announcement said. It added that the operation was continuing.

The military revolutionary council reported that 33 persons were killed and 233 were injured in the weekend coup. More than half the casualties were civilians.

The figures were far below unofficial estimates that at least 100 persons were killed and several hundred injured during the 18-hour battle in downtown Saigon.

TOLL INCLUDES DIEM

The death toll included Diem, his younger brother Ngo Dinh Nhu and several top loyalist officers. The officers included Capt. Ho Tan Quyen, the navy commander, and Cao Xuan Vy, deputy commander of Nhu's Republican Youth Corps.

The military council claimed Wednesday that Diem and Nhu were killed in a struggle for a guard's pistol. The government called the deaths "accidental suicides."

The military council said previously that five rebel soldiers were killed in the battle.

Outside Saigon, meanwhile, Communist guerrillas doubled their attacks on strategic hamlets and intensified a propaganda campaign urging villagers to join the Reds.

A U.S. spokesman reported the Communists began reacting late Sunday to Saturday's coup and by Wednesday had launched dozens of attacks. The incidents were classed as probings to determine villagers' reaction to the coup.

ROCEKT BELT BECKONS TO WILD BLUE YONDER

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Bell Aerosystems has developed two rocket belts capable of flying individuals as high as 60 feet and as far as 815 feet, it was announced Thursday. Bell produced the first such belt in 1961 for experimental purposes. The second belt was made to enable Bell "birdmen" to make dual flights. The belts can speed an individual along at 60 miles an hour.

FUNERAL TODAY

Final Curtain Falls On Singer's Career

Funeral service was conducted this afternoon at McCall's Chapel for well-known entertainer Pat Berry. Interment was at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Mrs. G. Barter, who was better known in the entertainment world as Pat Berry, died Sunday in St. Joseph's Hospital after a lengthy illness. She was 41.

PAT BERRY
(Mrs. G. Barter)

Born in Winnipeg, Pat started her singing career there and sang on CBC programs for a number of years.

For two years she sang at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto and was with the Bert Niosi band when they made their one and only western tour.

TOURED WEST COAST

Other entertainment tours took her as far north as Alaska and as far south as California. In Los Angeles she sang with Fred Martin before returning to Toronto.

In 1946 her parents Mr. and Mrs. David Berry moved to Victoria and in recent years Pat made her home here at 991 Snowdrop Avenue.

While living here she sang with the Hometowners orchestra and at the Sirocco Club.

She was predeceased by her father last year.

Surviving are her mother, Mrs. David Berry, 485 Boleskine Road, 16-year-old twin son and daughter, Larry and Laurene, two sisters, Marion Hagel, Vancouver, and Gloria (Berry) Berdahl, an entertainer in Calgary, and one brother, Stuart Berry, Naramata.

Highland Games Delegates Meet

Delegates from Portland, Seattle, New Westminster, Vancouver, Chilliwack and Nanaimo will attend a meeting in Victoria Saturday of the Pacific International Highland Games association.

The meeting will be held at 2 p.m. in the Colonial Inn, with president W. H. Brown of Victoria, in the chair.

A banquet will be held at 7 p.m.

NORTH COWICHAN — Paul B. Stone will be reimbursed $40 from the Sheep Protection Claim for two sheep which were killed by unknown marauding dogs. Loss of the sheep amounted to $70.

'Seat Belt' Worked

VANCOUVER (CP) — A junior-size seat belt was praised Wednesday for saving the life of a 16-month-old youngster, Mrs. Cathleen Warsket told police her daughter Lou was in her troller when it was struck by a car. She said the seat strap in the stroller prevented the baby from being thrown to the pavement.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1963—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

Most times I chatter along like any squirrel, but about once each month a day arrives when I'm utterly stumped for anything to write about.

In my trade, we have names for this condition. The politest is writer's cramp. Whatever one chooses to call the affliction, it strikes without warning and evaporates no less mysteriously than it sets in.

The worst such slump I ever suffered lasted most of a dreary winter.

That one, though, was the veriest kitten; I know a poor fellow in Toronto who got himself tied in such a knot that he couldn't put words to paper for a year.

A free-lance, he was in the habit of getting the kids off to school, drinking a leisurely post-breakfast cup or two of coffee, sharpening the three dozen pencils he kept in a bowl, then settling to work at a bridge table in the sunroom which he shared with a budgie and a mess of potted begonias. There he produced well enough to keep his family in comfort.

One day his wife decided this good provider deserved better working quarters. All on her little own, she rented and furnished for him a downtown office, complete with noiseless typewriter and a sheaf of ballpoints.

★ ★ ★

My friend disposed his haunches on the new spring-back swivel chair behind his new glasstop desk. He then prepared for the daily dive into fiction.

The way he tells it, something queer happened to his fingers as they were about to make contact with the waiting keys.

They felt as if they were swelling, even though they looked no bigger. Presently his hands began to sweat.

He went out for coffee, wandered around a while in a neighboring department store, then went back to try the consequence again.

No soap. He was socked in, slumped out, and his wife paid for her folly with 12 months that all but blew the connubial nest asunder.

You think I'm inventing or enlarging? Believe me, I'm not!

There was even once—and for all I know still may be—a New York psychiatrist who parlayed himself into a Rolls and a place on Long Island by treating writers' blocks. I never heard that he was very successful, but at least he gave his patients something to occupy themselves with while waiting for the mental ice to thaw.

★ ★ ★

Lay treatments vary with the blocked writer. These include liquor, brisk walks, love, and wearing the necktie he had on when he sold his first story. To the best of my knowledge, none of these work. The fit has to wear itself out.

A good wife comes to realize that the guy isn't just playing lazy. She learns that neither sympathy nor cossetting is worth a hang, and if she's smart, abandons these tactics.

What she does if she's ruthless as well as smart is put her becalmed husband to work at the most horrible tasks she can find for him. Cleaning roof gutters is a good starter, and painting house an excellent follow-up. The theory here is that after a week on a ladder he will be so glad to escape to his typewriter that the words will flow like crazy.

If they don't . . . well, at least the house got painted.

Ordinary little slumps, the kind that hit me today, are generally cured by the approach of deadline.

Should you ever find yourself bogged in the middle of an essay page, committee report or such, here's a writers' stunt that may help. Copy the last three paragraphs you set down: the chances are, you'll then plow briskly on to a conclusion.

And Three Miles Later . . .

Flashy convertible in showroom shape above had only six miles on the "clock" when salesman Cliff Lloyd posed for advertising picture at Chatwin Motors, Alberni, Saturday night. Next night, with only three more miles registered, it was the total wreck shown at right. Without bothering to open showroom doors, a thief drove out amid a shower of shattering glass and rolled car in ditch after brief chase by RCMP. A 17-year-old, still recovering from head injuries received in the crash, is charged in juvenile court. (Andy Bigg photo)

YOUNG THUGS ROB NEWSBOY

A 13-year-old was literally "shaken down" by two older boys at about 8:30 Wednesday evening.

David Hall, 1141 Palmer, was standing outside a newspaper circulation shed at Cook and Merritt when two youths drove up in a black car.

They shook him so violently his wallet fell out of his pocket.

After stealing $7 from it, they fled in the car.

Barbers To Set Hours

City finance committee today recommended that council stop telling barbershops when to close.

It urged council to rescind the present bylaw compelling all barbershops to shut on Wednesdays.

This would throw barbershop hours open in the same manner as other shops.

The recommendation followed a petition by 27 of the 53 barbershop operators that council switch the compulsory closing day from Wednesday to Monday.

Ald. J. L. W. McLean argued that the city should not try to arbitrate the split among the barbers.

"I can see no reason why, if it were left to them, the operators couldn't come to an arrangement among themselves as to when they close."

Mayor R. B. Wilson agreed and added that withdrawal of civic regulation did not mean the barbers could not close. He said that the hours-of-work regulation would provide protection for employees.

Committee also recommended that council petition the legislature for an amendment to the Fireworks Regulation Act permitting the city to shorten the present one-week Halloween period for sale and discharge of fireworks. This would enable a uniform approach in Greater Victoria, Mayor Wilson said.

Current survey and engineering studies for converting Memorial Arena into a multi-purpose Coliseum are proceeding well, committee was told.

Arena manager John Morgan and city engineer J. C. Garnett were authorized to visit Seattle this month to study a similar conversion carried out there.

Ald. A. L. Curtis, council's liaison with the arena commission, said the study was gathering steam "and the more you think about the proposal the better it appears."

Final legal and financial tag ends of the civic parking garage bylaws for expropriating the sites were cleaned up with a committee recommendation that Lydia Arsens be paid $3,500 she claimed as compensation for loss of leased premises on the View Street garage site more than two years ago.

Oak Bay council will be asked to declare where it stands on library facilities so that the other municipalities can follow up a special report.

Saanich council asked City Hall for an answer to its request for negotiations last spring aimed at giving Saanich a voting delegate on the library board.

But Mayor Wilson pointed out this question was tabled pending a decision on a library survey urging development of a metropolitan library system. This in turn was tabled at Oak Bay's request so it could make up its mind on whether it wanted to join the other municipalities or provide its own facilities.

Finance committee asked Oak Bay to eliminate the roadblock by stating its position so that the other discussions can get rolling again.

Tender call for restoring and repainting the antique elevator in the temporary City Hall was authorized.

Topics of the Day

The B.C. government will appoint a provincial committee to work on plans for Canada's 1967 Centenary.

The committee will be appointed by the provincial cabinet, a government official said today.

He said B.C. is now awaiting word from the federal government on financial arrangements.

The B.C. committee will co-ordinate local centennial projects, he added.

Ottawa and B.C. have already agreed to make grants to communities for special projects to mark the centenary.

The results of a Royal Commission investigation into workmen's compensation may be delayed until after the next session of the legislature.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said the commission was expected to finish public hearings this fall, and have its report completed in time for the session, which starts Jan. 23.

Chief Justice A. C. DesBrisay was appointed to conduct the commission at this year's session in March.

Mr. Peterson said Mr. DesBrisay wants to hold more hearings, and it is now possible that his report won't be ready until after the end of the session.

Fred K. Landecker will speak on "New Developments in Shot Peening" at a meeting of Vancouver Island Chapter, American Society for Metals, Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Dockyard Officers' Club.

The B.C. government has been asked to convert the Whitty's Beach, Lagoon and Waterfall area into a provincial park.

A letter to this effect has been sent to the B.C. recreation and conservation department by directors and members of the Metchosin Explorers' Adventurers' Club—an association of teen-age boys who go out on summer and winter expeditions.

"We want to be sure that boys of the future will have the same opportunity for wilderness adventure as we have today," said Chis Pike, founder of the Explorers' Club.

The letter also urges the B.C. government to preserve wilderness areas in the province, particularly on the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

A copy of the letter has gone to Esquimalt MLA Herbert Bruch.

"We believe winter camping is as important as summer camping," Mr. Pike said, "as it calls for hardiness and a spirit of adventure."

Last summer club members explored the Nitinat area of Vancouver Island, camping in wilderness areas, and Mr. Pike showed a film depicting their adventures.

Professor C. S. Burchill will deliver the second part of a talks on Red China Friday night at 8 in Oak Bay Junior High School. He will also show slides on the subject "A Tourist in Red China Today." Proceeds will go to the World Federalists of Canada.

Four young men charged with beating up a 20-year-old sailor pleaded not guilty today in city police court and had their joint trial set for Nov. 18.

Alexander Caird, 21, of 3592 Shelbourne; Ronald Fagan, 21, 443 Wilkinson; James Lorne Etter, 21, 635 Beaver Lake Road, and John Daniel March, 22, 195 Sims, all squeezed into the dock to hear the charge read.

Charge was laid after police received a call at 2:15 a.m. Oct. 27 from a man who said a boy was being beaten in front of 3160 Jutland.

City police found David Hart of HMCS Naden had been assaulted by four men.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson will be guest speaker at the annual dinner of the Heavy Construction Association of B.C. to be held in the Empress Hotel next Thursday at 7 p.m.

Newly-elected officers of the association will meet in the hotel at 5 p.m. the same day.

Readers Give 358 Corneas To Eye Bank

Times readers have willed 179 pairs of eyes to the Canadian Eye Bank in recent days.

The move was in response to an appeal by Mrs. Helen Harvey-Smith, 1778 Davie, who is awaiting corneal transplant operations on both her eyes.

Eye Bank officials in Vancouver said most of the donors are young couples. And though the newly-pledged eyes may save the sight of other persons afflicted in years to come, Mrs. Harvey-Smith's personal donor is still to be chosen.

Her doctor prefers to carry out the complete transplant by himself so he is awaiting the death of a donor locally. However, should Mrs. Harvey-Smith's condition of failing sight become emergent, it is now expected eyes will be readily available, from the Vancouver area if possible.

The eye bank co-operates with all B.C. hospitals and is assisted by Trans-Canada Air Lines in speeding the eyes where they are required. They must be used within hours of the death of the donor.

Corneal grafting is conducted successfully each year on hundreds of Canadians although it can only be used to restore sight in a small percentage of eye afflictions.

Donor forms may be obtained from CNIB offices here.

Sheet Metal Firm Changes Owner

Harwood Roofing Ltd. of Vancouver has announced the acquisition of Pacific Sheet Metal Works Ltd. of Victoria and Nanaimo for an undisclosed sum.

President Giles Mackenzie said the Island plants would remain under the management of William Pomeroy at Victoria and Jack Steveson at Nanaimo.

Mr. Mackenzie said his firm has been awarded a contract for the roofing of the $6,500,000 Calgary Inn being built by Marwell Construction Ltd.

YOUTH STOLE NINE CARS IN 10 MONTHS

A tall 17-year-old pleaded guilty in city police court today to stealing nine cars in 10 months.

Robert Duff, no fixed address, was remanded to Nov. 18 for a probation report.

City juvenile officer Lyle Somers told the court that Duff was picked up Oct. 29 in a car stolen from Broughton Street the day before.

While he was being questioned about that theft, he admitted the eight others, the juvenile officer said.

He stole cars from various parts of the city Jan. 6, 15, 20 and 26; Feb. 5; March 6; Oct. 7, 17, and 28.

ARRIVE TONIGHT

Evangelists Here All Next Week

Evangelists who will lead the Greater Victoria Crusade for Christ—aimed at winning converts for churches here—will be welcomed at Patricia Bay Airport at 8 tonight.

The evangelists, headed by Barry Moore of London, Ont., will conduct public meetings in Central Junior High School Auditorium Sunday at 7:30 p.m. and every night next week at 8 p.m.

The crusade is backed by some 30 local churches with Rev. T. W. Chapman, pastor of the Christian Missionary Alliance Church, as chairman of the committee.

Mr. Chapman will welcome the evangelists tonight with representatives of the different churches and Mayor R. B. Wilson of Victoria or his representative.

200-VOICE CHOIR

Evangelist Barry Moore is accompanied by sacred music recording artist Jimmy McDonald; organist Leslie Grant and Harvey Schroeder who will direct a 200-voice choir from various Victoria churches.

"It will be the first interdenominational crusade of its kind ever held in Victoria," Mr. Chapman said, "and we hope people of all ages will attend our meetings.

"All Protestant churches have been invited to participate."

BREAKFAST MEETING

The visiting evangelists will be entertained at a breakfast in the Dominion Hotel Friday at 8:30 a.m.

Friday at 8 p.m. there will be a youth meeting in Victoria High School auditorium aimed at augmenting youth participation in the crusade.

Saturday at 10 a.m. a city-wide children's meeting will be held in Central Junior High School auditorium.

The evangelists have been holding crusades across Canada and more than 4,000 people attended one meeting in Calgary Jubilee Auditorium this week.

"When the Victoria crusade is over, a follow-up committee will encourage converts to join various churches in the area," Mr. Chapman said.

WE GET WHAT WE DESERVE

It's official.

The weather we're getting at this time of year is the weather we can expect to get at this time of year.

So stated the weatherman today, in forecasting recurring blustery weather with temperatures dipping down toward the frost mark.

Winds today averaged around 40 miles an hour, gusting above 60, with steady but not unusually heavy rain.

Partial clearing with showers is expected this evening. Temperature between 35 and 40 overnight, high of 50 on Friday.

Man Jailed Six Months For TV Theft

A young man who stole a television set from the family he was living with today was sentenced to six months in Oakalla.

Ronald William Kolochynskiy pleaded not guilty to theft under $50, indicated he would defend himself — and then refused to give evidence or call witnesses on his own behalf.

Mrs. Wilma Robinson, 773 Hillside, told the court that Kolochynskiy had been staying with her family in August.

She had to go into hospital, her husband was away, and when she returned both Kolochynskiy and their portable television set were gone.

She later saw him downtown, and he admitted having taken the set, and said he would try to get it back.

When he didn't, city detective Angus Munro went with Mrs. Robinson to the Broad Street Trading Co. store and retrieved the set.

Kiwanis Village Elects Officers

New president of Kiwanis Village Society is W. J. Lyle, supervisor of the B.C. hospital insurance division.

Mr. Lyle was elected Monday night.

Directors are Sam Swetnam, and Dave Lawson.

Honorary treasurer is Drummond Taylor and secretary, Mrs. Norma Barton.

REMEMBRANCE SERVICES LISTED

Remembrance Day services will be conducted throughout the Greater Victoria area on Monday honoring the memory of those who died in the cause of freedom and justice.

In Victoria units participating in the memorial service will form up on Wharf Street, near Government and parade across the Causeway to the Cenotaph in front of the Legislative Buildings.

The naval contingent will be led by veterans and the 45-man band of HMCS Naden.

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore, Flag officer Pacific Coast and Air Commodore R. C. Weston, deputy maritime Commander Pacific, will be on the saluting base immediately in front of the Empress Hotel.

NAVY IN CHARGE

Parade commander will be Lt.-Cmdr. A. Shimmin, RCN.

Representatives from all three services and the RCMP will serve as sentries at each corner of the Cenotaph where the services will commence at 11 a.m.

Commodore H. A. Winnett, commodore superintendent Pacific coast, will lay a wreath at 11 a.m. service in Esquimalt Memorial Park, opposite municipal hall.

Following the laying of wreaths he will take the salute of the March Past led by parade commander, Lt.-Cmdr. A. Sharrow.

In Oak Bay the service will be held at the War Memorial in Uplands Park at 2:30 p.m. Capt. C. V. Laws will lay the wreath. In event of bad weather the service will be held in Oak Bay United Church.

Lieut. G. Lavoie will command a naval platoon in a Memorial Day parade in Saanich Gore Memorial Park, corner of Shelbourne and Cedar Hill Cross Road at 2:45 p.m. Wreath will be laid by Cmdr. E. Gosh.

LANGFORD SERVICE

Cmdr. Don Sabiston will lay a wreath at 11 a.m. at services held in Langford Canadian Legion Hall.

Remembrance Day services will start at 11 a.m. in St. Andrew's Cathedral and Cmdr. J. L. Neveu will represent flag officer of the Pacific Coast.

In addition to above listed services a special service will be held at HMCS Naden at 11 a.m.

On Sunday a special Remembrance Day service will be held in Christ Church Cathedral and Rear Admiral Landymore and Mrs. Landymore will head the naval personnel in attendance.

BIGGEST SALE $20

42 Years Selling Poppies

By MARGE GILROY

Tag day veteran Mrs. Isabella Ripley, 3820 Rowland, looks forward to poppy day this Friday with as much enthusiasm as she did on the first tag day in 1921.

"I have been working for the boys since 1916," she said.

Her first husband was killed in the First World War.

She has never forgotten that first tag day 42 years ago when she walked the streets from 8 in the morning to 8 at night. And when she finally parted with her heavy can she had collected $125.

In those days veterans made the poppies in the Red Cross Workshop on Johnson Street. Today they are made on a larger scale in Toronto and shipped to Victoria.

In 1926 Mrs. Ripley left the sidewalk beat behind and moved into a corner of the old post office. When the post office moved she moved too.

During her 37 years in her post office niche she has averaged a Remembrance Day collection between $75 and $200. Her biggest thrill was once when someone slipped a $20 bill into her can.

Mrs. Ripley will be 85 on her next birthday and she has no notion of turning over her post office seat to anyone else.

Decked out in her legion uniform she proudly wears a lapel full of honorary pins.

One is a life membership for the Pro Patria Branch No. 31, Royal Canadian Legion, of which she was the first president in 1927. Another is a 25-year pin and the third is the first past president's pin to be given in British Columbia.

A fourth pin was presented to her for her services during the Second World War when she sold war savings stamps one day a week for four years.

On Friday she will add a fifth—a bright red poppy.

And between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. she will be in the post office ready to pin the same on you.

Ask The Times

Q. Please tell me the difference between a supervisor and inspector of schools. H.B.

A. A supervisor looks after a specialized field of education, for example, music and education, and tries to improve teaching methods by working with school instructors.

Unlike the supervisor, the inspector can make out written evaluations of a teacher's ability to instruct. The inspector is responsible for teachers in all aspects of the school curriculum whereas a supervisor is assigned to only one field of education.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve civil matrimonial or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

YMCA Finds Resolution Out of Date

TORONTO (CP)—Some of the 135 delegates gathered here for the Young Women's Christian Association annual meeting expressed concern Tuesday over a two-year-old YWCA resolution against nuclear arms in Canada.

The resolution, which was adopted in Halifax, recommended a ban against nuclear arms on Canadian soil.

Since then the Liberals have succeeded the Progressive Conservative government and negotiations between Canada and the United States have scheduled the transport of nuclear arms from the U.S. to Canada.

Delegates voted to "continue to look into the resolution with a view to changing it," said Mrs. P. J. Chadsey, chairman of the public affairs and world service education committee.

She said the matter will come up before the next YWCA convention in June, 1965, in Saskatoon.

Hospital Alumnae Names Officers

Victoria Branch of the Royal Alexandra Hospital (Edmonton) Alumnae Association met recently at the Oliver Street home of the president, Mrs. A. P. Bugslag for annual reports and election of officers.

Mrs. B. Douma, Sidney, was named president; Mrs. P. Baird, secreatry-treasurer and Mrs. D. Watson, sick visiting convener.

Money was voted for Canadian mental health and for a Christmas gift for a former employee of the hospital now resident at St. Mary's Priory, Colwood.

Miss C. Mitchell, an honor guest, spoke of her experiences in northern Ontario; Mrs. A. Ault reported on home coming week festivities at the hospital in Edmonton and opening of a new active treatment centre and Mrs. Douma spoke and showed pictures of her daughter Linda as Miss PNE.

Feted at Tea

Miss D. Geneva Lent was guest of honor when the executive of the Women's Canadian Club held a tea at the Empress Hotel, Wednesday afternoon. Also attending were Mrs. F. M. Corbett and Mrs. Leslie D. Macdonnell, who had introduced and thanked Miss Lent when she spoke to the club earlier that afternoon. Mrs. W. Redford and Mrs. A. B. Young presided at the refreshment table. Others present were Mrs. T. L. Watters, Miss E. L. Forbes, Miss Kathleen Agnew, Mrs. William Burnett, Mrs. A. T. N. Cowley, Mrs. P. J. Mulcahy, Miss Mary Ashworth, Mrs. H. B. Forse, Mrs. H. H. Henderson, Mrs. H. H. Youson, Mrs. Percy B. Scurrah, Mrs. J. H. Brown, Mrs. Harold Campbell, Mrs. J. R. Howard, Mrs. R. H. McDougall, Mrs. Frank Mack, Mrs. Trudy Kemp and Mrs. Pat Dufour.

From Saskatoon

The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Coulter, came from Saskatoon, Sask. to attend the wedding of Miss Sharon Brash and AB Donald Coulter, RCN. Also from Saskatoon were Miss Marilyn Coulter, Mr. Bob Coulter and Mrs. G. Richardson. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. Ronald Brash, Calgary; Mrs. J. McClure, Mr. Red McClure, Mr. Cliff McClure and Miss Shirley MacKie, all of Courtenay; Mr. and Mrs. F. McKnight and Mr. J. Donnelly, all of Vancouver.

MSTISLAV ROSTROPOVICH

Russian 'Cellist Here

One of the greatest of living cellists, Mstislav Rostopovich, is to appear in recital at the Royal Theatre tonight.

Opening event of the Famous Artists celebrity season, the tour of the Soviet cellist is part of a cultural exchange program between North America and the U.S.S.R.

The brilliant young—he is 36—cellist, described by leading critics os the only inheritor of the fabled Feuerman tradition of performance, Rostropovich has selected an impressive program in which he will be accompanied at the piano by Alexander Dedukhin.

A Suite by Kabalevsky and a Sonata in C major by Benjamin Britten, both dedicated to the cellist, will be performed. In addition he will play a Bach Suite and Stravinsky's Suite Italienne.

The concert begins at 8:30.

Mail Thieves Get $50,000

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Police said late Wednesday bandits escaped with at least $50,000 in used money after hijacking a mail truck from the CNR station lot.

Police said the gang may be the same one which stole $40,000 from a mail truck in nearby Cowansville last summer. The money was being returned to banks in Montreal, 100 miles west of here.

'DEADLY GAME' OPENING AT LANGHAM

Suspense is a strong element in the strange, rather eerie play which opens tonight at Langham Court Theatre, with curtain at 8:15.

"The Deadly Game," by James Yaffe, is directed by Bert Farr and has a good cast with Ken Bostock Bruce Banyard and John Drean in leading roles.

The Victoria Theatre Guild production will be repeated Friday and Saturday and again next week Wednesday through Saturday.

BIGGER TIPS

Taxicab TV Sets Success

CHICAGO (AP)—A Chicago taxicab company is installing television sets for passengers who want something more than just a ride and unsolicited comments on the weather, politics and sports.

The Flash Cab Company has installed the five-inch screen receivers in about 40 of its 285 cabs and plans to install 60 more.

"The response has been tremendous," says Arthur Deckholtz, Flash Cab president. "The passengers like it and so do the drivers. The drivers say they get bigger tips."

MUSICAL ART SOCIETY

Balanced Artistry Displayed

By AUDREY St.D. JOHNSON

For a few hundred selective and genuine music lovers from the core of the concert-going public in this city, the Musical Art Society has conclusively proved its unique value with the season's first two concerts.

Dedicated to the encouragement and support of city artists and music-making primarily and to Canadian musicianship generally, they gave us, with Esther Glazer in October, a distinguished violin recital.

Wednesday night, at Oak Bay Junior High School, a greatly enjoyable concert in the chamber music genre was presented.

UNUSUAL GROUPING

The combination of instruments was an unusual one; harpsichord alternating with piano, the performer, Neville Harrock; oboe, Woodford Garrigus and clarinet, Barrie Moncur, with Erika Kurth, soprano.

Of prime importance in chamber ensemble performance is that all performers should be of equal skill and balanced artistry.

The technical skills and musicianly qualities of these four Victoria artists were not only substantial but indeed well matched.

DELIGHTFUL BLEND

Full, sweet quality and purity of intonation of Mrs. Kurth's voice blended delightfully with the woodwinds She has a touch too much of vibrato at times but there is fine flexibility and she is able to achieve that rare thing—a genuine delicacy in mezzo voce.

Dr. Garrigus, in the Teleman Partita and Mr. Moncur, particularly as duettist in a group of songs by Spohr, revealed an admirable mastery of their instruments.

PROFICIENT PIANIST

A proficient keyboard artist, whether as soloist on the two-manual harpsichord, or firm yet sensitive accompanist on the Steinway, Mr. Haddock provided an excellent foundation for the foursome.

Amongst so much that is rich and charming in music it becomes difficult to select any one item for comment, but aside from some lovely lieder and Handel, I will long remember the Greek folk songs arranged by Ravel and the Schubert "Der Hirt auf Dem Felsen" for soprano, clarinet and piano.

And brief though it was, the single song for oboe, clarinet, piano and voice by Dr. James M. Gayfer, "who are you little i?" (words by e. e. cummings), was most effective and appealing and moved one to hope for more of its kind from this Victoria musician.

U Vic's Big Ball Sellout

First alumni ball of the University of Victoria is a sell-out and hundreds of would-be dancers trying to buy tickets are being turned down.

University alumni association plans the first of what is hoped to be an annual event to celebrate the founding of the university this year.

It will be held Nov. 15 at Empress Hotel ballroom.

Ball committee chairman David Edgar said today about 650 applications for tickets are in hand, but only 340 persons can be accepted.

"We have to tell the rest we are sorry, but we can't accommodate them," he said.

A maximum of 170 couples is set for the event in order for the ballroom to be comfortable.

"There are not enough good facilities in this city that are of a size and style to which we would like those attending to become accustomed," Mr. Edgar said.

ANTI-MISSILE ROCKET UNVEILED BY RUSSIANS

Summary Trial for Quebec MLA

QUEBEC (CP) — Antonio Talbot, Union Nationale legislature member for Chicoutimi, today was granted a summary trial before a judge on a charge of defrauding the Quebec government of $47,000.

The charge was laid following a royal commission report into purchasing practices under the former government. Mr. Talbot is one of five men charged with defrauding the government.

U.S.-Russia Grain Deal Near?

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev indicated tonight that a Soviet-American grain deal might be agreed upon after all.

"I got the news today," he said, "that the grain dealers in America have made a reasonable approach and perhaps we can reach agreement with them."

Murder Conviction Quashed

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Court of Appeal today quashed the conviction of David Mitchell, 20, for capital murder in the rifle-slaying of his brother and ordered a new trial.

Mitchell, of the Shell Beach Indian Reserve near Ladysmith, was convicted by an Assize Court jury in Nanaimo last Sept. 6 and sentenced to be hanged Dec. 17.

Trains Collide In Maritimes

PORT HAWKESBURY, N.S. (CP) — Two railwaymen were slightly injured when two CNR westbound freight trains collided here today. The crash resulted in a smashed caboose and the derailment of four cars and three diesel units.

Well-Known Traveller Taken Ill

DETROIT (AP)—Lowell Thomas, 71-year-old world traveller, radio news commentator and author, was under observation for a possible heart ailment today in hospital here. Thomas complained of not feeling well when he was admitted this morning, a hospital spokesman said.

PARADED IN MOSCOW'S RED SQUARE today in ceremony marking 46th anniversary of Bolshevik revolution, this two-stage rocket might be an anti-missile missile, the Soviet news agency Tass hinted. Weapon may mark another major breakthrough in nuclear arms. (AP Wirephoto.)

Big Claims For Weapon

By PETER JOHNSON

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Russia today unveiled what it claimed was an anti-missile missile, capable of "hitting any up-to-date air-space attack weapons."

Four of the rockets were included in today's parade marking the 46th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. Premier Khrushchev, who watched the parade in Red Square, has said the missiles can "hit a fly in space."

As the rockets rolled past the Red Square saluting stand at the base of Lenin's tomb, a commentator said: "These rockets have great military possibilities and can attain hits on all means of air and space attack."

Tass news agency said today's parade included, for the first time, a "unit of long - range guided interceptors."

Tass said: "At recent exercises these long-range anti-aircraft rockets proved capable of hitting any up-to-date airspace attack weapons."

Top Leaders Watch Parade

On the reviewing stand with Khrushchev were President Leonid Brezhnev, Defence Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky and other top leaders.

The four pointed missiles, about 60 feet long, appeared toward the end of the 10-minute parade which was otherwise unchanged from this year's May Day display.

They followed two sets of smaller ground-to - air rockets. One of the sets represented the type Russia said shot down the United States U-2 spy plane piloted by Francis Gary Powers in 1960.

The reported anti-missile missile is a two - stage rocket, smaller than the ground-attack rockets displayed but bigger than any of the other ground-to-air rockets hauled through the square.

A U.S. defence department spokesman told the Senate foreign relations committee in August the Pentagon is convinced that American efforts to develop defences against intercontinental ballistic missiles "are comparable in magnitude and success with those of the Soviets."

Dr. Harold Brown, director of defence research and engineering for the defence department, told the committee the critical factor was development of a system that could detect approaching missiles soon enough, discriminate between decoys and warheads, "handle large volumes of traffic and hit and kill the targets."

In contrast to this view, Dr. Edward Teller, nuclear physicist known as the father of the hydrogen bomb, told the committee he believes "the Russians have acquired the knowledge" needed for an anti-ballistic missile system.

The new Soviet rocket was shown after Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, the Soviet defence minister, said in his annual address from atop Lenin's tomb that the Soviet forces are equipped with the latest techniques to deliver a crushing blow to any attack.

There was only one direct reference to the United States. This time the United States was told that "unceasing provocations against revolutionary Cuba" were hampering efforts to lower international tensions.

Otherwise the usual warnings were couched in general terms.

EXISTENCE IN JEOPARDY

Biculture Crisis 'Threat to Nation'

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is in a state of emergency that can jeopardize its very existence, said Andre Laurendeau, co-chairman of the royal commission on biculturalism and bilingualism, as the commission opened a two-day preliminary hearing here today.

Mr. Laurendeau, editor of Montreal Le Devoir, said in an opening statement that the commission will not arrive at "useful conclusions" unless it maintains close contact with "informed and lively public opinion."

He expressed the hope that "an honest and serious debate on the crisis through which we are passing will spread from one end of the country to the other."

Co - chairman Davidson Dunton, president of Carleton University, added that Canada is facing questions as serious as those faced at the time of Confederation. There was a growing demand for a new look at Confederation.

The co-chairmen commented on the commission's terms of reference as the 10 - member body prepared to hear views from more than 80 witnesses on the adequacy of the terms.

Canaveral ICBM Runs Wild

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—A minuteman "Instant ICBM" veered wildly out of control and blew up a scant few hundred feet above Cape Canaveral today, raining fiery wreckage over the missile test centre.

Chunks of solid - propellant, burning furiously, touched off fires over a dozen spots on the 15,000-acre Moonport U.S.A.

The air force speedily announced there were no personnel injuries as a result of the spectacular, multi-million-dollar failure. Most of the wreckage appeared to have fallen in unoccupied areas of the cape. The failure spelled a quick end to a planned attempt to shoot the rocket about 5,000 miles over the Atlantic Ocean.

PERFECT COUNTDOWN

The 54-foot Minuteman bolted from the bottom of a concrete-lined launching silo at 12 noon EST, after a perfect countdown. Almost from the start, the flight was a failure.

The gleaming white rocket, instead of climbing into the blue sky, suddenly nosed downward. As the nose turned at the ocean and the fiery tail swung upward, a range safety officer on the cape flipped a pair of switches.

Instantly, a radio signal was barked at the errant missile, touching off an explosive "destruct" package that blew it into a hundred pieces.

NDP DELAYS VOTE BID

A search for more evidence of irregularities has delayed the New Democratic Party's bid to upset the provincial election result in Vancouver Burrard.

Lawyer John Laxton said today he has asked volunteer workers to conduct more research into the actual number of people left off the voters' list in the Sept. 30 election.

Mr. Laxton had planned to file a petition to nullify the election at Victoria today.

"It may now be a day or so," he said.

MITCHELL SHARP
. . . rosy future

Fundamental Shift Seen In Wheat

REGINA (CP) — Trade Minister Sharp said today Canada's long-term wheat contracts with Communist countries indicate a fundamental shift in the pattern of world wheat trade, with Red China showing every sign of becoming a permanent, substantial importer and Russia likely to be a significant buyer periodically.

Mr. Sharp, addressing the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, forecast a rosy immediate future for Prairie farmers who this fall are harvesting an all-time record wheat crop of 703,000,000 bushels.

"If traditional markets take their regular supplies—and I see no reason to think otherwise for the next couple of years at least—we can look forward to a very substantial movement of wheat up to at least July 31, 1966. . . ."

SIGNIFICANT

Dealing with the rapid succession of big wheat sale agreements this year with Communist countries, Mr. Sharp said: "The significance of these long-term contracts with China, the Soviet Union, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Poland is that they seem to indicate a

11 Miners Rescued From 14-Day 'Tomb'

LENGEDE, West Germany (Reuters) — Technical skill, luck and courage snatched 11 miners from a perilous "tomb" 185 feet below the surface of the earth today.

The 11 men, trapped two weeks in a flooded iron ore mine here, were brought to safety on the surface in a tense, 57-minute operation. Though haggard, filthy and in rags, they appeared to be in good condition.

The 11 men emerged one by one from a slim, winch-raised steel capsule running up and down an escape shaft drilled to their underground cavity in a dangerous, round-the-clock operation.

Top technical skill was required to make sure the dangerously loose rock above the cavity did not collapse and crush the men to death in the last phases of the operation.

LOWER 2 VOLUNTEERS

Luck played its role in that the trapped men confused north and south when mapping the cavity and sent up "wrong" measurements through their supply shaft — measurements which, in the end, turned out to be right and meant that the drill penetrated the cavity in the most favorable spot "by a pure mistake," as an engineer put it.

Courage was required of the two miner volunteers who went down the escape shaft through the treacherous earth and rock to help the trapped men into the capsule.

They, too, returned safely to the surface.

But the joy of today's victory over death was marred by the fact that 29 other miners died in the sudden flood which turned the iron ore mine into a catacomb of terror.

Three other miners were rescued last week in a similar escape shaft drilling operation.

Wives and relatives of the trapped 11 waited to greet their men. Many of the waiting people were in tears.

TENSION EASES

The mine's siren sounded long and loud to signal the success of the operation—one of the most dramatic in mining history—and the waiting people broke into applause for the first time as the tension broke.

Success in the rescue was assured when the giant drill broke through the underground gallery during the night without causing the roof to collapse.

The first miner up was Heinz Kull, 51, father of three children.

He wore dark glasses to protect his eyes and doctors helped him away.

Fifty-seven minutes later up came the 11th man, Bernhard Wolter, 38.

RESCUE ON TV

Millions watched this last act of the mine drama on West German television.

After happy reunions with their families, the men were taken by ambulances to hospitals for further examination.

The men were brought up in order determined beforehand, apparently based on their age and physical condition.

The oldest miner, Fritz Baer,

U.S. Okays Caribou Plan

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. Congress, revising its decision, has agreed to allow the U.S. Army to continue to participate in the Canadian Caribou II transport plane development program, it was learned today.

The army has agreed to allocate $5,000,000 for this purpose

Military Men Doubt New Weapon's Worth

LONDON (Reuters)—Claims by Russia that it has an effective anti-missile missile are strongly doubted in Western military circles, informed observers said here today.

They were commenting on Moscow reports by Marshal Sergei Biryuzov that Russia has rockets "which destroy the enemy's rockets in the air."

The observers said the claims were mainly for home consumption to dispel fears that Russian signature of the nuclear test-ban treaty has in any way impaired Soviet security.

In fact, Western observers believe the treaty may inhibit anti-ballistic missile programs and the Soviet government has resigned itself to a period without effective defence against the intercontinental ballistic missile.

SKIDDED 2,000 FEET INTO CABBAGE PATCH

'Miraculous Escape' From TCA Jet

LONDON (CP)—Ninety-seven persons made a miraculous escape Wednesday from a huge TCA jet airliner that plowed into a muddy cabbage patch when it failed to get off the ground during takeoff from fog-shrouded London Airport.

The Trans-Canada Air Lines DC-8F was badly damaged, but its human and radioactive cargo was brought out safely and quickly.

A special plane carrying TCA investigators arrived here from Montreal. They went straight to the scene of the crash.

A TCA spokesman said: "Our experts prepared to fly to London as soon as news of the accident reached Canada . . . Until they make a report we are not prepared to comment."

The aviation ministry started an investigation into the cause of the accident.

Canadian businessman H. E. Kent of Guelph, Ont., led other passengers, some of them dazed and in a state of shock, through the cabbages, to a nearby road.

"Everything seemed very normal as we taxied out for takeoff," he said. "All of a sudden the engines cut and we felt the brakes going."

NOBODY PANICKED

"There were some terrific jolts and a sudden stillness. There was an emergency window beside me which I pushed open and started bailing out. Nobody panicked. The hostesses and steward were wonderful—very calm and very efficient."

Airport personnel, hampered by the fog that was thick in patches, poured gallons of foam on the 185-ton aircraft that was carrying a full load of fuel—18,000 gallons of high - grade kerosene — for its first stop, Montreal.

One engine was in flames but the fire was put out quickly.

Four persons received injuries. A doctor at the hospital where the four were taken said their condition was not serious but it was doubtful if they could travel today.

Ninety passengers were aboard the plane and an all-Canadian crew of seven.

Injured passengers were identified only as Mrs. Brownbill and Mrs. Ellen Lee, about 45, of Toronto, Mrs. A. McKinnon, bound for Winnipeg, and D. Tamboulis, bound for Vancouver.

Mrs. Lee was reported to have a concussion. The stewardess, Barbara Dammer, suffered a gashed arm.

RADIOACTIVE STUFF OK

Three parcels of radioactive material packed in lead containers were in a safe at London Airport today after they were recovered from the damaged plane.

An airline spokesman said they could have had no effect on the plane's instruments.

Everyone aboard — including three infants—was out of the plane in 90 seconds but it took rescuers more than 30 minutes to find the crash scene because of the fog.

The captain of the plane—flight TC-861—was Capt. Michael Found, a veteran of the Atlantic run.

Teachers Reject Offer

DUNCAN—More than 100 members of the Cowichan Teachers' Association Tuesday rejected a tentative 1964 salary-scale agreement reached by a Vancouver Island teacher-trustee negotiating team in Nanaimo last weekend.

Teacher spokesman Bill Duyvewaardt said negotiations will resume on a local level and a further meeting between the teachers and trustees has been set for here Nov. 13.

Mr. Duyvewaardt said the Cowichan teachers voted to stick to their original demands for increases they described as being geared to Canada's economic growth.

Details of the demands and the proposed settlement have not been made public.

Agreement has been reached in nine other school districts.

An official of the B.C. School Trustees' Association said teachers on the Gulf Islands will receive a 2.45 per cent increase.

In Sooke, rural Saanich, Lake Cowichan, Ladysmith, Qualicum, Alberni, Courtenay and Ucluelet-Tofino the increase will be 2.5 per cent.

Twenty-two of the province's 83 school districts now have settled on salary scales.

Poison Gases Brewed

PRETORIA (AP)—South African defence scientists are working on "deadly gases known to be capable of massive devastation comparable with the nuclear bomb," says Professor L. J. Le Roux, vice-president of the National Council for Scientific and Industrial Research.

Speaking Wednesday at a meeting of the Association for Advancement of Science, Le Roux said gas was coming back as a low-cost military weapon of frightening destructive power.

Le Roux said South Africa's defence research council realized chemical and bacteriological warfare no longer was as impracticable as it had been during the early stages of the Second World War, and a special group of scientists are learning everything there is to know about virulent poisons such as Tabun, Soman and Sarin developed in Nazi Germany and now known to be in Russian hands.

These poisons, he added, are capable of being delivered in a vast quantity by aircraft or long-range missile, and then can have a destructive effect similar to that of a nuclear bomb of 20 megatons

'Please, No Smoke Screen

OTTAWA (CP) — A 16-man delegation of Quebec Liberal MPs from Quebec marched in a body through a light drizzle from Parliament Hill to say that the biculturalism inquiry "must not constitute a smoke-screen to delay the eradical changes required."

Jean - Pierre Cote, member for Longueuil, spokesman for the group, read a statement which said every Canadian "should have access to French or English culture, according to his choice, throughout the country."
